TERRIFIC DAMAGE BY TYPHOON

Many Dead in Colony When Fire Adds To Swift Storm Terror

SHIP PLUNGES ASHORE ON BUND AND REVENUE OFFICERS SAVE CREW STRUGGLING ASHORE

Kausing Ashore on Green Island and Asama Maru Wrecked in Junk Bay

At least fifteen people are dead as a result of the worst single catastrophe of the typhoon—a fire and building collapse in the thickly congested West Point area. Many sampan people are believed to have perished.

Shortly after the No. 10 signal was hoisted fire broke out in 135 Connaught Road West, and fanned by the fierce wind, the flames spread too quickly for the rain. The adjoining properties were soon aflame and fire fighters were practically powerless as they had to wade shoulder-deep in the swirling waters that came over the sea wall.

The building collapsed about 5 a.m. and at 8 a.m. 15 bodies had been recovered, but many more are believed to have been swept away.

Building collapses took a considerable toll of life. A man and a child were killed when a house was razed at the corner of Ma Tau Wei and Ko Fah Wan Roads, Kowloon, and one man was killed and several injured as a result of a collapse at 47, Third Street.

The luxury Japanese liner Asama Maru, which was sheltering in Junk Bay was helpless in the fierce gale and ran ashore in the vicinity of where the Sunning was wrecked in the typhoon last year. Rescue parties by sea and land immediately set out in an attempt to save the large number of lives at stake.

According to a radio received from the Asama Maru the liner is aground in Sailing Bay, a small cove in Junk Bay. No details have been received of her damage.

There are no passengers aboard as the ship was undergoing overhaul in Talkoo Dock and was removed last night to ride the typhoon in Kowloon Bay with only a skeleton crew aboard.

INDIA SENDS OUT S.O.S.
The steamer India sent out an S.O.S. for assistance saying she was out of control.

Damage to Shipping
The Police Training School again suffered and the entire fence was levelled while on the same corner hoardings were down and a 10-ft brick wall collapsed. Further out towards Taiipo the entire scaffolding from a building in the course of construction completely blocked the road.

There all that was to be seen of her. The numerous ships moored between Lai-chikok and Stonecutters appeared, however, to have done fairly well and although two river steamers had blown together and periodically struck one another, the other ships including one of the new Siamese warships were safe.

Waterloo Road Danger
Kowloon Tong suffered severely. Some streets were under three feet of water, numerous garden walls were blown down and almost 50 per cent. of roofs were damaged.

During the night Waterloo Road was made quite impassable by the numerous sheets of corrugated iron which skinned from one end to the other.

Scene of Chaos
The waterfront along Connaught Road was a scene of chaos. Most of the wharves were either smashed or under water, while an unusual sight was witnessed at the Luen Cheong Wharf, where the stern of the river steamer An Lee was blown right up to the quay wall. The bow was under water. It was learned that the incident occurred about 3 a.m., and no-one was injured.

The Jardine Wharf, the Ping On Wharf, the Matco Steamboat Wharf, and the Douglas Wharf were all badly damaged, particularly the first named, which was blown to bits. The terrific force of the gale could be gauged from the fact that the iron sign-boards at the Tin Yat wharf were blown right across the street to the Western Market.

The side-wall of No. 7 Godown of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company at Western Street was blown down, while the roof and verandah of the houses on the also collapsed. No one was injured.

AVERTED CRISIS

Brussels, Sept. 1.
The anticipated cabinet crisis has been averted.

Trouble arose yesterday owing to differences between the Finance Minister and the Prime Minister, owing to the latter's connection with the state bank. The case will be judged by Parliament next week, which is being specially summoned.

European Rescue Party Does Great Work

SHIPS' CREWS & CHILDREN SAVED DURING HEIGHT OF GALE

Magnificent work was accomplished by a party of Revenue Officers and Police sergeants along the Praya. Seven of them—C. P. O. Buller, Mr. W. Ward, Sub-Inspector Goddard, Sergt. Davis, Sergt. Scott, Sergt. Hayward and Mr. Ellis—linked together by ropes, ventured out in the treacherous weather to rescue crews from scuppered ships, and to save little children who were stranded in huts along the Praya.

Darkness added to the terror of the night and the tremendous difficulties confronting the rescue party. Nevertheless they succeeded in saving some 70 lives, all of whom received treatment for various injuries, none of them very serious, in the Imports and Exports Department.

FIRE IN WEST PT. KILLS 15

Nine Big Blocks Burned Out
Fireman Waded Through Flood

Nine four-storey buildings in West Point were destroyed by a disastrous fire which broke out at the height of the storm this morning. Though the exact number of casualties is not known, it is believed the loss of lives is heavy. From 15 to 20 bodies were picked up by members of the Fire Brigade, but as they were being piled up on the roadway ready to be removed to the Public Mortuary, huge waves came along and washed them all into the sea.

The premises involved were 131-139 Connaught Road West. The Central Fire Station received the first call shortly before 4 a.m. and fire appliances were immediately rushed to the scene, under the supervision of Mr. J. C. Fitzgibbon, Acting Superintendent.

The outbreak started, it is believed, at No. 131, the ground floor of which was occupied by the Tak Sang, rice-dealer. On the arrival of the fire engines, the blaze had already spread to the adjoining two houses. The fire-fighters were rendered helpless by the strong winds, but eventually succeeded in bringing two hoses into action. Unfortunately, by this time, the other houses had also been ignited, while those where the outbreak started were burning through. The street was flooded and the handicap under which the members of the Fire Brigade had to work could be gauged by the fact that the water was at one time up to the waists of the men.

BODIES WASHED AWAY

Nevertheless, they succeeded in recovering a number of dead bodies, which, however, were washed to the sea. By 8 a.m. the fire was under control, but flames were seen among the smouldering embers.

As the fire engines arrived, a woman with baby on her back was seen to jump from the top story of one of the buildings. Both she and the child were killed instantaneously. Up to the time of going to press, no other bodies, apart from those already mentioned, had been recovered. The number of survivors could not be ascertained owing to the fact that many of them had fled terror-stricken from the scene.

The ground floors of the buildings in question were occupied mostly by rice-dealers, and there were also two garages.

CHINESE SHIP DRIVEN ASHORE

STORM BREAKS RECORDS

The typhoon was so intense that the wind velocity was beyond the recording limit of the anemograph at the Observatory, which records up to 125 miles an hour.

The barometer fell to a new record low reading.

Five inches of rain fell before 7.30 a.m.

STOP PRESS

There were six small Chinese steamers moored in Kowloon Bay last night but this morning four had disappeared and two are aground. The Eng Lee is hard aground adjacent to the Kowloon Football Club. The Feng Lee is aground just outside the northern end of Kowloon Dock. She is well out of the water.

COLLAPSE FATALITIES

Five bodies have so far been recovered in the collapse at 47 Third Street, which occurred shortly after 3 a.m. Several persons were also injured.

TYPHOON LATEST

No. 9 police launch is reported to be missing but it is not known whether there was any crew on board.

In Tokwa Road, Hunghom, opposite Bailey's shipyard, a Chinese hut has collapsed, resulting in the death of three people.

Star ferries have resumed service.

MUTINY ON SHIP?

London, Sept. 1.
H.M.S. Broke left Plymouth at midnight to investigate a radio report that the South African steamer Sherardson, "two hundred miles away, had trouble aboard, described as 'almost a mutiny and sabotage'." The Broke expects to reach the steamer at 7 a.m. (British Standard Time).—Reuter.

DUTCH VESSEL SINKING

Police Attempt Rescue

FEARS FOR PASSENGERS AND CREW

One of the most dramatic typhoon messages received by the Water Police was that at 6.39 a.m. which reported that the steamship Van Heutsz is sinking off Green Island with a number of passengers aboard.

No assistance was at hand, but every effort was being made, stated the Police, to despatch a rescue boat.

The Van Heutsz is a well known ship in Hongkong, being a J.C.L.L. passenger steamer on the Swatow, Amoy, Hongkong, Singapore run.

Fears are felt for the safety of her crew and passengers.

The Government tug, Kausing, after reporting that she was drifting off West Point at 5.08 a.m. signalled later that she was drifting helplessly towards Green Island, with her steering gear out of order, and unable to get into wireless communication.

At least another ten vessels are known either to be aground or in distress.

TILAWA ASHORE

Prominent among them is the Tilawa, which reported at 7.55 that she was ashore at Devil's Peak.

The Hunan is adrift in Hongkong harbour, but her actual position has not yet been determined.

The steamship Severn Leigh has reported that at 6.20 a.m. she was drifting about the harbour helplessly.

The steamer Hsinting was reported at 7.30 to be aground on the south side of Capsing Lighthouse.

The Sunten, another steamer, reported at 6.33 a.m. that she was drifting in the harbour near the southeast corner of Tsing Island.

TYMARIC IS AGROUND

Down at Talkoo and North Point, numbers of vessels are grounded or left high and dry in the shallow waters. The Tymaric is ashore stern first near the Banks' bathing shed.

The Hong Kong is aground with a list near the Talkoo Sugar Refinery. Some 20 odd sampans have been sunk in the Causeway Bay refuge, and the damage to these small craft has been wholesale in the Shaukiwan, Causeway Bay, North point areas.

Inspector Rogers Injured

NO MORE TROOPS FOR NORTH

JAPANESE THINK NUMBER ENOUGH

Tientsin, Sept. 2.

Japanese troop movements to North China have been virtually completed, the leaders believing them strong enough for any exigency.

The number of Japanese forces in North China is estimated at 120,000, and is possibly more.

The territory from Kaigan to the sea is now actually occupied with military forces, deployed defensively, and also retaining mobile offensive troops where needed.

Peking is daily becoming more impregnable with gun emplacements on permanent foundations replacing the earlier hasty defences.

The suspension of reinforcements has eased the tension in the concessions where Japanese conduct has caused frequent protests. The British concession is strengthening the outer barricades despite Japanese assurances that troops will avoid the British concession.

It has been revealed that some Tokyo taxi-drivers have been assigned to trucks and have been responsible for much of the reckless driving in Tientsin.—United Press.

TWO WASHOUTS ON RAILWAY TRAIN SERVICE IS SUSPENDED

The Kowloon-Canton Railway suffered damage from the gale, although at 8.30 this morning Railway officials could not accurately estimate its extent.

Two washouts on the line were reported between Shatin and Taiipo, but how serious they are has not yet been ascertained.

However, the entire train service has been suspended, and the head office is awaiting further reports as to the extent of the damage.

HOLLYWOOD'S Glamour King

Specially for Women

tells you how to
STAR your BEAUTY

Right Make-up TYPE No. 1 Wrong Make-up

FORTUNATE indeed is the woman who possesses the perfect oval face. It is the "ideal" type which most women try to achieve by hair style and make-up. The illustration above shows the correct hair style and make-up for this type, the left half of the picture indicating the way to apply the make-up, and the right the finished effect.

THE guiding rule should be to preserve as many oval lines as possible. Keep the hair style simple. A centre parting suits this type, and the widow's peak, so often seen on an oval-shaped face, should not be concealed.

KEEP the natural line of the eyebrows, but continue the arch at the outer corners, if necessary, to taper off just above the level of the corner of the eye. At the inner corner the brows should end immediately above the tear duct. Strengthen slightly with pencil.

PLUCKING the eyebrows very rigorously can cause severe strain, for the brows should be left with fine hairs that spoil the smooth curve of the brows, taking these, as far as possible, from below the arch.

IN rouging, follow the oval outline of the cheek, as indicated in the chart above. Carry the rouge lightly up under the eye and blend away the lids or apply mascara to the towards the temple. See that the lips lower lashes.

The Oval Face

Example: Kay Francis

EVERY face falls within one of seven categories—oval, round, oblong, square, diamond, triangle, or inverted triangle. To which do you belong? In this article, Hollywood's famous make-up expert describes the correct way to make up, and the most becoming hairdressing for women of the oval-face type. A shining example of to-day's type is Kay Francis. Other perfect ovals are Barbara Stanwyck and Claire Trevor.

There is a wide choice of hair styles for the oval-faced woman, but there are certain things which you must not do. The girl on the right, at the top of the page, has done just the wrong thing with make-up. On the left, you see the correct make-up for the type.

LARGE eyes, a splendid feature, often grace this oval type. If too prominent, however, they may throw the face out of balance. Mascara on the upper lashes lightly and apply eye-chart above. Carry the rouge lightly up under the eye and blend away the lids or apply mascara to the towards the temple. See that the lips lower lashes.

If you are the oval type—
Don't part your hair too low, a centre parting is, in fact, best. Take care not to draw the hair back too tightly from the forehead.

Don't wear a fringe or a low wave. These make the face rounder.

Don't arch your eyebrows too high, as this makes the eyes appear smaller.

Don't pluck the eyebrows too thin nor give them a heavy, square appearance.

Don't apply rouge in a circle like the girl above has.

Don't rouge the chin. Rouge should not come too near the nose.

Don't make up your lips into either a Cupid's bow or a rosebud shape. Neither suits the oval type.

Don't use too heavy a lipstick.

Don't use rouge at all if your hair and eyes are dark. The perfect oval needs no contour correction.

Special Problem. One problem of contour which may occur in any of the seven types of face is the receding chin. In order to bring a too small chin into correct proportion, powder it FIRST, using a lighter shade of powder than for the rest of the face.

FURNITURE IS MORE FANCIFUL
Prettiness Replacing Severely Plain Designs

By Madge Ames

AFTER the elaborate ugliness of the Victorian and Edwardian periods, the resultant revolution in furnishing and indeed in almost every other type of design was almost inevitable.

We made a bonfire of every one of these over-elaborate monstrosities of design and conception and left our rooms bare for all the world to see. The twists of chromium plated metal and the queer blocks of wood which we dubbed tables and chairs, were as naked and unashamed as the cold walls which surrounded them.

After the pretences and the smugness with which we endowed— and not without some reason—the previous era, we felt suspicious of anything but the most brutal truth. And, of course, the loveliness of our homes suffered in consequence.

Homes Really Beautiful

BUT having gone from one extreme to another, the trend of thought in this respect is now taking a middle and more normal course, and once again real beauty is beginning to make itself apparent in our homes. Simplicity is, as always, the keynote of design in modern furnishing, but beauty has its place, not only in line, but in various forms of decoration.

The walls may be plain, colour washed in a pleasing shade, but the

Without Fussiness

"PRETTINESS" is no longer despised—though "fussiness" may be of the softest and thickest of satin or rayon, decorated with a charming design in soft colourings.

Futuristic designs—forecasts indeed of a future which happily never materialised—in strange colours upon linen have given way to flowered linens in all the lovely clear or soft colours which the modern dyer has prepared for our delight.

Old fashioned glazed chintz takes on a new and charming air when it has been treated in the latest manner, and shows bright little patterns upon the quaintly stiff, satiny fabric. So, we no longer despise these old ideas as being unworthy of our consideration. We are no longer afraid to make use of them. Having recovered from our fierce hatred of everything pertaining to that particular era, we regard it with new, and perhaps more understanding eyes, and we find strange bits of beauty among its over-crowded clutter.

Borrowed Glass

THE charm of Edwardian nappery and also the exquisite glass of that period decorate our tables in place of its "modernistic" accessories of a few years ago. Many new cloths are reproduced from the older designs, and all the beauty of hand-embroidery enhances the loveliness of some of the latest table linen.

Much of the china which finds favour at the moment is frankly of Victorian design, and happy is she who possesses a set of genuine Victorian china decorated with the dainty little posies of that period.

Prettier Shoes Without Toes

THE newest line in evening frocks shows the shorter skirt, which reveals more of our feet and ankles than we have been used to seeing, when dressed for the evening.

It is natural, then, that we should like to wear the loveliest stockings and shoes which are to be had. Sandals, with high or low heels, are much worn in the evening, and most of them are toe-less. With this type of sandal, the new, very fine stockings, with open-work lace toes, are worn. They show no reinforcement to spoil the line of the foot, which is visible through the lace stockings.

Some of the new sandals have vampis which are cut so high that they more than make up for the lack of material around the toes. A pair of brocade sandals has a high front composed of a series of straps reaching almost to the ankle and leaving the toes bare. Gilt fabric is used in a similar manner, and there are many cocktail sandals made of coloured suede.

Buttons On Belts

BUTTONS are a smart trimming for all kinds of purposes. One way of using them is for the decoration of belts.

A length of petersham ribbon of a suitable colour should be chosen, and tiny buttons with two or four holes should be sewn at intervals along the belt in two or three slanting rows side by side.

Navy blue petersham with alternate rows of red and white buttons, or white ribbon with red and green buttons are two suggestions.

Leave Kiddies To Themselves

IF people would but leave children to themselves; if teachers would cease to bully them; if parents would not insist upon directing their thoughts, and dominating their feelings—these feelings and thoughts which are a mystery to all (for how much do you and I know of each other, of our children, of our fathers, of our neighbour, and how far more beautiful and sacred are the thoughts of the poor lad or girl whom you govern likely to be, than those of the dull and world-corrupted person who rules him?)—if, I say, parents and masters would leave their children alone a little more, small harm would accrue, although a less quantity of as-in-praesent might be acquired.—W. M. THACKERAY.

Making Up

Sew up seams. Work a tightening row of double crochet round top of booties and mitts, then an edging of tiny scallops formed of 4 chain and a slip stitch at regular intervals all along. Press edging, and thread ribbon in ankles and wrists. Work a flower (each one made by five lazy-daisy stitches) in each half and each full diamond at edge of booties and mitts.

MITTS & BOOTEES to match the coat we gave Recently

The Mitts

2nd row: K. 5, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * until 4 remain, m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 2.
4th row: P. 5th row: K. 6th row: P. 7th row: K. 3, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 2, repeat from * until 2 remain, m. 1, k. 2 tog.
8th row: P. 9th row: K. 10th row: P. 11th row: K. 1, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * to end. Repeat 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th rows.
20th row: P. 4 and p. 2 tog., all across, finishing p. 1 (41 sts.) Work in rib of k. 1, p. 1 for 4 rows, then a row of holes thus:—K. 2 tog. and m. 1 all across, ending k. 1. Work back in rib of p. 1, k. 1. Knit in rib of k. 1, p. 1 for 19 rows. Keeping in rib shape for top of hand as follows:—1st row: K. tog. every 6th and 7th st. to last 6, k. 6. 2nd row and alternate rows: Rib.
3rd row: K. tog. every 5th and 6th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 5th row: K. tog. every 4th and work backwards and forwards on the 5th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 7th row: K. 2 tog. every 3rd and 4th row, finishing k. 2 tog.
9th row: K. 2 tog. every 2nd and of needle towards instep, pick up and 3rd st. finishing k. 2 tog. Break off knit 12 sts. along side of instep piece wool and run through the remaining and knit 3 of the sts. at end of instep piece. With another needle knit remaining 8 sts. of instep piece, pick up and knit 12 along second side and knit 16 remaining at ankle, working along along both needles.

Work as for mitts until the row of holes has been completed, but in 20th row purl without decreasing. After the holes work 3 rows in rib.
Now work a tiny piece for instep as follows:—K. 16 and slip on to piece of tog. rib 25, k. 2 tog. in rib 4 times, wool (these sts. are for side), then rib 25, k. 2 tog.

Cast off 23, then cast off next 8 by knitting 2 tog. Cast off last 23.

Making Up

Sew up seams. Work a tightening row of double crochet round top of booties and mitts, then an edging of tiny scallops formed of 4 chain and a slip stitch at regular intervals all along. Press edging, and thread ribbon in ankles and wrists. Work a flower (each one made by five lazy-daisy stitches) in each half and each full diamond at edge of booties and mitts.

Search For Snow At North Pole

SCIENTISTS SAY: "WE LONG FOR COLD WEATHER"

London, Aug. 7.

A MESSAGE that floated over the ether to Moscow yesterday has shattered one of mankind's oldest and dearest illusions.

For the past two weeks the radio messages sent out every day by the four Russian scientists who are spending a year on a drifting ice-floe near the North Pole have been confined to the briefest weather bulletins.

Last night, however, Radio North Pole followed up the Weather Forecast with the First News, just like the B.B.C. And the first news from the North Pole was this:

"The North Pole is facing a severe shortage of snow. . . . All the snow has melted from our camp. We have had to go out and search for fresh supplies."

Now, can you beat that? What a topsy-turvy world we live in, to be sure! In England, snugly planted in the warm Temperate Zone, holiday crowds setting off for the seaside this week-end are longing for warm weather. And away up at the very edge of beyond of the Arctic Zone, they are longing for cold weather.

Something must have happened, and, anxious to conserve the battery power, the scientists reduced their messages to the minimum.

In any case, an impenetrable fog has obscured the sky, preventing astronomical observations, so that the scientists would have very little to report.

"We are bored," complains Papanin, leader of the party in his latest message. "The flood has slowed up our work. Yesterday we enjoyed (1) our first wet snowfall. We are longing for cold weather."

Already before the Russians annexed the Pole, learned people told us there was a warm current of air over the polar regions, about two miles up.

But nobody listened to them, and the world continued to shiver at the mention of the North Pole. Now, however—as we think of those four sweltering Russians searching for snow all round the Pole—we really must believe the learned people at last.

A ROARING STREAM
Whatever the reason, the fact is that it has been thawing at the Pole, and the scientists have watched the snow layer on their ice-floe melt away until there was none left and they were compelled to organise a sledge expedition and go out exploring for a supply of snow with which to cover their camp.

Moreover, a roaring stream of water, six feet wide, now flows directly in front of the scientists' domicile.

The thaw began two weeks ago. It created a net work of criss-crossing streams, leaving the camp and supply depots perched precariously on pedestals of ice.

The scientists have not been daunted by these strange happenings. They report that they are taking advantage of the "flood" to test their "fleet," consisting of canoes and an inflated rubber sail-boat which can carry a ton of cargo.

With the thaw the wind fell and the westward drift of the ice-floe stopped. The wind-driven generator of Radio North Pole also stopped.

We Are Now Spending More

People are spending more, according to the retail trade returns for June, published in the Board of Trade Journal. They show that the money value of daily sales was 4.8 per cent. above that in June, 1936, which, in turn, was 4.7 per cent. above the level of June, 1935.

This increase is much smaller than that of 13.2 per cent. recorded for May, owing in part to the incidence of the Whit-sun-tide holiday in June, 1936, and in May, 1937, and to the Coronation celebrations this year.

Total sales for the first five months of the trading year were 8.2 per cent. above those for the corresponding period of 1936.

BASQUE BOYS ATTACK POLICE

Carmarthen, Aug. 7. BASQUE children at the Ministry of Labour camp at Brechfa, Carmarthenshire, came into conflict with the police this evening.

Barrels of tar placed on the roadside by county council workmen between the village and the camp were removed by the children and placed across the road to act as a barricade.

When Police-Constable David Evans, of Pencader, was travelling along in a car, unaware of the obstruction, one of the Basques threw a stone which missed the officer's head only by inches. Police reinforcements, now stationed in the village, rushed up, and the Basques, many of whom were armed with knives and heavy sticks, scattered.

Some of them ran across fields with police and civilians in pursuit. The police eventually got all the children back to the camp.

GUARDED ROADS
When I visited the scene this evening I found about a dozen police on duty in the village and on the roads leading to the camp, writes a special correspondent.

They had in their possession a large number of knives taken from the boys.

It appears obvious that only a number of the refugees are violent, and while the skirmish with the police was proceeding this evening many of the children were in tears.

The people in the district declare that they are in bodily fear, and one of them said to me: "For heaven's sake take them from here, because we are afraid to go to bed at night."

To-night's trouble followed incidents late last night, when 76 of the children marched into the village and stoned the Forest Arms Hotel and another house, breaking the windows.

FOR THIRD MARRIAGE—Virginia Cherrill, former screen actress, who will marry the Earl of Jersey soon, according to intentions filed in London. Miss Cherrill, who played the lead in Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," was formerly married to Irving Adler, a Chicago business man, and to Cary Grant, screen star, in 1932. They were divorced a year later.

101 Murder Victims In a Year

DURING 1936 the police of England and Wales dealt with 87 cases of murder, involving 101 victims aged one year or over;

In 41 cases involving 50 murdered persons the murderer or suspect committed suicide;

Eight persons were executed, and seven death sentences were commuted to penal servitude.

These figures are given in the Home Office Criminal Statistics for 1936, issued last month.

The number of persons found guilty of offences of all kinds was 759,423, an increase of 101,660 offences compared with 1934.

Other points in the report are: Suicide: The number of persons committing suicide was 5,156, or 330 fewer than in 1934. The greatest number of men committed suicide after the age of 60, while for women the age was between 50 and 60.

Suicides by children under 16 numbered 8, two being girls. In all, 3,498 men committed suicide and 1,656 women. Twenty-eight girls under 16 tried to end their lives, compared with six boys.

218 BIRCHINGS
Breaking and Entering: Sixty-four per cent. of the 8,339 persons found guilty of breaking and entering were under 17, and 38 per cent. were under 14.

Drunkenness: Persons found guilty of drunkenness numbered 47,224, or 3,577 more than in the previous year.

Crime: The incidence of crime was nearly eight times greater among males than among females.

Corporal Punishment: In view of the appointment by the Home Secretary of the Committee on Corporal Punishment, figures are given showing that the number of such sentences imposed in the last 10 years by courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions was 253, of which 235 were for robbery with violence.

The number of birchings in 1935 was 218.

The report stresses the value of the probation system, and expresses the hope that its use will be extended.

Traffic Held Up

Motor traffic along Queen's Road East, from Wellington Barracks to Garden Road, was held up for some considerable time, owing to the floods. Several cars attempted to cross, but were left stranded after going half-way. By 8.30 a.m., however, the water had subsided enough for traffic to be resumed.

Trees in the military area, and around the Hongkong Cricket Club were up-rooted, while Scandal point, higher up, presented a scene of desolation.

Similar scenes were witnessed along the waterfront in Wanchoi, where the charge-room of No. 2 Police Station was flooded.

Repulse Bay Struck

Repulse Bay felt the full fury of the storm. Most of the matcheds have been either demolished or badly damaged. Several of the more substantial sheds were also badly suffered.

The Lido Lady, which rode out the typhoon last year, was on this occasion driven ashore near the Lido, broadside on. Beach Road is a tangled mass of uprooted trees, whilst there has been a fairly big landslide at the western end of the new wing of Repulse Bay Hotel.

Two junks, both dismasted, are anchored in the bay, having apparently managed to ride out the storm. There are said to be ten people on board. Near shore the masts of what appear to be a small yacht are showing above the water line.

During the early morning, the electric light and telephone services were suddenly cut off throughout the Repulse Bay district. The normal road via Wongachong Gap is impassable for small cars, although strewn at various points with uprooted trees and boulders which have fallen down the hillside.

Telephones Damaged

Hongkong Telephone Company cables were badly damaged at many telephones on Hongkong and Kowloon were out of order.

The Peak tram-lines were covered with tree trunks and branches, causing a delay in the service. By 10 a.m., however, the debris was cleared, and the service was resumed shortly afterwards.

The Hongkong Tramway service has not yet been started, and the resumption will depend on the typhoon signals, it was learned on enquiries.

Sampan Fleet Wrecked

From Shaikwan to the Central district, Hongkong, presents scenes of savage destruction. Incalculable damage has been done in the typhoon shelter at Causeway Bay. Shattered hulks of sunken sampans and junks litter the bay. Torn tram lines disrupted the service. The Navy Football enclosure is no more.

The force of the wind was such that the steel lamp-posts along the roadside at Causeway Bay were bent at angles of thirty degrees to the roadway. Huge branches from the trees in Causeway Bay were found as far down as the Wanchoi district.

The greatest damage was sustained by the floating population at Shaikwan and Causeway Bay. Huge mooring ropes across the road from junks in Causeway Bay were of little use. At Shaikwan the full force of the wind was felt, blowing right into the shelter there. The death toll at Shaikwan was not known yet. There were two houses collapsed, while almost every Chinese house in the Shaikwan village was levelled to the ground.

Blocked with leaves and other debris, the gutters along Queen's Road East and part of Queen's Road Central have turned the roadway into a miniature pond with the water about two feet deep. The Wanchoi district is denuded of its numerous signboards.

Telephonic communication with Stanley has been disrupted. Expresses to the south and east the full force of the gale must have been felt there but no particulars of damage can be obtained.

KOWLOON DAMAGE.

Practically every shop in the lower end of Nathan Road had its plate glass windows blown in five o'clock this morning, and the footpaths were a mass of debris, damaged window displays and broken foliage.

Lane, Crawford's store was wide open with the contents of the shop quickly ruined by the floods of water washed in by the gale.

Marcel Cafe and Kowloon Confectionery were in a similar plight.

The low-lying areas around the Peninsula Hotel were flooded, the waters being two feet deep in the immediate vicinity of the hotel, and

Shortly after dawn there were signs that the gale was decreasing in force, although a fierce wind continued to sweep the Colony, leaving destruction in its wake.

At 7.20 a.m. the No. 8 signal (gale expected from S.E.) was hoisted.

LOCAL GODOWNS

CARGOES MOUNT UP AS WAR CONTINUES

To-day Hongkong is experiencing a shipping boom which has not been equaled for over ten years. Unfortunately the losses being incurred for the very same reasons which the boom is occurring—almost counteract any gains.

On an average there are almost 100 overseas coastal ships in harbour each day of which nearly half are simply lying in Hongkong waiting for the war to be concluded before taking up their normal schedules. Many of these ships are visiting Hongkong for the first time, or the first time in many years, and normally ply in northern waters, most of them carrying coal. Numerous coal laden ships were en route to Shanghai when the war broke out and were diverted here.

Meantime the ships which carried cargo for Shanghai and have been unable to unload there have left their cargo here or are waiting to be loaded. The hangar at Kai Tak has been called into service and large quantities of paper are being stored there, while non-perishable cargo is in many cases being left in the open or under temporary shelters. Lighters are almost impossible to obtain now and the few available can only be hired at nearly 1,000 per cent. over the normal rate.

Some of the larger vessels in port yesterday included:

Talamba, Ward, India, Arabia, Maru, Nagura, Dulsburg, Van Heuts, Gertrude Maersk, Emmy, Severn, Elgin, Tunda, C. St. Francis, Shantung, Baden, Great Northern, Argon Maru, Kiangsu, Norviken, Suiyang, Woolgar, Prominent, Nanchang, Kinying, Helos, Yingchow, Chekiang, Yochow, Shantung, Huiyuan, Bonning, Court, Deike, Rickmers, Ursula Rickmers, Hoh, Hsing, Hai Yang, Luhsing, Hsin Ping, Haven, Hui Shant, Sagres, Hwah Chong, Hen Li, Dah Chong, Pronto, Kongso, Sul Tai, Sal On, Kwong Tung, Kinshan, Tishan, Tin Sang, Rangpura, Kiangsu, Tishan, Foyle, Kiangsu, President, Lincoln, Maron, Ajax, Bonneville, Fernbrook, Olden, Argon, Anshun, Cortu, Asama Maru, Anking, Nanning, Tasman, G. SHANGHAI TRADE

Shipping Begins to Move On Limited Basis

Merchant shipping in Shanghai is beginning to creep out of its shelter now that there have been several days of comparative quiet along the Whangpoo River and near Woosung. Sailings and arrivals still have to be scheduled on a day to day basis owing to the uncertainty of the war situation, but it can no longer be said that merchant shipping here is at a complete standstill.

After being held up at Woosung for some time, the Hsin Pekin came up the river and, after taking on board 1,200 refugees, passengers, sailed again in the evening for Ningpo. When she returns to Shanghai, the present arrangement is to despatch her to Swatow with a heavy load of passengers.

The Hunan, also of the China Navigation Company, has entered port and is scheduled to sail for Hongkong and Canton. The Shengking is now to sail for Tsingtao, Weihaiwei and Chefoo.

The greatest difficulty for the Butterfield vessels in using Shanghai harbour at present is the unusual congestion at and just off the French Bund. The boom just above their wharves, the numerous foreign warships and the closely congested lighters, tugs, etc., makes it almost impossible for the Butterfield vessels to swing and the tie up in that part of the river.

AIRMAN'S INQUEST

EVIDENCE OF FREQUENT DEFAULTS AT WORK

Evidence that he was dissatisfied with his life in the Royal Air Force and had considered several means of obtaining his discharge, was given at the renewed inquest yesterday on 2nd Class Aircraftman George Bernard Chisholm-Elliams, 22, who was found hanging in a drying room at the Kai Tak R.A.F. Station on July 30.

The inquest is being conducted by Mr. K. M. A. Barnett before the following jurors: Messrs. B. C. Randall (Foreman), W. L. Ramsey, Wong Yin-nin.

In reply to questions, he said deceased had appeared to him to have a superiority complex and to "live on his wits." He had no particular friends because hardly anybody would have anything to do with him.

Squadron Leader MacCullum: Were you surprised at what happened?

Witness: Yes, I did not think he was that type.

Witness: I thought it was done more or less to create a sensation.

You last saw him at 6 p.m. on the night he was found dead. Was your conversation with him a pleasant one?—No, I had to check him off for improperly dressed on duty.

Witness: He was a defaulter at the time owing to some minor offence. His punishment consisted of reporting periodically during the day at the Guard Room.

He had asked to think then that he would be put on a charge?—No, I merely warned him.

Had Some Debts

Witness added that the man appeared normal at that time.

In reply to questions by the Foreman and the Police, witness said he had not heard Chisholm-Elliams mention suicide. He was aware that he had a few debts, but they did not seem to worry him.

The Magistrate remarked that he had some bills before him.

Cpl. W. Law said Aircraftman G. N. Cunningham told him in a very agitated manner that Chisholm-Elliams had been found with a rope round his neck and he went to give assistance.

Cunningham said he was washing about 10.30 p.m. when Chisholm-Elliams passed him without a remark. Normally he would have said "Good night." Later, witness saw him leaning on the balcony at the barrack room, but nothing was said. Witness then heard a voice call for Aircraftman Lillie and witness woke up Lillie and told him he was wanted. Lillie came out of the drying room a few minutes later and told him to fetch Cpl. Law.

Witness denied that he told Law that Chisholm-Elliams had been found with a rope round his neck. At that time, he did not know what had happened and he could not explain why Law had given evidence to the contrary.

Deceased was not popular with his mates.

Aircraftman T. Lillie said Cunningham awakened him and said something was wrong, but gave witness the impression that the Sergeant Major had met with an accident. He went to investigate and saw that the body had already been found.

Squadron Leader MacCullum: Did deceased ever speak to you of his Service career?

Witness: Yes, I gathered from him that he thought he would have done better for himself as an officer. He had been offered a commission but he had refused it because he thought he could not get a commission.

Frequently In Trouble

Was he prepared to wager that he would be out before the end of the year?—Yes, he offered to bet a pound.

Was he in normal spirits a few hours before midnight?—Yes, he asked me to call him early for defaulters' parade.

Is it right to say that he was frequently in trouble with the authorities and that discipline has had to be tightened up and other airmen have been affected because of this?—Yes, he did not seem to care about us.

Witness said that he spoke to Chisholm-Elliams about 10.30 p.m. when he said he expected to be charged with insubordination. He thought a serious view might be taken of it and he might undergo detention, but he did not seem to be unduly worried.

Leading Aircraftman R. Holton said he was a friend of Chisholm-Elliams, who used to ask him about ways of getting out of Service. Witness suggested he might take a few weeks' holiday and go to the United States, but Chisholm-Elliams wanted to try some prescription which would render him unconscious in order that he might be court-martialed for attempted suicide and discharged.

Witness told him the names of various poisons, but did not offer to help him carry out his scheme and told him he was a fool. Chisholm-Elliams said he thought the best way would be to cut off his left hand under the electric saw in the workshop.

Fourth Dimension

There was some talk of the fourth dimension a few days before the hanging. Chisholm-Elliams asked him what was meant by this phrase, and after witness had given him the idea that it meant time, he suggested: "I suppose it could not be a rope?"

Witness asked him what he meant and he said: "Wait and see."

In reply to questions, witness said he did not believe that Chisholm-Elliams really meant to take his life. He wanted to make a "frank up."

Aircraftman C. H. Stanley said witness was looking forward to a celebration dinner which was to come off shortly. He had asked witness for a loan of £40, which was refused, the refusal being taken in good part. Deceased was fond of telling tall stories.

Flight-Sgt. C. Smaje said deceased work had been unimpaired. He seemed to have some technical ability but managed to mess up even the most elementary job so that witness was beginning to form the opinion that it was a deliberate intention to shrink. He had asked witness for a loan of £50, which witness "look as a joke."

The hearing was adjourned to the afternoon of September 7.

ROBBERY ON JUNK

SIX MEN CHARGED AT TAIPO COURT

Off High Island on July 31, Kong Chun, master of a junk, was robbed of 37 cases of sugar, 49 lbs of kerosene, a case of matches and articles of clothing. Chan Wing-chol, Tang Sang, Ng Kan, Shek Sang, Ma Fung-yin and Wong Hon, were charged before Mr. J. Barrow, District Officer North, at the Tai Po Police Station yesterday in connection with the crime.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution. Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho appeared for Tang and Mr. D. McCallum represented Chan, Ng and Ma. Mr. Abbott said that on July 10 Kong Chun set out for Hongkong from Plover. The boat reached Shaikwan on July 18 and remained there for 10 days.

Shortly after leaving Shaikwan they ran into bad weather and anchored at Lung Shuen Wan where they stayed throughout July 20 and 30. About 1 a.m. on July 30 Kong was awakened by the noise of someone boarding his boat and he saw a large sampan alongside. On board his boat were four strange men, one of whom held a revolver, two possessed knives and the fourth had a piece of rope. The crew was bound and forced to lie down at the stern where they were covered with matting.

While under the matting they heard the anchor being raised. There was no wind and the robbers started to row. After three hours the boat stopped and two of the robbers took the cargo out of one of the holds. The captured men were then forced into the hold with the cover slightly raised for air. It was about daybreak when the anchor was dropped and about 7 a.m. Kong, peeping through the crack left by the cover, saw a sampan come alongside with two men on board. The goods were sold into that sampan. The sampan then went away.

Between 3 and 4 p.m. Kong and the other three men ventured from the hold and found themselves in a bay in Kongmoon. There was no one else on board. Upon discovering that their goods had been stolen, they weighed anchor and sailed for Shaikwan. On the way they met the No. 1 Police launch and made a report. Their boat was secured to the Police launch and they went to Kongmoon. When they reached Kongmoon, Lam Tai and Lam Wah went ashore with Sub-Inspector Oliver and there arrested first, second, third, fourth and fifth defendants. Sixth defendant was later arrested by Sergeant Kinnear.

Kong, in evidence, substantiated the outline and identified second and third defendants. The crew also corroborated and identified the remaining defendants.

The case was adjourned until September 7 in order to call witnesses for third and sixth accused. Mr. McCallum and Mr. Botelho said they would reserve their defence.

NEW MARKET OPENED

CONCRETE BUILDING IN KENNEDY TOWN

The new wholesale market at the extreme end of Kennedy Town was formally opened on Tuesday. It is situated in Cadogan Street and occupies the site of the malsheds that were once used for pigs and cows for the abattoirs.

The market, a low roofed concrete plastered building, is of modern design and has spacious compartments, which are well ventilated, for the use of the stallholders. It is intended to accommodate the wholesale trade formerly carried on in the Central Market, which building has been condemned.

Market Closes

All the meat, vegetable and fruit stalls in the central market having moved out before Tuesday night.

It is understood that demolition work will be proceeded with immediately.

NO MORE SICK HEADACHES

Keep Your Stomach Clean

If you are a martyr to sick headaches, biliousness, liver upsets and similar disorders, here is news that will cheer you. In the majority of cases the source of the trouble is the stomach, where noxious gases accumulate and interfere with your digestion, poisoning the whole system and making you feel no good for anything. Thousands of sufferers have put an end to all that misery by taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the carton and bottle. This proved readily is gently laxative and helps to expel poisonous, clogging waste matter. Two or three doses are usually sufficient to put your stomach in a clean, healthy condition.

At the first sign of discomfort seek refuge in Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. You can always rely on speedy relief. Do not experiment with cheap substitutes; leave that to others. You can safely put your faith in Maclean Brand—powder or tablets—in bottles in cartons. Never sold loose.

If you have any difficulty in obtaining it from your local chemist or store, write to Banker & Co., P.O. Box 559, Hong Kong.

PROFITEERING

Government's attitude on the question of profiteering in the necessities of life, disclosed at length by the Chairman of the Urban Council, cannot be regarded as wholly satisfactory. It is conceded that stocks are abundant and wholesale prices reasonably low; therefore, the Government hopes for a lowering of retail prices from plentiful competition between retailers. Should retailers combine to raise prices artificially, the Government, it is stated, will not fail to take appropriate action. The Government spokesman goes so far as to say that this method of creating a ring to maintain prices above normal rates is the only sort of activity to which term "profiteering" can properly be applied. The definition will not be generally accepted. If, as is the fact, retail prices are higher than circumstances justify, then there is profiteering, whether it be the result of a combined movement by retailers or not. There may be, in the absence of any "ring," a willingness on the part of some retailers to sell slightly below the rates of others, but, even so, prices in general may rise above the normal level, the increases varying only in degree. If one or two retailers jump up their prices, others will not be slow to follow suit. In course of time, the general rise becomes just as effective as if it resulted from agreed concerted action. There is a further point in the Government attitude which invites dispute, namely, the plea that the only practical alternative to the normal laws of supply and demand is purchase by the Government, and re-sale—a policy which the authorities are averse from adopting. There are, in fact, other methods of food control than that mentioned. In the Great War, Britain adopted a comprehensive scheme which aimed, amongst other things, at keeping food prices within reasonable limits. This was done, through the medium of PROPHETCY is made a ticklish business by the uncertainty, glorious or otherwise, of politics. Who last November in America could have foreseen the facts of the last few weeks.

When Franklin Roosevelt had just won for himself and his party a victory which startled even his friends and stunned his opponents, it was a personal triumph. The country had voted for Roosevelt. Except in the "solid south," Democratic Senators and Congressmen had mostly been carried to Washington on the Roosevelt flood.

If one thing seemed sure it was that whatever the President wanted to do he could do, with the assured and loyal, if not necessarily enthusiastic, support of great majorities in both House and Senate.

That was only eight months ago. But to-day the Senate is in open revolt. The Democratic Party is angrily split. The future is uncertain. And the shattered Republican Party is full of fight and confidence.

All because of the "nine old men."

OF course, everyone knew last autumn that something would have to be done about the Supreme Court.

All legislation in the States is at the mercy of the Court. That comes of having a written Constitution which is something superior to, and overriding, ordinary law. Now the Supreme Court tends to be—perhaps not unnaturally—a highly conservative body. And from 1933 to 1936 it showed itself not only conservative, but die-hard.

As appeal after appeal came to it, it declared act after act of the "New Deal" unconstitutional, and therefore invalid. In these years thirteen cases involving "New Deal" legislation came before it. In eleven of the thirteen its verdict was "unconstitutional."

In a Court of Nine there were only three really progressive-minded justices—Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo. Chief Justice Hughes, a Conservative, but no die-hard, realised the need for change. But even when he joined with the three there was a solid block of five die-hards ready to say "No" at every possible opportunity.

HERE then was the position. A President and a Congress returned with an unquestionable mandate for sweeping reforms. Five of the "nine old men" apparently grimly determined to veto them all. What was to be done?

A Constitutional amendment might take a couple of years to carry (if it could be carried) and the need was urgent.

Roosevelt and his advisers thought of a quicker way. They remembered Asquith and the Lords. Why not overcome the opposition by creating new Judges—as Asquith had threatened to create new Peers. That, as it happened, could be done by ordinary legislation.

So one February morning Roosevelt startled all America by telling his plan to the White House correspondents, gathered for the usual weekly talk in the President's

F. E. BAILY tells YOU how to Keep a MAN happy . . .

THE first essential is to love him. If you love him better than anyone else it is impossible for him to do better for himself elsewhere.

Then get rid of that feminine illusion that a man is only a little boy grown up. He is not. Nor does the way to his heart lie through his stomach. He knows—and you ought to know too—that a brain dulled by heavy food puts him out of the running in these highly competitive days.

various boards working under the Food Ministry, by enforcing a system of maximum prices for various commodities. Such a plan could well be applied to the present situation in Hongkong; it would stop profiteering once and for all during the unusual conditions prevailing. The dominant fact is that, despite reasonably low wholesale prices, consumers are being mulct in higher prices for the necessities of life. If that is not profiteering, we know of no other appropriate term to be applied to the process.

WHAT a man desires most in a woman are romance and fragrance and a charming picture; therefore see that he gets them and suppress firmly your intense desire to unburden your soul about the shortcomings of the kitchen boiler, the tradespeople and the children when he comes home at night.

FROM the beginning of your married life learn how to listen. Men love a woman to listen while they outline their ambitions and ideals.

EVERY husband longs to be considered a tough he-man; and unless it's absolutely unavoidable, never pretend that he is anything else.

Should your husband be ill, do what is necessary for his health and then leave him alone. Only the most hopeless kind of man likes being fussed over.

DON'T be too proud to indicate what things you like to be given, so that if he brings you a present, as all nice husbands do periodically, he won't feel disappointed because you pretend to like something you long to throw in the dustbin.

ON the other hand, there are several things which will turn the most amiable husband into an irritable man with a grievance. The first is trying to "reform" him—as the sort of wife who does that kind of thing calls it. You married the man for what he was. Accept the fact.

THE STORY OF THE CREEL

THE story has already been told how "Margaret," the Newhaven fishwife doll, came to be presented to Princess Margaret Rose, and how the creel was made the receptacle for the donations which came pouring in from the good Newhaven folks for the benefit of the Cripple Children's Hospital.

The story of the creel itself, which completed the outfit, is an interesting one. The creel is correct in the minutest detail, with the spaces for the handgrip and the strap, and so neatly is it made that one could hardly imagine a creelmaker in these strenuous times sitting down to weave by hand the baskets in miniature which compose the outfit.

Twenty-one years ago, during the anxious days of the Great War, a travelling creelmaker knocked at the door of a fisherman's house in Newhaven and offered his wares. Struck by the man's wretched look she said, "You're lookin' awful' tired, ma man. Would ye like a cup o' tea?" He accepted the hospitality gladly, and before going, exhibited the little

Bill had not a chance of passing did the President consent to compromise. A new Bill was produced. Only for each judge over 75 would he appoint an "extra," and then only one a year.

It was insufficient, too late—and unnecessary. Because the country had come to see that after all, for the need of the moment, no change was needed at all. The Supreme Court—or one of it—had decided to give up the struggle.

Sixty-one-year-old Owen Josephus Roberts, one-time Professor of Law in Pennsylvania University, appointed to the Court by Mr. Hoover, had "switched."

AL though the first term Mr. Roberts had voted anti-New Deal. Now Mr. Roberts began to vote pro-New Deal. Van Devanter and McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland stood out. But judgments, instead of five to four against, became five to four for.

Of ten "New Deal" judgments in 1937, ten have been favourable. The President, had he realised it, had got all he wanted.

Of course, it all depended on Owen Josephus Roberts. And he might at any moment switch back. But when Mr. Van Devanter (77) announced his intention of retiring, the situation was clinched.

The fight in the Court was won. But Roosevelt was not content. A new issue had arisen: the revolt in the Senate. The President's prestige and authority (whispered his advisers) were at stake. Party discipline must be restored. The Senate must be made to pass the Compromise Bill.

Roosevelt publicly demanded that it be voted. Farley cracked the party whip more menacingly than ever. Senator Pittman (Vice-President Garner's ally in Texas) startlingly amended procedure by high-handed rulings from the chair. The Administration went all out to coerce the Senate.

And the Senate dug its toes in: fighting now, not so much against the Bill as for its own independence—"freedom of the legislature from control by the Executive." On the decisive vote only 20 Senators out of 90 backed the President.

THE Bill is dead: which, in the circumstances, matters little. The Senate has asserted its independence of the President, which matters a great deal. Roosevelt has been taught that, despite his personal triumph of November, he is only head of the Administration, not master of the legislature.

Unless he accepts defeat, if he decides to renew the challenge, a conflict is opening which may change the whole aspect of American politics for years to come.

To-day's Thought

HE who is too powerful seeks power beyond his power.
—SENECA.

THE second is to compare him unfavourably with Mr. Blank up the road, who drives a much larger car, sends his children to more expensive schools, and buys his wife much better frocks.

If your husband cares two hoots about you, and if not it's your fault he does his best to provide you with a luxury car, buy you model frocks, and send all your sons to Eton and all your daughters to Roedean. If he hasn't succeeded, this hurts him a great deal more than it hurts you, so don't rub it in.

creel, saying that he took great pleasure in making these toys in his spare time, and usually received good payment for them. He asked her if she would buy one, but there were no children in the home, and she told him she would have no use for it. But out of pity for the man's state, she bought it, and the little creel has been hanging on the wall of her livingroom these 21 years.

Gifted to make the dolly complete, for there was no time to have one made, the donor and her friends saw to it that the clothes also were correct in detail, and "Margaret" has taken up residence in Buckingham Palace, a splendid little replica of our worthy fisher folk. Little did that creelmaker think his toy creel would make such a romantic journey 21 years later.

To those who are interested, it may be mentioned that there is one distinctive difference between the outfit of the Newhaven and Fisherman women. The strap of the creel which fits over the head is white for Newhaven and black for Fisherman.

'SCANDAL' OF CHURCH DIVISIONS

—DR. TEMPLE

DIVISIONS in the Church were deplored by the Archbishop of York (Dr. Temple) recently at the opening of the World Conference on Faith and Order, at St. Giles', Edinburgh.

It was true that in its deepest nature the Church was always one, he said, it was also true that to-day it was the so-called "churches," rather than any forces of the secular world, which prevented that unity from being manifest and effective.

Here was matter for deep penitence. He spoke as a member of one of those churches which still maintained barriers against inter-Communion and he knew that their division at that point was the greatest of all scandals in the face of the world.

UNITY—THEN UNION

Unless the churches were ready to learn one from another as well as to teach one another, the divisions would remain.

Therefore their loyalty to their own churches would not best be expressed in a rigid insistence by each

£1,377 Millions In Trust Funds

Funds of registered provident societies, uniting superannuation and other trust funds which were not registered until after 1927, have risen from £254 millions in 1913 to £1,377 millions in 1935. These figures are given in the report of the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies for 1936 (Stationery Office, 9d.). There were 30,513 societies, trusts, etc., at the end of 1936, with 117,708,000 members.

upon his own tradition. They could not seek union if they did not already possess unity.

Dr. Temple said they deeply regretted the absence of a delegation from the German Evangelical Church. They regretted still more the occasion of the absence.

They prayed that their German friends might have wisdom and courage for the difficult days before them.

'CHRISTIAN'S DUTY NEVER TO FIGHT'

Dr. Alfred Hall, of Sheffield, in his presidential address to the Congress of the International Association for Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, at Oxford, declared that it was the duty of religious people never to take military weapons to secure right.

Those at the congress were gathered from many countries, and he hoped they would realise that no question could be settled permanently by war, which brought all the ills which it was supposed to cure and carried with it graver injustices than those it set out to abolish.

Ulster Gunmen Raid Minister's Home

GIRL HELD UP WHILE HOUSE WAS SEARCHED

THREE armed men, it is revealed to-day, entered the home of Sir Dawson Bates, Ulster Minister of Home Affairs, at Portrush, County Antrim, last night and ransacked the house.

It is believed that they were searching for confidential police reports relating to last week's disorders during the royal visit.

The only occupant of the house at the time was a servant.

The men ordered her to one side, and while one of them stood on guard the others made a search.

Drawer after drawer was pulled from desks and every possible place that might contain papers was combed.

No article of value was touched.

DRASTIC POWERS Sir Dawson's department is responsible for public order and he is Minister in charge of enforcement of the Civil Authorities Act, which gives the Government drastic powers to deal with seditious activities.

After apparently having failed in their search, the men, believed to be I.R.A. gunmen, threatened the girl not to raise any outcry and escaped in a car which was waiting outside with the engine running.

All police stations in the surrounding area were hurriedly warned to keep a look-out for the men, but despite intensive search no arrest has yet been made.

Lady Bates said to-night that the raid occurred while she and Sir Dawson were about ten miles from their home.

STORY OF INTERVIEW

"The only person in the house," she said, was a maid, who has told me that she was in another part of the house when, hearing a noise in the smoking room, she found three men there.

"They said they had an appointment with my husband.

"She explained that he was out, but the men pushed her aside and told her to sit down in the kitchen. One of them kept guard over her and ordered her not to move.

"They had their hands in their pockets, and were not masked.

"Fortunately, none of my husband's papers of any value was in the house. I had removed them in the morning.

"When the police visited the house after the maid had raised the alarm they found in one of the rooms a scrap of paper on which was drawn a plan of the building and marked with arrows of how it could be approached."

P.C. MUST GET DRUNK

(But Not Very)

Wakefield, Yorkshire.

A POLICE CONSTABLE here is to be placed officially under the influence of drink—for the sake of science.

Dr. P. L. Sutherland, the county bacteriologist and pathologist, is anxious to introduce blood tests for the examination of accused motorists. He has recommended the tests to the police after two visits to the Medico-Legal Institute of the University of Berlin.

Mr. G. Campbell Vaughan, Chief Constable of the West Riding, said: "One of my constables at headquarters has offered himself for the experiment."

"There is no need for him to get really drunk, but... well, we shall give him just a drop—enough to affect his blood stream."

Dr. Sutherland is almost ready to make the policeman merry. "I am not asking for this test to supersede the others," he said, "but it should prove of great value in confirming them."

'SIMPLE OPERATION' "It will be a simple operation. The police surgeon will give his patient a needle prick and take a drop or two of blood from his ear, and send it to me in a tiny tube."

"I want to see every police station equipped for this essential addition to the list of 'drink' tests, and I am hoping we shall have the service early in the winter."

In Germany the blood is collected in specially designed glass tubes and can be safely kept for several days before the test is made, writes our medical correspondent. Two parts of alcohol in a thousand of blood indicates that a person is unfit to drive.

MR. TOM SOPWITH TRIED TO WIN THIS

OULD MUG—This is the American's Cup, ancient silver trophy for which Harold S. Vanderhill and British T. O. M. Sopwith will strive with their yachts off Newport, R. I. The late Sir Thomas Lipton referred to it as "that old mug." It has remained in America 25 years, despite numerous attempts to win it back.

BRITISH SEAMEN DE-LUXE Bathrooms, Waiters

AFTER long consultation with the Shipping Federation and the National Seamen's Union, the Board of Trade is about to issue completely new rules concerning the accommodation for seamen in British ships.

This will be in many ways an historic document—a new Bill of Rights of the sea, for it is many years since the matter has formed the subject of official rules.

In conversation with an official of the Seamen's Union, I was shown the plan of a British ship in the bad old days where the owner had discovered that by sleeping his crew with legs bent he could accommodate an additional number in the limited space of the fore-castle, and had so arranged the quarters, writes a special correspondent.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

The plan showed the men lying like so many letters "J" on the deck.

Times have changed to-day out of all recognition. There are the happiest relations between shipowners and men, and the new regulations of the Board of Trade are merely regulating a practice common to all progressive owners.

Mr. Basil Sanderson, the chairman of the executive of the Shipping Federation, says that they have the complete approval of that body, and Mr. Spence, the general secretary of the Seamen's Union, told me that many owners are so anxious to improve the conditions of their men that they submit the plans of new ships to the union for their comments.

Some of the most recent have provided individual sleeping bunks, bathrooms, spacious messrooms, and recreation rooms for the watches below, and even the services of a messroom boy to wait on them, which to the old-time seamen must seem the height of luxury.

BETTER THAN LAND JOBS

With these improvements the sea to-day will offer a livelihood to young men of our race better than many land jobs.

I was told by many of the officials of the National Seamen's Union, which has recently been celebrating its jubilee at an annual conference at Brighton, of posts where the average weekly pay of seamen is £6 a week and over.

MINISTER TO TOUR PRISONS

THE Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, is expected to begin a series of visits to prisons within the next few weeks.

It is understood he will visit Dartmoor, Portland, Maidstone, Parkhurst and smaller prisons.

It is at a medium-sized penal prison that Sir Samuel has stated the scheme of payment for work in prison will be introduced. It will be extended as experience is gained.

Matters which he will consider on his tour include smoking communal meals and association during exercise.

The Home Secretary is a great-nephew of Elizabeth Fry, the famous prison reformer, and in opening an Elizabeth Fry Exhibition at Norwich recently he compared the conditions in prison now with those in Miss Fry's time.

"ROOMS" INSTEAD OF "CELLS"

"In the women's prisons," he said, "we are attempting to concentrate on the reforming side of prison life. The women no longer talk about cells. Each woman prisoner has her own room, and those rooms are very different from what the ignorant would imagine a prison cell to be."

"We have got away from the old idea of distinctive prison clothes, and the women in these prisons dress very much like women outside."

The administrators, he said, were trying very hard to keep the women prisoners on work which would really help them to find jobs when they left prison.

When they were assisted to find work they were released and while in prison there were educational classes, libraries and up-to-date hospitals, with pre-natal and post-natal treatment.

BABIES BORN IN GAOL

Sir Samuel added: "A feeling has often been expressed to me in the House of Commons that it is an outrageous thing that a child should be born in prison."

As a matter of fact, children, if they are born in prison, are always given an address that is not a prison address, and I have found that quite a number of the women whose babies have been born in prison have so much appreciated the very high standard of treatment they have received that, to judge from their own words, they would prefer to go on with the present arrangement."

SCOTTISH LEAGUE FOOTBALL VICTORY

Belfast, Sept. 1.
Meeting in the season's first Inter-Football League matches here to-day, the Scottish league beat the Irish league by three goals to two.

Twelve thousand attended the match, and saw the Scottish attack open in thrifful manner. The defence was also steady, but later it was troubled by the nippy Irish forwards.

In the 30th minute, Doherty, the clever Irish half back, lobbed the ball into the Scottish goalmouth and Turnbull headed in, to open Ireland's account.

Buchan was going through to score when he was brought down, and from the resultant free pick he levelled the scores for Scotland. At half time the teams shared two goals.

Kernaghan netted for the Irish League in the 40th minute, but Black quickly equalised from a scramble in the Irish goalmouth, the point coming in the 50th minute.

Seven minutes from the end Buchan scored again for Scotland from a penalty.—Reuter.

JACOBS' LATEST

Boxing Promoter Holds Elimination Tourney

New York, Aug. 31.
Mike Jacobs, of the Twentieth Century Club, and promoter of last heavy-weight title fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, announced to-day that he will hold an elimination tournament to find a "logical" opponent for Louis in June.

Explaining that the negro's injured hand would not allow him to fight this winter, Jacobs said the eligibles include Max Schmeling, Tommy Farr (whom Louis beat last Monday), Max Baer, Bob Pastor, Jimmy Braddock and Jimmy Adamek. A country-wide search will also be made for other eligible boxers over 175 pounds.

Julian Black, Joe Louis' manager, announced that the negro's European trip has been cancelled.

Max Schmeling, who has been wanting a chance to get at the title since he defeated Louis last year, has emphatically refused to enter this tournament saying it is a mere trick to prevent him taking the title from Louis.—United Press.

ARMSTRONG WINS

Detroit, Aug. 31.
Henry Armstrong, 131½ lb., gained a technical knock-out decision over Orville Drouillard, 134 lb., of Windsor, Ontario, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout to-day.

In the fourth round, Armstrong floored Drouillard for nine, only the bell saving him. In the next round, Drouillard was so battered that he was hanging to the ropes for support.

BOWLS TOURNAMENT Quarter-Final Singles

Two quarter-finals in the bowls singles championship were played at the Hongkong F.C. yesterday, U. M. Omar beating G. H. Sherriff, U. M. Randle defeating A. S. Gomes 21-20.

While the game between Randle and Gomes was the more exciting in view of the close scores, the Omar-Sherriff match provided the higher standard. Omar won 21-13 after trailing for several heads when he was overhauled by the more consistent drawing of Sherriff, who led 9-3 on the eighth. Omar then pulled up well to pass him on the 12th with a three by trailing the jack after the umpire had announced it was a measure for the shot.

Then with two, three, one, two, two and a one Omar hit on to 17-10 and from then onward was seldom in danger of being overtaken. He was playing much more consistently at this stage than at the start, and his first wood, when he had the jack, was seldom more than a foot away.

Sherriff failed to maintain the same high standard he set at the start but even towards the end he sent up some good woods.

RANDLE'S LUCK

Randle must consider himself lucky to be in the semi-final. It was a ding-dong struggle right through, and of the 22nd Games was leading 20-10. Randle had two woods a couple of feet away, but with his last Gomes drew the shot. Randle attempted to push it through with his last but was hopelessly narrow.

Sherriff failed to maintain the same high standard he set at the start but even towards the end he sent up some good woods.

On the 23rd Randle put his first a few inches behind the jack and this remained the shot until the end to give Randle the match.

At the K.C.C. H. A. Alves defeated L. F. Xavier, 21-13. He was the more consistent but at the start Xavier was more impressive. He went into a lead of 11-5 but scored only two shots afterwards while his opponent registered 10. The game finished on the 23rd head.

On Tuesday, A. S. Russell eliminated J. S. Landolt 21-20 at the K.C.C.

TWO NEW RECORDS

Danish Girl Breaks Old Swimming Marks

Aarhus, Sept. 1.
The 16-year-old Danish girl, Ragnild Hveger, broke two women's free style swimming records to-day.

In the 440 yards, she was timed at 5.14, compared with Miss T. Wagner's (Holland) previous mark of 5.22 and in the 500 yards she was timed at 5.57, which easily beats the old record, also held by Miss Wagner, of 6.08.—Reuter.

SOUTH CHINA'S GALA

MAK WAI-MING WINS THE INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The versatility of Mak Wai-ming, sprinter and long distance swimmer, excelling in breast stroke and free style, gained for him the individual championship of the South China Athletic Association this year in its annual swimming championships which concluded last night. Norman Lee was awarded the coveted position by one point.

The approaching typhoon made the water choppy and difficult for swimming, but despite this Norman Lee lowered the Kwangtung record for the 100 metres back-stroke when he clocked 23 4/5 sec. He scored his second win in the 50 metres, which in 28 4/5 sec., a remarkable time considering the conditions. Mak Wai-ming swam extremely well to return 3 min. 13 1/5 sec. for the 200 metres breast-stroke. The Ladies Individual Championship was won by Miss Sum Wai-ling.

At the conclusion the prizes were distributed by the Vice President, Mr. Chan Man-chi.

Results:
Sprint Race—1. Robert Yuen; 2. Yu Chi-chow; 3. Lai Hop-chai.
200 M. Team Race for Girls (Open)—1. Hui Fung; 2. School; 3. China Shing Bathing Club; 3. South China.

Time: 2 min. 35 3/5 sec.
100 M. Free Style—Norman Lee; 2. Mak Wai-ming; 3. T. Wong. Time: 23 4/5 sec.

50 M. for the Training Middle Class (Handicap)—1. Ng Chi-kin; 2. Leung Kwok-chiu; 3. Lai Sik-kwan.
100 M. Breast Stroke—Norman Lee; 2. Poon Wing-kai; 3. Yuen Chi-kwok. Time: 53 4/5 sec.

Fancy Diving—1. Stanley Lee; 2. Yeung Cheung-wah; 3. Chan Ying.

Bowls Notes

AUTOMATIC PLAY A SYSTEM TO IMPROVE INDIVIDUAL STANDARD

By G. T. Burrows (The Skip)

One out of every four bowlers in the flat green game nowadays is being termed a potherunter. By the remaining three this odd man is generally regarded with a certain amount of derision, even if not something worse.

Because at certain periods of an all-too-short outdoor season he kicks over traditional traces by giving the four-a-side game as wide a berth as possible, goes to one or more single tournaments, or ploughs a lonely furrow through his county singles championship, he is called "selfish," the main jibe used against him being that he thinks too much of himself and too little of his club.

Because he is anxious to rise and take some rank or standing in the game, he has to endure the stigma of being generally looked upon as a potherunter. He may be a lonely man. He may, on the other hand, be so utterly conscientious about his game (and about his effort to rise in it) that he is a potherunter. He rises, he falls a few times, he prefers to fall alone rather than bring down three others in any futile efforts to win at the rink game.

How many English internationals have been chosen for their rink team spirit? Very few during the past few seasons. How many internationals have been chosen because of their proved skill at the singles games? Nearly all the present generation!

How, then, is a man to rise out of the rut of ordinary club bowls at West Ham, or Wimbledon, or Wincoburn? It is by proving that he has the match-winning spirit and temperament at singles, becoming a county, and perchance a national champion that he gets into the English side!

Can you call such a worthy player selfish? Because his club wishes him to take part in some trivial game against an old friendly neighbour, when he is competing at Worthing or Hastings, is he to be stigmatised a potherunter? Yet he is, in no uncertain manner.

NO THRILL IN AUTOMATIC BOWLS

Where lies any real thrill in playing automatic club bowls, usually from the same two yards marks at this end of the green to the same week after week?

Would it not be better to decide all club matches by singles, or by pairs, or even, by both? By "both" I mean 11 up at singles and 15 up at pairs, the aggregate shots scored at both singles and pairs to give the result.

Would not this style of game make players more capable, individually, rather than the modern tendency of one half a club side being carried to victory by the more expert other half?

At the K.C.C. H. A. Alves defeated L. F. Xavier, 21-13. He was the more consistent but at the start Xavier was more impressive. He went into a lead of 11-5 but scored only two shots afterwards while his opponent registered 10. The game finished on the 23rd head.

On Tuesday, A. S. Russell eliminated J. S. Landolt 21-20 at the K.C.C.

END-BUILDING STRATEGY

By this game taken I would decide the annual international games by ordeal of singles and pairs play, aggregates to count, and I feel sure that with new areas, from which we should be able to select our players, England would not weep of losing.

It is, but we should discover our most dependable "big occasion" players sooner than we are doing to-day.

Revolutionary, you may exclaim. It is; but we should discover our most dependable "big occasion" players sooner than we are doing to-day.

By this game taken I would decide the annual international games by ordeal of singles and pairs play, aggregates to count, and I feel sure that with new areas, from which we should be able to select our players, England would not weep of losing.

It is, but we should discover our most dependable "big occasion" players sooner than we are doing to-day.

Revolutionary, you may exclaim. It is; but we should discover our most dependable "big occasion" players sooner than we are doing to-day.

Did you fall in love at first sight?

WHAT is love at first? Neither science nor chemistry can account for it. People who believe in horoscopes say that the answer can be found in the magnetism of the planets which were in the ascendant when each of the two people was born. That, their ruling planets generate an irresistible force which draws them together. That they are affinities, made for one another.

Recently we published an article giving a guide to affinities and antipathies. The exact minute of birth is necessary to determine accurately our individual natures, but the sun's position at birth will reveal our general characteristics.

Even if you are a bit sceptical about the stars and the effect they have on you, it is fun to try to work out your affinities. And this article will tell you something about their characters.

April 19

ARIES: This sign marks the beginning of the Zodiacal year, and people born under it are pioneers and explorers. Their sign ruler is Mars, belonging to the fiery group.

Their natures are possessive and inclined to be dominating; they can be led by fact and affection, but can never be ruled. Opposition only drives them further in the opposite direction; praise and sympathy will bring out the best in them.

Arians will get on best with Sagittarius or Leo people, and the near degrees of Gemini or Aquarius will be congenial.

April 20 to

May 20

TAURUS is an earthy sign, and the ruler is Venus, who bestows a magnetic personality and usually great physical beauty. These people are hard workers, and most of them acquire comparative riches, but they will be obstinate and unadaptable.

Slow to anger, they will be unappeasable once they are aroused; the best way to get round them will be to appeal to their sense of humour.

Virgo and Capricorn people will be most sympathetic to them, and Cancer and Pisces are also congenial signs.

May 21 to

GEMINI: This element here is air, giving intellectual attainments, but their ruler, Mercury, that brilliant but unstable person, makes them too facile for depth.

Their partners for life will need to be adaptable and long-suffering, for Gemini people will always be restless and changeable in their moods. They can be brilliant, charming, and very companionable.

Probably they will never save money, but, however exasperating they may be, it will be hard not to fall under their spell. Partners in marriage should come from Libra or Aquarius for compatibility, but Aries and Leo would also be sympathetic.

June 21 to

July 22

CANCER: The sign ruler is the moon, and the element is water. These people are difficult to understand. Apparently easily influenced, disliking discord or publicity, they will nevertheless hold firmly to an opinion or an idea.

They may possess artistic ability, and are sensitive and easy hurt. They need very sympathetic treatment, and would get on best with Scorpio or Pisces people, though Virgo and Taurus are also congenial signs.

July 23 to

August 22

LEO: This is a fiery sign, and the ruler is the sun. Leo people are usually mean or small-minded. Loyal, generous, proud, possessing a natural dignity, they make wonderful friends or marriage partners, but implacable enemies once they have been deceived.

They are rarely gregarious, and it is hard to break down their natural reserve. Utterly fearless, they are hard to intimidate.

For complete harmony marriage partners should be chosen from the signs of Aries or Sagittarius, Gemini and Libra people would also get on well with them.

August 23 to

September 22

VIRGO: Here the element is earth, and the sign ruler Mercury. Virgo people are extremely critical, and possess the analytical faculty to a high degree.

They have excellent memories, shine at detail work, and often have a flair for scientific research. They hate inaccuracy or interference in their affairs; at heart are extremely affectionate, even sentimental, when drawn out.

Marriage partners should be chosen from Capricorn or Taurus, but Scorpio, or Cancer should be harmonious.

September 23 to

October 22

LIBRA: This sign is in the Airy Group, and the ruler is Venus. Librans are fastidious, sensitive to beauty, critical, just, and though unassertive as a rule they usually get their own way.

They will have natural good taste and discrimination, and will probably excel in one of the arts.

Aquarius, Gemini, Leo and Sagittarius will be sympathetic.

October 23 to

November 21

SCORPIO: The sign ruler here is Mars, and the element is water. These are masterful, possessive, and self-controlled people.

They possess considerable personal magnetism and tremendous will-power and will gain their objectives despite every obstacle. Demonstrative in love, Scorpio men will sweep the object of their affections off their feet.

Too much of their own way will make them dominating, sarcastic, and complacent; they need to be handled tactfully.

Pisces or Cancer people would make ideal companions, and Virgo and Capricorn should also be congenial.

November 22 to

December 21

SAGITTARIUS: This is a fiery sign, and the ruler is Jupiter. Optimistic, unconventional, ambitious, but careless about possessions, Sagittarians are cultured and independent.

They are usually fond of games and the open air, and seldom re-

December 22 to

January 19

CAPRICORN: Here the ruler is Saturn, who bestows reliability, perseverance, and a sense of duty. It is an earthy sign, and the natives will be thrifty and inclined to be serious.

Usually sincere and faithful in their affections, they are subject to moods, and will need bright and cheerful people around them. Taurus or Virgo people being most congenial, but Aries and Scorpio are both sympathetic.

January 20 to

February 19

AQUARIUS is an airy sign, and has two rulers. Saturn brings acceptance of existing conditions; Uranus is enterprising and progressive.

People who are born under the sign are passing from one sign to another; that is, about the 21st of each month, they inherit the characteristics of both signs, the predominating qualities depending upon the time of birth.

February 20 to

March 20

PISCES: This is a watery sign, and the natives are usually great travellers. The sign rulers are Jupiter and Neptune. Adaptable, pliable, easily led, these people have nevertheless considerable strength of character.

They are extremely sympathetic, and possess an affectionate nature, but are not renowned for their constancy.

Cancer and Scorpio are congenial, and Taurus and Capricorn also produce compatible types.

People who are born under the sign are passing from one sign to another; that is, about the 21st of each month, they inherit the characteristics of both signs, the predominating qualities depending upon the time of birth.

DOCTOR IN LIONS' DEN

STRANGE THEORY TESTED

One thousand doctors in Belfast last month saw probably the strangest entertainment ever staged at a British Medical Association conference.

They saw Dr. R. H. Hunter, Curator of Belfast Zoo, make good a promise to delegates to the Association meeting.

He told them that lion-faming was better than golf for slimming and that he would give a demonstration of lion-faming as a concluding thrill.

He entered the cage of two un-lamed lionesses, watched by a crowd of delegates, their wives, and daughters. He was in evening dress, with a buttonhole of carnations.

Armed only with an iron prong and a whip, he subdued the snarling beasts.

He stayed in the cage for four minutes, but that was too long for some of the crowd, and there were shouts of "Come out of it. That's enough."

Several times during the demonstration Trixi, the more savage of the pair, snarled, but a prod with the prong was sufficient to make her retreat.

When Dr. Hunter came out of the cage he was bathed in perspiration.

"It's a tough job," he said, "especially as these lions are by no means trained. But, as I said before, it's a better exercise than golf for slimming."

"I have given up golf altogether for lion taming. Golf is far too slow in comparison."

"I get as much exercise in half an hour in the lion's den as a week's golf would give me, and you need to be as fit for it."

"Every minute in the cage you have to be intensely alert. If you slacken off, you may easily be all up."

The doctors were impressed, but not all converted. "When there are as many lion cages as golf clubs in the country I may think of it, but bunks will do for me for the present," one delegate commented.

MOTORISTS TALK IT OVER

They Are Out to Trick Us!

BY
T. H. WISDOM

BRITISH folk hate being "tricked"—it's un-English. Which is why motorists get so wrathful, for motoring, nowadays, is a business in which minor and major officials, police, motor trade et al. are out to catch us.

Motoring, a pleasant enough affair if you are lucky all the time, is reaching the stage where it will be safest to have a lawyer with you if you propose going for a Sunday afternoon run.

None of us mind a "fair cop"—not much anyway—but it's the "slinky" business that gets us down and makes us wish vehemently that the A.A. and the R.A.C. were as pushful and Protestant as the cyclists' organisations—good luck to 'em.

As soon as we set hand to starter button there are some 2,000 involved, and sometimes, quite ridiculous laws, we can break. The professional house-breaker, with whom we are regarded as equals by authority, is troubled only by one.

Look how they have tricked us over the £100,000,000 Five-Year-Road-Plan, which, officially, is to be quietly forgotten. At the moment I am not much impressed by other Ministry of Transport "stunts."

Take the 30 m.p.h. speed-limit. I am told of the sober-looking car that edges up behind you, worries you and, eventually, having urged you to go a little faster sheds its disguise and "goes" you. These complaints about that sort of thing this week.

Police Methods

LANCASHIRE police have 50 or so neat and dignified "family" cars—Austin "Fourteens" that have superchargers under their bonnets. I had a ride in one last week—goah, it could go!

Look how they "pick and choose"—in The Mail the other day they "picked" a fellow doing 31 m.p.h. just as he was passed by two other cars that went scot-free.

There is a "Halt" sign down in Devon by which the local "cop" stands for an hour a day. When you don't stop—no question of danger, mind you—he asks to see your licence and makes quite certain, first of all, that you're

Colour Counts

A SPEED-LOP friend of mine—oh, yes, I have some friends even among the police—tells me that the light-coloured sports-looking type of car is more likely to get you into trouble than a dark, squarish "family" machine.

Then there are the driving-testers. Every day I get letters of complaint about them. There is that "trick" order some of them issue while the would-be driver is going through the test—he says—"straight on" when the lights are against you.

If, foolishly, you think him the biggest noise on earth for the moment, and sit to obey him, he'll "plough" you. And laugh about it with his fellow-testers in the "local" that night.

One of my readers has an artificial leg. He drives quite well—disabled drivers are often safer than those with their full physical capabilities. When he went for his test the tester failed him immediately—he didn't like the fact that the driver's foot might slip off the clutch. So my correspondent said, "Well, if I arrange the clutch pedal so that my foot can't slip off it, will it be all right?"

"Some testers would pass it—others would not," replied the tester, evidently one of those detestable folk who cannot say "Yes" or "No."

Only advice I could give was to get in touch with the Disabled Drivers' Club.

Another "scandal"—the surveyor who told his foreman, who had an idea for safer road surfaces—"No fear, if we make motoring roads we shall only have more motorists coming here and wearing 'em out. The Council is not keen on encouraging motoring—it likes peace and quiet."

Fixed Up Duds

THEN there is the "facket" worked by some motor-traders, who "turn-back" speedometers to trick the unsuspecting buyers of a second-hand car.

Mr. D. G. Ayling, of Arundel, says that he does not know of any dealer in this district who would do that sort of thing. He says "that sometimes motorists 'Jin up' temporarily 'dud' cars to sell them."

So he thinks the only fair way is to give a "fixed price" in part exchange deals. He sees good (and to an extent he is right) in the Motor Trade Association price protection scheme.

A salesman—for obvious reasons I cannot give you his name—writes me a long letter, giving me the "low-down" on the M.T.A. scheme. He says, although prices of new cars have risen, there is no chance of second-hand values being increased.

And a garage mechanic—he lives in the Croydon district—tells me that speedometer "setting back" goes on in the garage at which he works.

He says that many motorists are "had," and tells of a woman motorist who bought a "baby" that showed 11,000 miles, and had actually done 23,000. "She still wonders why it uses so much oil, and blames the manufacturer," he says.

So be put off buying a second-hand car if you cannot afford a new one. But use the utmost care, and take the best advice.

They're all out to trick us—so we motorists must hang together.

RECORDS SMASHED BY STORM

Wind Velocity Too Great For Recording

Never had he known such a destructive typhoon in the history of the Colony as that which attacked Hongkong early this morning, said Mr. C. W. Jeffries of the Royal Observatory, when issuing his official report on the gale.

The wind force was of such an intensity that the register of the Observatory's anemograph was incapable of recording the gusts. The register will only accurately record up to 125 miles per hour, but for a long time the needle was bumping the maximum point.

There is little doubt that new records were established in wind velocity.

One record, at least, was proved. When the barometer read 28.208 it was 292 lower than the existing low record established on August 18, 1933.

The typhoon has now entered the coast north west of Macao, and is probably still filling up.

Here is the Royal Observatory's official report on the movement of the typhoon.

"The typhoon formed to the east of Luzon during August 28 and 30. Its position was indefinite until the afternoon of the latter date when it was situated about 300 miles N.W. of Manila, moving N.W. By the morning of August 31 it had reached the eastern extremity of the Balingtang Channel, from then on moving in a westerly direction until 6 a.m. yesterday when it was situated about 100 miles east by south of Pratas Shoal. From this period it moved west north west passing to the north of Pratas Shoal about 5 p.m. and to the north of Waplan and the south of the Royal Observatory between 3 and 4 a.m. to-day. The stand-by signal, No. 1, was hoisted at 12.35 a.m. yesterday and signal No. 5 denoting that a gale from the north-west at 3.20 p.m. The No. 10 denoting a wind of typhoon force was expected was hoisted at 1.58 a.m. and bombs were fired at 2.10 a.m.

The wind increased rapidly in force until 2 a.m. blowing from the north and veering towards the east after 3.30 a.m. By this time the squalls were of a phenomenal intensity, many occurring which were beyond the capacity of the register of the anemograph, that is, greater than 125 m.p.h.

The lowest reading of the barometer was 28.30 between 3.45 a.m. and 3.50 a.m.

HEAVY RAINFALL
The rainfall amounted to 5.055 inches between 10.30 a.m. yesterday and 7.30 a.m. to-day.

The typhoon has entered the coast and is probably filling up to the north west of Macao. After passing Pratas yesterday the storm gave no indication of the intensity which characterised its passage across the Colony. It is doubtful if a storm of greater severity and destructive power has ever visited the Colony.

The barometer minimum of 28.208 compares with the previous lowest reading of 28.590 on August 18, 1933.

PALESTINE RIOTING

Jerusalem, Sept. 1.
Four more persons were killed to-day as a result of clashes between Arabs and Jews.

Jewish leaders have issued a proclamation in similar terms used by the Arab Higher Committee yesterday, urging their people to keep calm.

BIG BATTLE EXPECTED IN S'HAI AREA

British Troops Hold Position Although Bombs Fall Near - By

Shanghai, Sept. 2 (4.11 a.m.).

The setting for Japan's prospective big push on all fronts in the Shanghai and Woosung areas is being completed.

Yesterday's fighting was severe, although it was regarded only as a curtain raiser.

The positions appear to be unchanged, although the Japanese bombings were exceptionally severe. Seven bombs fell within 100 yards of an outpost held by a party of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers on the western outskirts of Shanghai near the Shanghai-Hangchow railway line but despite the danger the men did not withdraw. Two Chinese, however, were killed.

WILL RELY ON PRESENT FLEET
Evacuating Americans From Danger Zones

New York, Sept. 1.

After a conference between President Roosevelt and Admiral Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, officials declared that the United States were relying on existing naval vessels in the Far East to evacuate Americans who are still in the danger zones, and that there was no need for additional vessels.

According to officials, the President and Admiral Leahy went over the whole problem of the Sino-Japanese situation.—Reuter.

BIGGER FLEET

New York, Sept. 1.

Following the bombing of the President Hoover, consideration has been given to the question of augmenting the United States naval fleet in Shanghai and its vicinity in order to aid evacuation.

The conference was preceded by a long luncheon parley between President Roosevelt and Mr. Robert W. Bingham, British Ambassador to London, who is on holiday in the United States at present.

Following his conference, Mr. Bingham said that he and the President had discussed world conditions in general and the Far Eastern crisis "to some extent."

Asked whether the United States and Britain contemplated further joint action in the Sino-Japanese crisis, Mr. Bingham replied that any statement would have to come from the Department of State.

"I don't believe war is imminent in Europe, apart from the Spanish conflict," added Mr. Bingham.—Reuter.

AMAZING DRAMA IN HARBOUR

AN LEE COLLIDES WITH WARSHIPS

TWELVE MEN LEAP FOR LIFE; ONE FEARED DEAD: OTHERS SAVED BY BRAVE SHORE PARTY

THE full drama of the An Lee's grounding on the Praya was revealed late this morning by the Naval Authorities, which showed that the ship experienced an amazing trip down the harbour, buffeted and shuttlecocked by the huge waves, until she came to rest close to the Luen Cheong Wharf.

About 4 a.m. the An Lee broke from her chain and started to drift helplessly down the harbour. First she struck the bows of H.M.S. Suffolk, and so close were the vessels that twelve of the An Lee's crew jumped on board the warship.

It is feared that one, however, failed to judge the distance and landed in the angry waters, in which he was quickly lost to sight.

The An Lee continued to drift towards the bows of H.M.S. Duchess, damaging the stem piece, and afterwards all but collided with H.M.S. Diamond.

Her fantastic trip came to an end when she mounted the Praya wall opposite the Imports and Exports office.

H.M.S. Thracian has been sent out to locate the rescue tug, Kausing, the steering gear of which was put out of order, near Green Island, while she was on her way to assist the s.s. Van Heutsz about 4.49 a.m.

At 5.30 a.m., H.M.S. Suffolk signalled that an unknown steamer had drifted down her portside.

Shortly after it was signalled that the typhoon was approximately 70 miles south-east of Hongkong, moving north-west, H.M.S. Cornwall, the training ship of the Naval Volunteers, cast off pennant, resulting in telephonic communication with her being severed.

At 3.40 a.m., H.M.S. Diamond, which was lying in mid-stream, signalled that her foremast had been carried away, and that she could not be communicated with by wireless.

The luxury Japanese liner Asama Maru, which was sheltering in Junk Bay was helpless in the fierce gale and ran ashore in the vicinity of where the Suming was wrecked in the typhoon last year. Rescue parties by sea and land immediately set out in an attempt to save the large number of lives at stake.

According to a radio received from the Asama Maru the liner is aground in Salsine Bay, a small cove in Junk Bay. No details have been received of her damage.

There are no passengers aboard as the ship was undergoing overhaul in Talkoo Dock and was removed last night to ride the typhoon in Kowloon Bay with only a skeleton crew aboard.

KAUSING HELPS ON GREEN ISLAND

One of the first vessels in distress was the powerful tug Kausing, which got out of control when its steering apparatus failed off West Point about 4 a.m.

An S.O.S. message sent out Police parties but nothing could be done before the tug piled on the rocks of Green Island.

INDIA SENDS OUT S.O.S.

The steamer India sent out an S.O.S. for assistance saying she was out of control.

Damage to Shipping

The Police Training School again suffered and the fire engine was levelled while on the same corner. Headings were down and a 10-ft brick wall collapsed. Further out towards Taiipo the entire scaffolding from a building in the course of construction completely blocked the road.

Along the foreshore at Lanchikok were a large number of junks and several small launches washed up on the shore beside a Chinese Maritime Customs cruiser and a river steamer. The masts of another small steamer were all that was to be seen of her. The numerous ships moored between Lanchikok and Stonecutters appeared, however, to have done fairly well and although two river steamers had blown together and periodically struck one another, the

The waterfront along Connaught Road was a scene of chaos. Most of the wharves were either smashed or under water, while an unusual sight was witnessed at the Luen Cheong Wharf, where the stern of the river steamer An Lee was blown right up to the Praya wall. The boat was under water. It was learned that the incident occurred about 3 a.m., and no-one was injured.

The Jardine Wharf, the Ping On Wharf, the Mieno Steamboat Wharf, and the Douglas Wharf were all badly damaged, particularly the first named, which was blown to bits. The terrific force of the gale could be gauged from the fact that the iron sign-boards at the Tin Yat wharf were blown right across the street to the Western Market.

The side-wall of No. 7 Godown of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company at Western Street was blown down, while the roof and verandahs of the houses on top also collapsed. No one was injured.

The whole of the waterfront was flooded at one time up to the waist, and debris such as signboards and broken glass was thick everywhere.

Traffic Held Up

Motor traffic along Queen's Road East, from Wellington Barracks to Garden Road, was held up for some considerable time, owing to the floods. Several cars attempted to cross, but were left stranded after going half-way. By 8.30 a.m., however, the water had subsided enough for traffic to be resumed.

Trees in the military area, and around the Hongkong Cricket Club were up-rooted, while Scandal point, higher up, presented a scene of desolation.

Similar scenes were witnessed along the waterfront in Wanchai, where the charge-room of No. 2 Police Station was flooded.

Repulse Bay Struck

Repulse Bay felt the full fury of the storm. Most of the marshes have been either demolished or badly damaged. Several of the most substantial sheds were also badly suffered.

The Lido Lady, which rode out the typhoon last year, was on this occasion driven ashore near the Lido, broadside on. Bench Road is a tangled mass of uprooted trees, whilst there has been a fairly big landslide at the western end of the new wing of Repulse Bay Hotel.

Two junks, both damaged, are anchored in the bay, having apparently managed to ride out the storm. There are said to be ten people on board. Near shore the masts of what appear to be a small yacht are showing above the water line.

During the early morning, the electric light and telephone services were suddenly cut off throughout the Repulse Bay district. The normal road via Wongneichong Gap is passable for small cars, although strewn at various points with uprooted trees and boulders which have fallen down the hillside.

Telephones Damaged

Hongkong Telephone Company cables were badly damaged and many telephones on Hongkong and Kowloon were out of order.

The Peak tram-lines were covered with tree trunks and branches, causing a delay in the service. By 10 a.m., however, the debris was cleared, and the service was resumed shortly afterwards.

The Hongkong Tramway service has not yet been started, and the resumption will depend on the typhoon signals. It was learned on enquiries.

Sampan Fleet Wrecked

From Shaikwan to the Central district, Hongkong presented scenes of savage destruction. Inestimable damage has been done in the typhoon shelter at Causeway Bay. Shattered hulks of sunken sampans and junks litter the bay. Torn tram lines disrupted the service. The Navy Football enclosure is no more.

The force of the wind was such that the steel lamp-posts along the roadside at Causeway Bay were bent (Continued on Page 4.)

European Rescue Party Does Great Work

SHIPS' CREWS & CHILDREN SAVED DURING HEIGHT OF GALE

Magnificent work was accomplished by a party of Revenue Officers and Police sergeants along the Praya. Seven of them—C. P. O. Buller, Mr. W. Ward, Sub-Inspector Goddard, Sergt. Davis, Sergt. Scott, Sergt. Hayward and Mr. Ellis—linked together by ropes, ventured out in the treacherous weather to rescue crews from scuppered ships, and to save little children who were stranded in huts along the Praya.

Darkness added to the terror of the night and the tremendous difficulties confronting the rescue party. Nevertheless they succeeded in saving some 70 lives, all of whom received treatment for various injuries, none of them very serious, in the Imports and Exports Department.

Unhappily it was found impossible to obtain enough dry clothes and several of the unfortunate men had to spend the early hours up to dawn in blankets.

One of the most dramatic episodes occurred about half past five when one of the Talkoo tugs was sunk as she approached the An Lee which had foundered on the Praya. The rescue party rushed to the assistance of the crew and after a terrific battle with the elements managed to bring the

FIRE IN WEST PT. KILLS 15

Nine Big Blocks Burned Out

Fireman Wade Through Flood

Nine four-storey buildings in West Point were destroyed by a disastrous fire which broke out at the height of the storm this morning. Though the exact number of casualties is not known, it is believed the loss of lives is heavy. From 15 to 20 bodies were picked up by members of the Fire Brigade, but as they were being piled up on the roadway ready to be removed to the Public Mortuary, huge waves came along and washed them all into the sea.

The premises involved were 131-139 Connaught Road West. The Central Fire Station received the first call shortly before 4 a.m. and fire appliances were immediately rushed to the scene, under the supervision of Mr. J. C. Fitzhenry, Acting Superintendent.

The outbreak started, it is believed, at No. 131, the ground floor of which was occupied by the Pak Sang, rice-dealer. On the arrival of the fire engines, the blaze had already spread to the adjoining two houses. The fire-fighters were rendered helpless by the strong winds, but eventually succeeded in bringing two hoses into action. Unfortunately, by this time, the other houses had also been ignited, while those where the outbreak started were burning through. The street was flooded and the handicap under which the members of the Fire Brigade had to work could be gauged by the fact that the water was at one time up to the waists of the men.

BODIES WASHED AWAY

Nevertheless, they succeeded in recovering a number of dead bodies, which, however, were washed to the sea. By 8 a.m. the fire was under control, but firemen were seen among the smouldering embers.

As the fire engines arrived, a woman with baby on her back was seen to jump from the top-storey of one of the buildings. Both she and the child were killed instantaneously. Up to the time of going to press, no other bodies, apart from those already mentioned, had been recovered. The number of survivors could not be ascertained owing to the fact that many of them had fled terror-stricken from the scene.

The ground floors of the buildings in question were occupied mostly by rice-dealers, and there were also two garages. Building collapses took a considerable toll of life. A man and a child were killed when a house was razed at the corner of Ma Tau Wei and Ko Fah Wan Roads, Kowloon, and one man was killed and several injured (Continued on Page 4.)

STORM BREAKS RECORDS

The typhoon was so intense that the wind velocity was beyond the recording limit of the anemograph at the Observatory, which records up to 125 miles an hour. The barometer fell to a new record low reading. Five inches of rain fell before 7.30 a.m.

EIGHTEEN SHIPS IN DISTRESS

Typhoon Toll Made Known

It is now ascertained that at least eighteen ships ranging in size from the huge N.Y.K. luxury liner Asama Maru to the Government tug Kausing are either aground, drifting helplessly about harbour waters, or in danger of sinking.

In addition, dozens of smaller craft have been lost completely, others merely temporarily beached.

Below, in alphabetical order are the bigger vessels known to be in distress.

- An Lee (aground on Praya)
- Asama Maru (aground at Junk Bay)
- Booneville (aground at Stonecutters)
- Eng Lee (aground at Kowloon Football Club ground)
- Feng Lee (aground at Kowloon Dock)
- Hai Lee (ashore at Pellett Bank)
- Hong Peng (ashore at Talkoo Sugary Refinery)
- Hsinking (aground at Kaping Island Lighthouse)
- Hunan (ashore somewhere in the harbour)
- India (in distress, position unknown)
- Kausing (aground at Green Island)
- Seyern Leigh (adrift in the harbour)
- Sunfien (adrift in harbour near Tsing Island)
- Shenandoah (aground at Stonecutters)
- Tilawa (aground at Devil's Peak)
- Tymario (ashore at North Point)
- Tehing (aground at Stanley Bay)
- Van Heutsz (ashore at Green Island)

MUTINY ON SHIP?

H.M.S. Broke left Plymouth at midnight to investigate a radio report that the South African steamer Sherardson, two hundred miles away, had trouble aboard, described as "almost a mutiny and sabotage." The Broke expects to reach the steamer at 7 a.m. (British Standard Time).—Reuter.

DUTCH VESSEL SINKING

Police Attempt Rescue

FEARS FOR PASSENGERS AND CREW

One of the most dramatic typhoon messages received by the Water Police was that at 6.39 a.m. which reported that the steamship Van Heutsz is sinking off Green Island with a number of passengers aboard.

No assistance was at hand, but every effort was being made, stated the Police, to despatch a rescue boat.

The Van Heutsz is a well known ship in Hongkong, being a J.C.I.L. passenger steamer on the Swatow, Amoy, Hongkong, Singapore run.

Fears are felt for the safety of her crew and passengers. The Government tug, Kausing, after reporting that she was drifting off West Point at 5.08 a.m. signalled later that she was drifting helplessly towards Green Island, with her steering gear out of order, and unable to get into wireless communication.

At least another ten vessels are known either to be aground or in distress.

TILAWA ASHORE

Prominent among them is the Tilawa, which reported at 7.55 that she was ashore at Devil's Peak.

The Hunan is adrift in Hongkong harbour, but her actual position has not yet been determined.

The steamship Seyern Leigh has reported that at 6.20 a.m. she was drifting about the harbour helplessly.

The steamer Hsinking was reported at 7.30 to be aground on the south side of Kaping Lighthouse.

The Sunfien, another steamer, reported at 6.39 a.m. that she was drifting in the harbour near the southern corner of Tsing Island.

TYMARIC IS AGROUND

Down at Talkoo and North Point, numbers of vessels are grounded or left high and dry in the shallow waters. The Tymaric is ashore stern first near the Bank's building shed. The Hong Peng is aground with a list near the Talkoo Sugar Refinery. Some 20 odd sampans have been sunk in the Causeway Bay refuge, and the damage to these small craft has been wholesale in the Shaikwan, Causeway Bay, North Point areas.

Inspector Rogers Injured

Inspector Rogers, in charge of Mongkok police station, took on a live wire while carrying out rescue work in his district, and was taken to Kowloon Hospital with serious burns.

SHANGHAI FIRING RESUMED

STIRRING TALES OF HEROISM

Shanghai, Sept. 2. A Sino-Japanese duel, the Chinese firing from Footing and the Japanese replying from warships in harbour, initiated a fresh day's hostilities this morning.

The exchange of fire followed a quiet night in which the Japanese were busily preparing for their big push which is expected to be launched very shortly.

Meanwhile, the Chinese admit the loss of Woosung village, but officially deny that the Japanese have captured Paoshan.

Both sides recount stirring tales of heroism in yesterday's fighting in the Shanghai area. The Chinese say many Japanese were slaughtered by parties of troops who make sorties in the night with their famous big swords.

A novel experience befel a British Volunteer who was among a party helping Chinese in the eastern district to evacuate. He entered a straw-thatched hut, but encountered a deserted Chinese woman who was about to give birth to a child. He rushed out, obtained necessities and returned to find that she had meanwhile given birth to twins. The Volunteer escorted the mother and children to hospital, and safety.—Reuter.

TWO WASHOUTS ON RAILWAY

TRAIN SERVICE IS SUSPENDED

The Kowloon-Canton Railway suffered damage from the gale, although at 8.30 this morning Railway officials could not accurately estimate its extent.

Two washouts on the line were reported between Shatin and Taiipo, but how serious they are had not then been ascertained. However, the railway authorities have been requested, and the line has been suspended, and the head office is awaiting fuller reports as to the extent of the damage.

HOLLYWOOD'S Glamour King Specially for Women

tells you how to
STAR your

Right Make-up TYPE No. 1 Wrong Make-up

FORTUNATE indeed is the woman who possesses the perfect oval face. It is the "ideal" type which most women try to achieve by hair style and make-up. The illustration above shows the correct hair style and make-up for this type, the left half of the picture indicating the way to apply the make-up, and the right the finished effect.

THE guiding rule should be to serve as many oval lines as possible. Keep the hair style simple. A centre parting suits this type, and the widow's peak, so often seen on an oval-shaped face, should not be concealed.

KEEP the natural line of the eye-brows, but continue the arch at the outer corners, if necessary, to taper off just above the level of the corner of the eye. At the inner corner the brows should end immediately above the tear duct. Strengthen slightly with pencil.

PLUCKING the eyebrows very rigorously can cause severe eye strain, for the brows shield the eyes from strong overhead light. It may be necessary, however, to remove with fine pliers any hairs that spoil the smooth curve of the brows, taking these, as far as possible, from below the arch.

IN rouging, follow the oval outline of the cheek, as indicated in the eye-chart above. Carry the rouge lightly up under the eye and blend away the lips towards the temple. See that the lips lower lashes.

The Oval Face

Example: Kay Francis

EVERY face falls within one of seven categories—oval, round, oblong, square, diamond, triangle, or inverted triangle. To which do you belong?

In this article, Hollywood's famous make-up expert describes the correct way to make up, and the most becoming hairdressing for women of the oval-face type. A shining example of to-day's type is Kay Francis. Other perfect ovals are Barbara Stanwyck and Claire Trevor.

There is a wide choice of hair styles for the oval-faced woman, but there are certain things which you must not do. The girl on the right, at the top of the page, has done just the wrong things with make-up. On the left, you see the correct make-up for the type.

LARGE eyes, a splendid feature, often grace this oval type. If too prominent, however, they may throw the face out of balance. Mascara in the upper lashes lightly and apply eye-chart above. Carry the rouge lightly up under the eye and blend away the lips towards the temple. See that the lips lower lashes.

If you are the oval type:—Don't part your hair too low, a centre parting is, in fact, best. Take care not to draw the hair back too tightly from the forehead.

Don't wear a fringe or a low wave. These make the face high, as this makes the eyes appear smaller.

Don't arch your eyebrows too high, as this makes the eyes appear smaller.

Don't pluck the eyebrows too thin nor give them a heavy, square appearance.

Don't apply rouge in a circle like the girl above has.

Don't rouge the chin. Rouge should not come too near the nose.

Don't make up your lips into either a cupid's bow or a rosebud shape. Neither suits the oval type.

Don't use too heavy a lipstick. Don't use rouge at all if your hair and eyes are dark. The perfect oval needs no contour correction.

Special Problem. One problem of contour which may occur in any of the seven types of face is the receding chin. In order to bring a too small chin into correct proportion, powder it FIRST, using a lighter shade of powder than for the rest of the face.

FURNITURE IS MORE FANCIFUL

Prettiness Replacing Severely Plain Designs

By Madge Ames

AFTER the elaborate ugliness of the Victorian and Edwardian periods, the resultant revolution in furnishing and indeed in almost every other type of design was almost inevitable.

We made a bonfire of every one of these over-elaborate monstrosities of design and conception and left our stools have frills to match. The twists of chromium plated metal and the queer blocks of wood which we dubbed tables and chairs, were as naked and unashamed as the cold walls which surrounded them.

After the pretences and the smugness with which we enjoyed—old fashioned glazed chintz takes and not without some reason—the previous era, we felt suspicious of anything but the most brutal truth. And, of course, the loveliness of our homes suffered in consequence.

Homes Really Beautiful BUT having gone from one extreme to another, the trend of thought in this respect is now taking a middle and more normal course, and once again real beauty is beginning to make itself apparent in our homes.

Simply is, as always, the keynote of design in modern furnishing, but beauty has its place, not only in line, but in various forms of decoration.

The walls may be plain, colour washed in a pleasing shade, but the

Without Fussiness

"PRETTINESS" is no longer despised—though "fussiness" may not be tolerated. Frilled organdie, dotted swiss—muslin, the cool, shadowy folds of nylon (crease-resisting for practicality) are all accepted and admired by the modern decorator. Dressing-tables once again have daintily frilled pelicans and Futuristic designs—forecasters indeed of a future which happily never materialised—in strange colours upon linen have given way to flowered linens in all the lovely clear or soft colours which the modern dyer has prepared for our delight.

Old fashioned glazed chintz takes and not without some reason—the previous era, we felt suspicious of anything but the most brutal truth. And, of course, the loveliness of our homes suffered in consequence.

Having recovered from our fierce hatred of everything pertaining to that particular era, we regard it with new, and perhaps more understanding eyes, and we find strange bits of beauty among its over-crowded clutter.

Borrowed Glass

THE charm of Edwardian naperery and also the exquisite glass of that period decorate our tables in place of its "modernistic" accessories of a few years ago. Many new cloths are reproduced from the older designs, and all the beauty of hand-embroidery enhances the loveliness of some of the latest table linen.

Much of the china which finds favour at the moment is frankly of Victorian design, and happy is she who possesses a set of genuine Victorian china decorated with the dainty little roses of that period.

Prettier Shoes Without Toes

THE newest line in evening frocks shows the shorter skirt, which reveals more of our feet and ankles than we have been used to seeing, when dressed for the evening.

It is natural, then, that we should like to wear the loveliest stockings and shoes which are to be had.

Sandals, with high or low heels, are much worn in the evening, and most of them are toe-less. With this type of sandal, the new, very fine stockings, with open-work lace toes, which are a mystery to all (for how much do you and I know of each other, of our children, of our fathers, of our neighbours, and how far more beautiful and sacred are the thoughts of the poor lad or girl whom you govern likely to be, than those of the dull and world-corrupted person who rules him?)—if, I say, parents and masters would leave their children alone a little more, small harm would accrue, although a less quantity of as in present might be acquired.—W. M. THACKERAY.

Buttons On Belts

BUTTONS are a smart trimming for all kinds of purposes. One way of using them is for the decoration of belts.

A length of petersham ribbon of a suitable colour should be chosen, and tiny buttons with two or four holes should be sewn at intervals along the belt in two or three slanting rows side by side.

Navy blue petersham with alternate rows of red and white buttons, or white ribbon with red and green buttons are two suggestions.

Leave Kiddies To Themselves

IF people would but leave children to themselves; if teachers would cease to bully them; if parents would not insist upon directing their thoughts, and dominating their feelings—these feelings and thoughts which are a mystery to all (for how much do you and I know of each other, of our children, of our fathers, of our neighbours, and how far more beautiful and sacred are the thoughts of the poor lad or girl whom you govern likely to be, than those of the dull and world-corrupted person who rules him?)—if, I say, parents and masters would leave their children alone a little more, small harm would accrue, although a less quantity of as in present might be acquired.—W. M. THACKERAY.

Making Up

Sew up seams. Work a tightening row of double crochet round top of booties and mitts, then an edging of tiny scallops formed of 4 chain and a knit 12 along second side and knit 12 remaining at ankle, working along both needles.

Work 11 rows rib of k. 1, p. 1, then 5 rows, decreasing at beginning and end of each row. Next row: K. 2, rib 25, k. 2 tog. in rib 4 times, booties and mitts.

MITTS & BOOTEES to match the coat we gave Recently

YOU NEED: 102 white 2-ply Sirdar wool. 1 pair No. 12 needles. A fairly fine crochet hook. 1 skein blue embroidery silk.

The Mitts

Start at top of gauntlet with 40 sts. Work 1 row plain, 1 row purl. 3rd row: K. 5, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * until 4 remain, m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 2. 4th row: P. 5th row: K. 6th row: P. 7th row: K. 3, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 2, repeat from * until 2 remain, m. 1, k. 2 tog. 8th row: P. 9th row: K. 10th row: P. 11th row: K. 1, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * to end. Repeat 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th rows.

20th row: P. 4 and p. 2 tog., all across, finishing p. 1 (41 sts.) Work in rib of k. 1, p. 1 for 4 rows, then a row of holes thus:—K. 2 tog. and m. 1 all across, ending k. 1. Work back in rib of p. 1, k. 1. Knit in rib of k. 1, p. 1 for 10 rows. Keeping in rib shape for top of hand as follows:—1st row: K. tog. every 6th and 7th st. to last 6, k. 6. 2nd row and alternate rows: Rib. 3rd row: K. tog. every 5th and 6th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 5th row: K. tog. every 4th and 5th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 7th row: K. 2 tog. every 3rd and 4th row, finishing k. 2 tog. 9th row: K. 2 tog. every 2nd and 3rd st., finishing k. 2 tog. Break off wool and run through the remaining sts., draw up and fasten off securely.

The Booties

Work as for mitts until the row of holes has been completed, but in 20th row purl without decreasing. After the holes work 3 rows in rib. Now work a tiny piece for instep as follows:—K. 10 and slip on to piece of wool (these sts. are for side), then work backwards and forwards on the next 16 sts. in rib for 12 rows. Break off wool.

Pick up the 16 sts. from wool, point of needle towards instep, pick up and knit 12 sts. along side of instep piece and knit 8 of the sts. at end of instep piece. With another needle knit remaining 8 sts. of instep piece and knit slip stitch at regular intervals all 16 remaining at ankle, working along both needles.

Work 11 rows rib of k. 1, p. 1, then 5 rows, decreasing at beginning and end of each row. Next row: K. 2, rib 25, k. 2 tog. in rib 4 times, booties and mitts.

Cast off 23, then cast off next 8 by knitting 2 tog. Cast off last 23.

Making Up

Sew up seams. Work a tightening row of double crochet round top of booties and mitts, then an edging of tiny scallops formed of 4 chain and a knit 12 along second side and knit 12 remaining at ankle, working along both needles.

Work 11 rows rib of k. 1, p. 1, then 5 rows, decreasing at beginning and end of each row. Next row: K. 2, rib 25, k. 2 tog. in rib 4 times, booties and mitts.

Search For Snow At North Pole

SCIENTISTS SAY: "WE LONG FOR COLD WEATHER"

London, Aug. 7.

A MESSAGE that floated over the ether to Moscow yesterday has shattered one of mankind's oldest and dearest illusions.

For the past two weeks the radio messages sent out every day by the four Russian scientists who are spending a year on a drifting ice-floe near the North Pole have been confined to the briefest weather bulletins.

Last night, however, Radio North Pole followed up the Weather Forecast with the First News, just like the B.B.C. And the first news from the North Pole was this:

"The North Pole is facing a severe shortage of snow. . . . All the snow has melted from our camp. We have had to go out and search for fresh supplies."

Now, can you beat that? What a topsy-turvy world we live in, to be sure! In England, snugly planted in the warm Temperate Zone, holiday crowds setting off for the seaside this week-end are longing for warm weather. And away up at the very edge of beyond of the Arctic Zone, they are longing for cold weather.

Something must have happened to the Pole since the Russians hoisted the Red Flag and Stalin's portrait there.

Where are snows of yesterday? Have Trotskyist wreckers and saboteurs penetrated even into this farthest outpost of Stalin's dominion?

Or, maybe, the North Pole is just showing its warm resentment at man's invasion of its age-old solitude.

A ROARING STREAM
Whatever the reason, the fact is that it has been thawing at the Pole, and the scientists have watched the snow layer on their ice-floe melt away until there was none left and they were compelled to organise a sledge expedition and go out exploring for a supply of snow with which to cover their camp.

Moreover, a roaring stream of water, six feet wide, now flows directly in front of the scientists' domicile.

The thaw began two weeks ago. It created a net work of criss-crossing streams, leaving the camp and supply depots perched precariously on pedestals of ice.

The scientists have not been daunted by these strange happenings. They report that they are taking advantage of the "flood" to test their "fleet," consisting of canoes and an inflated rubber sail-boat which can carry a ton of cargo.

With the thaw the wind fell and the westward drift of the ice-floe stopped. The wind-driven generator of Radio North Pole also stopped.

We Are Now Spending More

People are spending more, according to the retail trade returns for June, published in the Board of Trade Journal.

They show that the money value of daily sales was 4.8 per cent. above that in June, 1935, which, in turn, was 4.7 per cent. above the level of June, 1935.

This increase is much smaller than that of 13.2 per cent. recorded for May, owing in part to the incidence of the Whit-sun-tide holiday in June, 1936, and in May, 1937, and to the Coronation celebrations this year.

Total sales for the first five months of the trading year were 8.2 per cent. above those for the corresponding period of 1936.

BASQUE BOYS ATTACK POLICE

Carmarthen, Aug. 7.

BASQUE children at the Ministry of Labour camp at Brechfa, Carmarthenshire, came into conflict with the police this evening.

Barrels of tar placed on the roadside by county council workmen between the village and the camp were removed by the children and placed across the road to act as a barricade.

When Police-Constable David Evans, of Penacred, was travelling along in a car, unaware of the obstruction, one of the Basques threw a steel table-knife, which missed the officer's head only by inches.

Police reinforcements, now stationed in the village, rushed up, and the Basques, many of whom were armed with knives and heavy sticks, scattered.

Some of them ran across fields with police and civilians in pursuit. The police eventually got all the children back to the camp.

GUARDED ROADS
When I visited the scene this evening I found about a dozen police on duty in the village and on the roads leading to the camp, writes a special correspondent.

They had in their possession a large number of knives taken from the boys.

It appears obvious that only a number of the refugees are violent, and while the skirmish with the police was proceeding this evening many of the children were in tears.

The people in the district declare that they are in bodily fear, and one of them said to me: "For heaven's sake, take them from here, because we are afraid to go to bed at night."

To-night's trouble followed incidents late last night, when 70 of the children marched into the village and stoned the Forest Arms Hotel and another house, breaking the windows.

FOR THIRD MARRIAGE—Virginia Cherrill, former screen actress, who will marry the Earl of Jersey soon, according to intentions filed in London. Miss Cherrill, who played the lead in Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," was formerly married to Irving Adler, a Chicago business man, and to Cary Grant, screen star, in 1932. They were divorced a year later.

101 Murder Victims In a Year

DURING 1935 the police of England and Wales dealt with 87 cases of murder, involving 101 victims aged one year or over;

In 41 cases involving 50 murdered persons the murderer or suspect committed suicide;

Eight persons were executed, and seven death sentences were commuted to penal servitude.

These figures are given in the Home Office Criminal Statistics for 1936, issued last month.

The number of persons found guilty of offences of all kinds was 759,423, an increase of 101,660 offences compared with 1934.

Other points in the report are: Suicides. The number of persons committing suicide was 5,155, or 330 fewer than in 1934. The greatest number of men committed suicide after the age of 60, while for women the age was between 50 and 60.

Suicides by children under 10 numbered 8, two being girls. In all, 3,498 men committed suicide and 1,658 women. Twenty-eight girls under 16 tried to end their lives, compared with six boys.

218 BIRCHINGS
Breaking and Entering: Sixty-four per cent. of the 8,330 persons found guilty of breaking and entering were under 17, and 38 per cent. were under 14.

Drunkennes: Persons found guilty of drunkenness numbered 47,224, or 3,577 more than in the previous year.

Crime: The incidence of crime was nearly eight times greater among males than among females.

Corporal Punishment: In view of the appointment by the Home Secretary of the Committee on Corporal Punishment, figures are given showing that the number of such sentences imposed in the last 10 years by courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions was 253, of which 235 were for robbery with violence.

The number of birchings in 1935 was 218.

The report stresses the value of the probation system, and expresses the hope that its use will be extended.

TALLEST AND FATTEST

Strange Women In Legal Fight

Vienna, Aug. 7.

A WOMAN said to be the tallest of her sex in the world was defendant in a slander action here to-day.

The world's "second tallest" woman and four dwarfs were witnesses. The world's "fattest woman," also called as a witness, was unable to get through the door leading to the court and the judge excused her from attendance.

STRONG MEN ACT

Frau Mitzi Lohola, the second fat lady, weighing 48½ stone, was supported up the staircase by several strong men.

She was pushed and dragged into court. There she occupied the whole of the witnesses' bench, meant to accommodate four persons.

Fraulein Gisela Zamba (height 6ft. 7in. size 45 in shoes), a performer in a circus, denied the slander and called four Lilliputians in her defence.

The judge adjourned the proceedings.

The total "Budget" is estimated to be more than £13,000,000.

An increase in the rates is considered inevitable—in some rating areas it may reach 6d. in the £.

FIRE IN WEST PT.

COLLAPSE FATALITIES

Five bodies have so far been recovered in the collapse at 47 Third Street, which occurred shortly after 3 a.m. Several persons were also injured.

Waterloo Road Danger

Kowloon Tong suffered severely. Some streets were under three feet of water, numerous garden walls were blown down and almost 50 per cent of roofs were damaged.

During the night Waterloo Road was made quite impassable by the numerous sheets of corrugated iron which skimmed from one end to the other.

MID-LEVELS HAVOC

The mid-levels suffered mostly through fallen trees and minor landslides, which at a few spots rendered passage impossible. Kennedy Road was notable in this respect and in one place a falling tree had knocked a lamp-post sideways, almost off its foundation.

The middle part of Cable Road was little affected beyond the usual smashed and broken windows and doors, but further west residents were not so lucky. In Seymour Road near the Spanish Procurement a small part of a retaining wall of an old house collapsed but narrow though the road was at that part no hold-up of traffic was occasioned as the continuous rain soon spread the debris away.

Robinson Road was hardly damaged though in some cases fallen trees again caused some inconvenience. The houses here are old substantial ones in the main and though some of the residents felt the blow pretty severely there was not much fear of real danger in this locality. The trees on the western side of Garden Road suffered extensively. A small part of the wall at Government House a little above the entrance to the Botanical Gardens was broken through by a tree crashing on it.

One of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps lorries at Lower Albert Road had a narrow escape, a fairly heavy tree having apparently missed it by a matter of inches in its descent.

WALL BLOWN DOWN

Further damage in Kowloon included the carrying away of the toe-wall supporting the tennis lawn at the residence of Mr. J. P. Braga, at 11-12 Knutsford Terrace. For the whole length the lower half of the wall was blown down and creepers, plants and trees completely destroyed. Apartment buildings near by also suffered damage, wireless aerials everywhere being blown down.

The Kowloon Football Club stands are blown down and the clubhouse is badly damaged. The recently-opened Filipino Club at King's Park has been practically demolished.

by the angry harbour littered the roadway.

Foundered

An account of how the An Lee had struck the wharf and the difficulties encountered by the rescue party that took the crew to safety was told to a Hongkong Telegraph reporter by Revenue Officer W. Ward. He said "I saw from the verandah of my quarters the boat coming down from the direction of Kowloon Bay. The mast lights were on but seemed uncontrollable. It narrowly missed hitting the Yuenai Ferry Wharf before striking the Luen Cheong Wharf portside on."

Going on to describe the difficulties encountered by the rescue party he said "Myself and eight other companions left the Revenue Officer's building and made straight for the wharf. The wind was so strong that we could not walk, and ropes had to be tied around our waists connecting us together. Even so, several of us were lifted off our feet. The crew of the An Lee were leaping from the

NO MORE
NORTHJAPANESE THINK NUMBER ENOUGH

Tientsin, Sept. 2.

Japanese troop movements to North China have been virtually completed, the leaders believing them strong enough for any exigency.

The number of Japanese forces in North China is estimated at 120,000, and is possibly more.

The territory from Kailan to the sea is now actually occupied with military forces, deployed defensively, and also retaining mobile offensive troops where needed.

Peiping is daily becoming more impregnable with gun emplacements on permanent foundations replacing the earlier hasty defences.

The suspension of reinforcements has eased the tension in the concessions where Japanese conduct has caused frequent protests. The British concession is strengthening the outer barricades despite Japanese assurances that troops will avoid the British concession.

It has been revealed that some Tokyo taxi-drivers have been assigned to trucks and have been responsible for much of the reckless driving in Tientsin.—United Press.

AVERTED CRISIS

Brussels, Sept. 1.

The anticipated cabinet crisis has been averted.

Trouble arose yesterday owing to differences between the Finance Minister and the Prime Minister owing to the latter's connection with the state bank. The case will be judged by Parliament next week, which is being specially summoned.—Reuter.

AMAZING DRAMA IN

at angles of thirty degrees to the roadway. Huge branches from the trees in Causeway Bay were found as far down as the Wanchai district. The greatest damage was sustained by the floating population at Shaikwan and Causeway Bay. Huge mooring-rope across the road from junks in Causeway Bay were of little use. At Shaikwan the full force of the wind was felt, blowing right into the shelter there. Two feet of rain at Shaikwan is not known yet. There were two houses collapsed, while almost every Chinese house in the Shaikwan village was levelled to the ground.

Blocked with leaves and other debris, the gutters along Queen's Road East and part of Queen's Road Central have turned the roadway into a miniature pond with the water about two feet deep. The Wanchai district is denuded of its numerous signboards. Telephone communication with Stanley has been disrupted. Exposed to the south and east the full force of the gale must have been felt there but no particulars of damage can be obtained.

Practically every shop in the lower end of Nathan Road had its plate glass windows blown in five o'clock this morning, and the footpaths were a mass of debris, damaged window displays and broken foliage.

Lane, Crawford's store was wide open with the roof of the shop quickly ruined by the floods of water washed in by the gale.

Marcel Cafe and Kowloon Confectionery were in a similar plight. The low-lying areas around the Peninsula Hotel were flooded, the waters being two feet deep in the immediate vicinity of the hotel, and a foot deep further up Nathan Road.

A part of Police linked together by ropes was sent out following a report that an elderly man was in distress.

A motor car was turned completely over and lay in two feet of water in Middle Road.

POLICE STATION ROOF
BLOWN AWAY

The water police lost wireless contact with police launches during the night owing to breakdown.

The roof of the Indian police quarter at the Water Police Station was blown off and the men had to be accommodated in the main building.

The Sun Sing is aground at Stanley Bay.

WALL FLATTENED

Fifty yards of wall outside Car-narvon Building was completely flattened and other walls in Kimberley Road were also razed to the ground. A tree three feet thick in Nathan Road was uprooted entirely and thrown across the road.

NO. 8 SIGNAL UP

Shortly after dawn there were signs that the gale was decreasing in force, although a fierce wind continued to sweep the Colony, leaving destruction in its wake.

At 7.20 a.m. the No. 8 signal (gale expected from S.E.) was hoisted.

There were six small Chinese steamers moored in Kowloon Bay last night but this morning four had disappeared and two are aground.

The Eng Lee is hard aground adjacent to the Kowloon Football Club. The Eng Lee is aground just outside the northern end of Kowloon Duck. She is well out of the water. No. 9 police launch is reported to be missing, but it is not known whether there was any crew on board.

In Tokwa Road, Hungnam, opposite Bailey's shipyard, a Chinese hut has collapsed, resulting in the death of three people.

CARGOES MOUNT UP AS WAR CONTINUES

To-day Hongkong is experiencing a shipping boom which has not been equalled for over ten years. Unfortunates have been injured by the very same reasons which the boom is occurring almost counteract any gains.

On an average there are almost 100 overseas or coastal ships in harbour each day, of which nearly half are simply lying in Hongkong waiting for the war to be concluded before taking up their normal schedules.

Many of these ships are visiting Hongkong for the first time, or the first time in many years, and normally ply in northern waters, most of them carrying coal. Numerous Indian ships were on route to Shanghai when the war broke out and were diverted here.

Meantime the ships which carried cargo for Shanghai and have been unable to unload there have left their cargo here or in Kobe and to-day practically every godown in the Colony is full to capacity. Importers or agents are even trying to rent offices in city buildings for the storage of clean cargo, though in most cases, owing to the weight, these attempts are meeting with no success.

The hamper of goods that has been called into service and large quantities of paper are being stored there, while non-perishable cargo is in many cases being left in the open or under temporary shelters. Lighters are almost impossible to obtain now and the few available can only be hired at nearly 1,000 per cent. over the normal rate.

Some of the larger vessels in port yesterday included:

Talamba, Ward, India, Arabia Maru, Nagara, Dulaburg, Van Heutz, Gertrude, Macrak, Emmy, Severn Leigh, Tanda, Cape St. Francis, Shuntien, Baden, Great Northern Telegraph cable ship, Tinegara, Argon Maru, Kiangsu, Norviken, Suiyang, Woolgar, Prominent, Nanchang,

SHANGHAI TRADE.

Shipping Begins to Move
On Limited Basis

Merchant shipping in Shanghai is beginning to creep out of its shelter now that there have been several days of comparative quiet along the Yangtze River and near Woosung. Sailings and arrivals still have to be scheduled on a day to day basis owing to the uncertainty of the war situation, but it can no longer be said that merchant shipping here is at a complete standstill.

SHANGHAI TRADE.

Shipping Begins to Move
On Limited Basis

After being held up at Woosung for some time, the Hsin Peiking came up the river and after taking on board 1,200 refugee passengers, sailed on the evening for Ningpo. When she returns to Shanghai, the present arrangement is to despatch her to Swatow with a heavy load of passengers.

The Hsuan, also of the China Navigation Company, has entered port and is scheduled to sail for Hongkong and Canton. The Shengking is now to sail for Tsingtao, Weihaiwei and Chefoo.

The greatest difficulty for the Butterfield vessels in using Shanghai harbour at present is the unusual congestion at and just off the French Bund. The boom just above their wharves, the numerous foreign warships and the closely congested lighters, tugs, etc., make it almost impossible for the Butterfield vessels to swing and tie up in that part of the river.

ROBBERY ON JUNK

SIX MEN CHARGED AT TAIPO COURT

Off High Island on July 31, Kong Chun, master of a junk, was robbed of 37 cases of sugar, 40 tins of kerosene, a case of matches and articles of clothing. Chan Wing-choi, Tang Sang, Ng Kun, Shek Sang, Ma Fung-yin and Wong Hon, were charged before Mr. J. Barrow, District Officer North at the Tai Po Police Station yesterday in connection with the crime.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution. Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho appeared for Tang and Mr. D. McCullum represented Chan, Ng and Ma.

Mr. Abbott said that on July 10, Kong Chun set out for Hongkong from Pinghoi. The boat reached Shaikwan on July 18 and remained there for 10 days.

Shortly after leaving Shaikwan they ran into bad weather and were forced to land at Lung Shuen Wan where they stayed throughout July 29 and 30. About 1 a.m. on July 30 Kong was awakened by the noise of someone boarding his boat and he saw a large sampan alongside. On board his boat were four strange men, one of whom held a revolver, two possessed knives and the fourth had a piece of rope. The crew was bound and forced to lie down at the stern where they were covered with matting.

While under the matting they heard the anchor being raised. There was no wind and the robbers started to row. After three hours the boat stopped and two of the robbers took the cargo out of one of the holds. The captured men were then forced into the hold with the cover slightly raised for air. It was about daybreak when anchor was dropped and about 7 a.m. Kong, peeping through the crack left by the cover, saw a sampan come alongside with two men on board. The goods were sold into that sampan. The sampan then went away.

Between 3 and 4 p.m., Kong and the other three men ventured from the hold and found themselves in a bay in Kongmoon. There was no one else on board. Upon discovering that their goods had been stolen, they weighed anchor and sailed for Shaikwan. On the way they met the No. 1 Police launch and made a report. Their boat was secured to the Police launch and they went to Kongmoon. When they reached Kongmoon, Lam Tai and Lam Wai went ashore with Sub-inspector Oliver and there arrested first, second, third, fourth and fifth defendants. Sixth defendant was later arrested by Sergeant Kinnear.

Kong, in evidence, substantiated the outline and identified second and third defendants. The crew also corroborated and identified the remaining defendants.

The case was adjourned until September 7 in order to call witnesses for third and sixth accused. Mr. McCullum and Mr. Botelho said they would reserve their defence.

NEW MARKET OPENED

CONCRETE BUILDING IN KENNEDY TOWN

The new wholesale market at the extreme end of Kennedy Town was formally opened on Tuesday. It is situated in Cadogan Street and occupies the site of the market sheds that were once used for pigs and cows for the abattoirs.

The market, a low-roofed concrete-plastered building, is of modern design and has spacious compartments, which are well ventilated, for the use of the stallholders. It is intended to accommodate the wholesale trade formerly carried on in the Central Market, which building has been condemned.

Market Closes

All the meat, vegetable and fruit stalls in the central market having moved out before Tuesday night.

NO MORE SICK HEADACHES

Keep Your Stomach Clean

If you are a martyr to sick headaches, biliousness, liver upsets and similar disorders, here is news that will cheer you. In the majority of cases the source of the trouble is the stomach, where noxious gases accumulate and interfere with your digestion, poisoning the whole system and making you feel no good for anything.

Thousands of sufferers have put an end to all that misery by taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the carton and bottle. This proved remedy is gently laxative and helps to expel noxious, clogging waste matter. Two or three doses are usually sufficient to put your stomach in a clean, healthy condition.

At the first sign of discomfort seek refuge in Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. You can always rely on speedy relief. Do not experiment with cheap substitutes; leave that to others. You can safely put your faith in Maclean Brand—powder or tablets—in bottles or cartons. Never sold loose.

If you have any difficulty in obtaining it from your local chemist or store, write to Harker & Co., P.O. Box 536, Hong Kong.

PROFITEERING

Government's attitude on the question of profiteering in the necessities of life, disclosed at length by the Chairman of the Urban Council, cannot be regarded as wholly satisfactory. It is conceded that stocks are abundant and wholesale prices reasonably low; therefore, the Government hopes for a lowering of retail prices from plentiful competition between retailers. Should retailers combine to raise prices artificially, the Government, it is stated, will not fail to take appropriate action. The Government spokesman goes so far as to say that this method of creating a ring to maintain prices above normal rates is the only sort of activity to which term "profiteering" can properly be applied. The definition will not be generally accepted. If, as is the fact, retail prices are higher than circumstances justify, then there is profiteering, whether it be the result of a combined movement by retailers or not. There may be, in the absence of any "ring," a willingness on the part of some retailers to sell slightly below the rates of others, but, even so, prices in general may rise above the normal level, the increases varying only in degree. If one or two retailers jump up their prices, others will not be slow to follow suit. In course of time, the general rise becomes just as effective as if it resulted from agreed concerted action. There is a further point in the Government attitude which invites dispute, namely, the plea that the only practical alternative to the normal laws of supply and demand is purchase by the Government, and re-sale—a policy which the authorities are averse from adopting. There are, in fact, other methods of food control than that mentioned. In the Great War, Britain adopted a comprehensive scheme which aimed, amongst other things, at keeping food prices within reasonable limits. This was done, through the medium of

If, as is the fact, retail prices are higher than circumstances justify, then there is profiteering, whether it be the result of a combined movement by retailers or not. There may be, in the absence of any "ring," a willingness on the part of some retailers to sell slightly below the rates of others, but, even so, prices in general may rise above the normal level, the increases varying only in degree. If one or two retailers jump up their prices, others will not be slow to follow suit. In course of time, the general rise becomes just as effective as if it resulted from agreed concerted action. There is a further point in the Government attitude which invites dispute, namely, the plea that the only practical alternative to the normal laws of supply and demand is purchase by the Government, and re-sale—a policy which the authorities are averse from adopting. There are, in fact, other methods of food control than that mentioned. Government's attitude on the question of profiteering in the necessities of life, disclosed at length by the Chairman of the Urban Council, cannot be regarded as wholly satisfactory. It is conceded that stocks are abundant and wholesale prices reasonably low; therefore, the Government hopes for a lowering of retail prices from plentiful competition between retailers. Should retailers combine to raise prices artificially, the Government, it is stated, will not fail to take appropriate action. The Government spokesman goes so far as to say that this method of creating a ring to maintain prices above normal rates is the only sort of activity to which term "profiteering" can properly be applied. The definition will not be generally accepted. If, as is the fact, retail prices are higher than circumstances justify, then there is profiteering, whether it be the result of a combined movement by retailers or not. PROPHECY is made a ticklish business by the uncertainty, glorious or otherwise, of politics. Who last November in America could have foreseen the facts of the last few weeks?

When Franklin Roosevelt had just won for himself and his party a victory which startled even his friends and stunned his opponents, it was a personal triumph. The country had voted for Roosevelt. Except in the "solid south," Democratic Senators and Congressmen had mostly been carried to Washington on the Roosevelt flood.

If one thing seemed sure it was that whatever the President wanted to do he could do, with the assured and loyal, if not necessarily enthusiastic, support of great majorities in both House and Senate.

That was only eight months ago. But to-day the Senate is in open revolt. The Democratic Party is angrily split. The future is uncertain. And the shattered Republican Party is full of fight and confidence.

All because of the "nine old men."

Of course, everyone knew last autumn that something would have to be done about the Supreme Court.

All legislation in the States is at the mercy of the Court. That comes of having a written Constitution which is something superior to, and overriding, ordinary law.

Now the Supreme Court tends to be a highly conservative body. And from 1933 to 1936 it showed itself not only conservative, but die-hard.

An appeal after appeal came to it. It declared act after act of the "New Deal" unconstitutional, and therefore invalid. In those years thirteen cases involving "New Deal" legislation came before it. In eleven of the thirteen its verdict was unconstitutional.

In a Court of Nine there were only three really progressive-minded justices—Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo. Chief Justice Hughes, a Conservative, but no die-hard, realised the need for change.

But even when he joined with the three there was a solid block of five die-hards ready to say "No" at every possible opportunity.

HERE then was the position. A President and a Congress returned with an unquestionable mandate for sweeping reforms. Five of the "nine old men" apparently grimly determined to veto them all. What was to be done?

A Constitutional amendment might take a couple of years to carry (if it could be carried) and the need was urgent.

Roosevelt and his advisers thought of a quicker way. They remembered Asquith and the Lords. Why not overcome the opposition by creating new Judges—as Asquith had threatened to create new Peers. That, as it happened, could be done by ordinary legislation.

So one February morning Roosevelt startled all America by telling his plan to the White House correspondents, gathered for the usual weekly talk in the President's

F. E. BAILY tells YOU how to Keep a MAN happy . . .

THE first essential is to love him. If you love him better than anyone else it is impossible for him to do better for himself elsewhere.

Then get rid of that feminine illusion that a man is only a little boy grown up. He is not. Nor does the way to his heart lie through his stomach. He knows—and you ought to know too—that a brain dulled by heavy food puts him out of the running in these highly competitive days.

various boards working under the Food Ministry, by enforcing a system of maximum prices for various commodities. Such a plan could well be applied to the present situation in Hongkong; it would stop profiteering once and for all during the unusual conditions prevailing. The dominant fact is that, despite reasonably low wholesale prices, consumers are being muled in higher prices for the necessities of life. If that is not profiteering, we know of no other appropriate term to be applied to the process.

WHAT a man desires most in a woman are romance and fragrance and a charming picture; therefore see that he gets them and suppress firmly your intense desire to unburden your soul about the shortcomings of the kitchen boiler, the tradespeople and the children when he comes home at night.

FROM the beginning of your married life learn how to listen. Men love a woman to listen while they outline their ambitions and ideals.

EVERY husband longs to be considered a tough he-man; and unless it's absolutely unavoidable, never pretend that he is anything else.

Should your husband be ill, do what is necessary for his health and then leave him alone. Only the most hopeless kind of man likes being fussed over.

DON'T be too proud to indicate what things you like to be given, so that if he brings you a present, as all nice husbands do periodically, he won't feel disappointed because you pretend to like something you long to throw in the dustbin.

ON the other hand, there are several things which will turn the most amiable husband into an irritable man with a grievance. The first is trying to "reform" him—as the sort of wife who does that kind of thing calls it. You married the man for what he was. Accept the fact.

THE STORY OF THE CREEL

THE story has already been told how "Margaret," the Newhaven fishwife doll, came to be presented to Princess Margaret, Rose, and how the creel was made the receptacle for the donations which came pouring in from the good Newhaven folks for the benefit of the Cripple Children's Hospital.

The story of the creel itself, which completed the outfit, is an interesting one. The creel is correct in the minutest detail, with the spaces for the handgrip and the skep, and so neatly is it made that one could hardly imagine a creelmaker in these strenuous times sitting down to weave by hand the baskets in miniature which compose the outfit.

Twenty-one years ago, during the anxious days of the Great War, a travelling creelmaker knocked at the door of a fisherwoman's house in Newhaven and offered his wares. Struck by the man's weathered look she said, "You're lookin' awfully tired, man. Would ye like a cup o' tea?" He accepted the hospitality gladly, and before going, exhibited the little

Bill had not a chance of passing did the President consent to compromise. A new Bill was produced. Only for each Judge over 75 would be appointed an "extra," and then only one a year.

It was insufficient, too late—and unnecessary. Because the country had come to see that after all, for the need of the moment, no change was needed at all. The Supreme Court—or one of it—had decided to give up the struggle.

Sixty-one-year-old Owen Josephus Roberts, one-time Professor of Law in Pennsylvania University, appointed to the Court by Mr. Hoover, had "switched."

ALL through the first term Mr. Roberts had voted anti-New Deal. Now Mr. Roberts began to vote pro-New Deal. Van Devanter and McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland stood out. But judgments, instead of five to four against, became five to four for.

Of ten "New Deal" judgments in 1937, ten have been favourable. The President had he realised it, had got all he wanted.

Of course, it all depended on Owen Josephus Roberts. And he might at any moment switch back. But when Mr. Van Devanter (77) announced his intention of retiring, the situation was clinched.

The fight in the Court was won. But Roosevelt was not content. A new issue had arisen: the revolt in the Senate. The President's prestige and authority (whispered his advisers) were at stake. Party discipline must be restored. The Senate must be made to pass the Compromise Bill.

Roosevelt, nobly demanded that it be voted. Farley cracked the party whip more manfully than ever. Senator Pittman (Vice-President Garner sulking in Texas) startlingly amended procedure by high-handed rulings from the chair. The Administration went all out to coerce the Senate.

And the Senate dug its toes in: fighting now, not so much against the Bill as for its own independence—freedom of the legislature from control by the Executive. On the decisive vote only 20 Senators out of 66 backed the President.

THE Bill is dead: which, in the circumstances, matters little. The Senate has asserted its independence of the President, which matters a great deal. Roosevelt has been taught that, despite his personal triumph of November, he is only head of the Administration, not master of the legislature.

Unless he accepts defeat, if he decides to renew the challenge, a conflict is opening which may change the whole aspect of American politics for years to come.

To-day's Thought

He who is too powerful seeks power beyond his power.
—SENECA.

THE second is to compare him unfavourably with Mr. Blank up the road, who drives a much larger car, sends his children to more expensive schools, and buys his wife much better frocks.

If your husband cares two hoots about you, and if not it's your fault he does his best to provide you with a luxury car, buy you model frocks, and send all your sons to Eton and all your daughters to Roedean. If he hasn't succeeded, this hurts him a great deal more than it hurts you, so don't rub it in.

creel, saying that he took great pleasure in making these toys in his spare time, and usually received good payment for them. He asked her if she would buy one, but there were no children in the home, and she told him she would have no use for it. But out of pity for the man's state, she bought it, and the little creel has been hanging on the wall of her living-room these 21 years.

Gifted to make the dolly complete, for there was no time to have one made, the donor and her friends saw to it that the clothes also were correct in detail, and "Margaret" has taken up residence in Buckingham Palace, a splendid little replica of our worthy fisher folk. Little did that creelmaker think his toy creel would make such a romantic journey 21 years later.

To those who are interested, it may be mentioned that there is one distinctive difference between the outfit of the Newhaven and Fisherrow women: The strap of the creel which dials over the head is white for Newhaven and black for Fisherrow.

'SCANDAL' OF CHURCH DIVISIONS

—DR. TEMPLE

DIVISIONS in the Church were deplored by the Archbishop of York (Dr. Temple) recently at the opening of the World Conference on Faith and Order, at St. Giles', Edinburgh.

If it was true that in its deepest nature the Church was always one, he said, it was also true that to-day it was the so-called "churches," rather than any forces of the secular world, which prevented that unity from being manifest and effective.

Here was matter for deep penitence. He spoke as a member of one of those churches which still maintained barriers against inter-Communion and he knew that their division at that point was the greatest of all scandals in the face of the world.

UNITY—THEN UNION

Unless the churches were ready to learn one from another as well as to teach one another, the divisions would remain.

Therefore their loyalty to their own churches would not best be expressed in a rigid insistence by each

£1,377 Millions In Trust Funds

Funds of registered provident societies, omitting superannuation and other trust funds which were not registered until after 1927, have risen from £254 millions in 1913 to £1,377 millions in 1935. These figures are given in the report of the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies for 1936 (Stationery Office, Ltd.). There were 36,513 societies, trusts, etc., at the end of 1936, with 117,708,000 members.

upon his own tradition. They could not seek union if they did not already possess unity.

Dr. Temple said they deeply regretted the absence of a delegation from the German Evangelical Church. They regretted still more the occasion of the absence.

They prayed that their German friends might have wisdom and courage for the difficult days before them.

Delegates to the conference come from all parts of the world. Besides Anglicans, Baptists, Congregationalists, Lutherans, Methodists, Old Catholics, Orthodox Presbyterians and Quakers.

'CHRISTIAN'S DUTY NEVER TO FIGHT'

Dr. Alfred Hall, of Sheffield, in his presidential address to the Congress of the International Association for Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, at Oxford, declared that it was the duty of religious people never to take military weapons to secure right.

Those at the congress were gathered from many countries, and he hoped they would realise that no question could be settled permanently by war, which brought all the ills which it was supposed to cure and carried with it graver injustices than those it set out to abolish.

Ulster Gunmen Raid Minister's Home

GIRL HELD UP WHILE HOUSE WAS SEARCHED

Belfast, Aug. 7. THREE armed men, it is revealed to-day, entered the home of Sir Dawson Bates, Ulster Minister of Home Affairs, at Portrush, County Antrim, last night and ransacked the house.

It is believed that they were searching for confidential police reports relating to last week's disorders during the royal visit.

The only occupant of the house at the time was a servant.

The men ordered her to one side, and while one of them stood on guard the others made a search.

Drawer after drawer was pulled from desks and every possible place that might contain papers was combed.

No article of value was touched.

DRASTIC POWERS Sir Dawson's department is responsible for public order and he is Minister in charge of enforcement of the Civil Authorities Act, which gives the Government drastic powers to deal with seditious activities.

After apparently having failed in their search, the men, believed to be I.R.A. gunmen, threatened the girl not to raise any outcry and escaped in a car which was waiting outside with the engine running.

All police stations in the surrounding area were hurriedly warned to keep a look-out for the men, but despite intensive search no arrest has yet been made.

Lady Bates said to-night that the raid occurred while she was in bed. She was about ten miles from her home.

STORY OF INTERVIEW

"The only person in the house," she said, was a maid, who has told me that she was in another part of the house when, hearing a noise in the smoking room, she found three men there.

"They said they had an appointment with my husband."

"She explained that he was out, but the men pushed her aside and told her to sit down in the kitchen. One of them kept guard over her and ordered her not to move."

"They had their hands in their pockets, and were not masked."

"Fortunately, none of my husband's papers of any value was in the house. I had removed them in the morning."

"When the police visited the house after the maid had raised the alarm they found in one of the rooms a scrap of paper on which was drawn a plan of the building and marked with arrows of how it could be approached."

P.C. MUST GET DRUNK

(But Not Very)

Wakefield, Yorkshire. A POLICE-CONSTABLE here is to be placed officially under the influence of drink—for the sake of science.

Dr. P. L. Sutherland, the county bacteriologist and pathologist, is anxious to introduce blood tests for the examination of accused motorists. He has recommended the tests to the police after two visits to the Medico-Legal Institute of the University of Berlin.

Mr. G. Campbell Vaughan, Chief Constable of the West Riding, said: "One of my constables at headquarters has offered himself for the experiment."

"There is no need for him to get really drunk, but... well, we shall give him just a drop—enough to affect his blood stream."

Dr. Sutherland is almost ready to make the policeman merry. "I am not asking for this test to supersede the others," he said, "but it should prove of great value in confirming them."

"SIMPLE OPERATION" "It will be a simple operation. The police surgeon will give his 'patient' a needle prick and take a drop or two of blood from his ear, and send it to me in a tiny tube."

"I want to see every police station equipped for this essential addition to the list of 'drinks' tests, and I am hoping we shall have the service early in the winter."

In Germany the blood is collected in specially designed glass tubes and can be safely kept for several days before the test is made, writes our medical correspondent. Two parts of alcohol in a thousand of blood indicates that a person is unfit to drive.

BRITISH SEAMEN DE-LUXE Bathrooms, Waiters

AFTER long consultation with the Shipping Federation and the National Seamen's Union, the Board of Trade is about to issue completely new rules concerning the accommodation for seamen in British ships.

This will be in many ways an historic document—a new Bill of Rights of the sea, for it is many years since the matter has formed the subject of official rules.

In conversation with an official of the Seamen's Union, I was shown the plan of a British ship in the bad old days where the owner had discovered that by sleeping his crew with legs bent he could accommodate an additional number in the limited space of the forecastle, and had so arranged the quarters, writes a special correspondent.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

The plan showed the men lying like so many letters "J" on the deck.

Times have changed to-day out of all recognition. There are the happiest relations between shipowners and men, and the new regulations of the Board of Trade are merely regulating a practice common to all progressive owners.

Mr. Basil Sanderson, the chairman of the executive of the Shipping Federation, says that they have the complete approval of that body, and Mr. Spence, the general secretary of the Seamen's Union, told me that many owners are so anxious to improve the conditions of their men that they submit the plans of new ships to the union for their comments.

Some of the most recent have provided individual sleeping bunks, bathrooms, spacious messrooms, and recreation rooms for the watches below, and even the services of a messroom boy to wait on them, which to the old-time seaman must seem the height of luxury.

BETTER THAN LAND JOBS

With these improvements the sea to-day will offer a livelihood to young men of our race better than many land jobs.

I was told by many of the officials of the National Seamen's Union, which has recently been celebrating

MINISTER TO TOUR PRISONS

THE Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, is expected to begin a series of visits to prisons within the next few weeks.

It is understood he will visit Dartmoor, Portland, Maidstone, Parkhurst and smaller prisons.

It is at a medium-sized local prison that Sir Samuel has stated the scheme of payment for work in prison will be introduced. It will be extended as experience is gained.

Matters which he will consider on his tour include smoking communal meals and association during exercise.

The Home Secretary is a great-nephew of Elizabeth Fry, the famous prison reformer, and in opening an Elizabeth Fry Exhibition at Norwich recently he compared the conditions in prison now with those in Miss Fry's time.

"ROOMS" INSTEAD OF "CELLS" "In the women's prisons," he said, "we are attempting to concentrate on the reforming side of prison life."

"The women no longer talk about cells. Each woman prisoner has her own room, and those rooms are very different from what the ignorant would imagine a prison cell to be."

"We have got away from the old idea of distinctive prison clothes, and the women in these prisons dress very much like women outside."

The administrators, he said, were trying very hard to keep the women prisoners on work which would really help them to find jobs when they left prison.

They were assisted to find work when they were released and while in prison there were educational classes, libraries and up-to-date hospitals, with pre-natal and post-natal treatment.

BABIES BORN IN GAOL

Sir Samuel added: "A feeling has often been expressed to me in the House of Commons that it is an outrageous thing that a child should be born in prison."

"As a matter of fact, children, if they are born in prison, are always given an address that is not a prison address, and I have found that quite a number of the women whose babies have been born in prison have so much appreciated the very high standard of treatment they have received that, to judge from their own views, they would prefer to go on with the present arrangement."

SCOTTISH LEAGUE FOOTBALL VICTORY

Belfast, Sept. 1.
Meeting in the season's first Inter-Football League matches here to-day, the Scottish league beat the Irish league by three goals to two.

Twelve thousand attended the match, and saw the Scottish attack open in thrifful manner. The defence was also steady, but later it was troubled by the nippy Irish forwards.

In the 30th minute, Doherty, the clever Irish half back, lobbed the ball into the Scottish goalmouth and Turnbull headed in, to open Ireland's account.

Buchan was going through to score when he was brought down, and from the resultant free kick he levelled the scores for Scotland. At half time the teams shared two goals.

Kernaghan netted for the Irish League in the 40th minute, but Black quickly equalised from a scramble in the Irish goalmouth, the point coming in the 50th minute.

Seven minutes from the end Buchan scored again for Scotland from a penalty.—Reuter.

JACOBS' LATEST

Boxing Promoter Holds Elimination Tourney

New York, Aug. 31.
Mike Jacobs, of the Twentieth Century Club, and promoter of the last heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, announced to-day that he will hold an "elimination" tournament to find a "fight" opponent for Louis in June.

Explaining that the negro's injured hand would not allow him to fight this winter, Jacobs said the eligibles include Max Schmeling, Tommy Farr (beaten by Louis last Monday), Max Baer, Doc Adams, Jimmy Braddock and Jimmy Adams.

A country-wide search will also be made for other eligible boxers over 175 pounds.

Julian Black, Joe Louis' manager, announced that the negro's European trip has been cancelled.

Max Schmeling, who has been wanting a chance to get at the title since he defeated Louis last year, has emphatically refused to enter this tournament saying it is a mere trick to prevent him taking the title from Louis.—United Press.

ARMSTRONG WINS

Detroit, Aug. 31.
Henry Armstrong, 131½ lb., gained a technical knock-out decision over Orville Drouillard, 134 lb. of Windsor, Ontario, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout to-day.

In the fourth round, Armstrong floored Drouillard for nine, only the bell saving him. In the next round, Drouillard was so battered that he was hanging to the ropes for support.—United Press.

BOWLS TOURNAMENT Quarter-Final Singles

Two quarter-finals in the bowls singles championship were played at the Hongkong F.C. yesterday. U. M. Omar beat G. H. Sherriff and S. M. Omar beat A. S. Gomes 21-20. While the game between Randle and Gomes was the more exciting in view of the close scores, the Omar-Sherriff match provided the higher standard. Omar won 21-13 after trailing for several heads when he was overhauled by the more consistent drawing of Sherriff, who led 9-3 on the eighth. Omar then pulled up well to pass him on the 12th with a three by trailing the Jack after the umpire had announced it was a miss for the shot.

Then with two, three, one, two, and one Omar went to 17-10 and from then onward was seldom in danger of being overtaken. He was playing much more consistently at this stage than at the start, and his first wood when he had the Jack, was seldom more than a foot away.

Sherriff failed to maintain the same high standard he set at the start but even towards the end he sent up some good woods.

RANDLE'S LUCK

Randle must consider himself lucky to be in the semi-final. It was a ding-dong struggle right through, and on the 22nd Gomes was leading 20-19. Randle had two woods a couple of feet away, but with his last drew the shot. Randle attempted to push it through with his last but was hopelessly narrow. The wood, however, hit up one of his own front ones to give him the shot by a fraction of an inch!

On the 23rd Randle put his first a few inches behind the Jack and this remained the shot until the end to give Randle the match.

At the K.C.C. H. A. Alves defeated L. F. Xavier, 21-13. He was the more consistent but at the start Xavier was more impressive. He went into a lead of 11-5 but scored only two shots afterwards while his opponent registered 10. The game finished on the 23rd head.

On Tuesday, A. S. Russell eliminated J. S. Landolt 21-20 at the K.C.C.

TWO NEW RECORDS

Danish Girl Breaks Old Swimming Marks

Aarhus, Sept. 1.
The 16-year-old Danish girl, Hagarild Iversen, broke two women's free style swimming records to-day.

In the 100 yards, she was timed at 5.14, compared with Miss T. Wagner's (Holland) previous mark of 5.22 and in the 500 yards she was timed at 5.57.9, which easily beats the old record, also held by Miss Wagner, of 6.9.8.—Reuter.

SOUTH CHINA'S GALA

MAK WAI-MING WINS THE INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The versatility of Mak Wai-ming, sprinter and long distance swimmer, excelling in breast stroke and free style, gained for him the individual championship of the South China Athletic Association this year in its annual swimming championships which concluded last night. Norman Lee was ousted from the coveted position by one point.

The approaching typhoon made the water choppy and difficult for swimming, but despite this Norman Lee lowered the Kwangtung record for the 100 metres back-stroke when he clocked 53 4/5 sec. He scored his second win in the 50 metres which in 28 4/5 sec, a remarkable time considering the conditions. Mak Wai-ming swam extremely well to return 3 min. 13 1/5 sec. for the 200 metres breast stroke. The Ladies Individual Championship was won by Miss Sum Wai-yung.

At the conclusion the prizes were distributed by the Vice President, Mr. Chan Man-chi.

Results:
Sprint Race—1. Robert Yuen; 2. Yu Chi-chow; 3. Lai Hop-chai.
200 M. Team Race for Girls (Open)—1. Mui Fung Girls' School; 2. Chung Shing Bathing Club; 3. South China.
Time: 3 min. 35 3/5 sec.
100 M. Free Style—1. Norman Lee; 2. Mak Wai-ming; 3. T. Wong. Time: 28 4/5 sec.
50 M. for the Training Middle class (Handicap)—1. Ng Choi-kin; 2. Lung Kwok-chai; 3. Lui Sik-kwan.
100 M. Back Stroke—1. Norman Lee; 2. Poon Wing-kai; 3. Yuen Chi-kwok. Time: 53 4/5 sec.
Fancy Diving—1. Stanley Lee; 2. Yeung Cheung-wan; 3. Chan Ying.

Bowls Notes

AUTOMATIC PLAY A SYSTEM TO IMPROVE INDIVIDUAL STANDARD

By G. T. Burrows (The Skip)

One out of every four bowlers in the flat green game nowadays is being termed a pothunter. By the remaining three this odd man is generally regarded with a certain amount of derision, even if not something worse.

Because at certain periods of an all-too-short outdoor season he kicks over traditional traces by giving the four-a-side game as wide a berth as possible, going to one more serious tournament, or plunging a long way furrow through his county singles championship, he is called "selfish," the main jibe used against him being that he thinks too much of himself and too little of his club.

Because he is anxious to rise and take some rank or standing in the game, he has to endure the stigma of being generally looked upon as a pothunter. He may be a lonely man. He may, on the other hand, be so utterly conscientious about his game (and about his effort to rise in it) that if in the process of rising, he falls a few times he prefers to fall alone rather than bring down three others in any futile efforts to win at the rink game.

How many English internationals have been chosen for their rink team spirit? Very few during the past few seasons. How many internationals have been chosen because of their proved skill at the singles games? Nearly all the present generation!

How, then, is a man to rise out of the rut of ordinary club bowls at West Ham, or Wimbledon, or Winchester? It is by proving that he has the match-winning spirit and temperament at singles, becoming a county, and perchance a national champion that he gets into the English side!

Can you call such a worthy player selfish? Does his club wish him to take part in some trivial game against an old friendly neighbor, when he is competing at Worthing or Hastings, is he to be stigmatised a pothunter? Yet he is, in no uncertain manner.

NO THRILL IN AUTOMATIC BOWLS

Where lies any real thrill in playing automatic club bowls, usually from the same two yards marks at this end of the green to the same week after week?

Would it not be better to decide all club matches by singles, or by pairs, or even by both? By "both" I mean 11 up at singles and 15 up at 1 hrs. the aggregate shots scored at 1 hr singles and pairs to give the result.

Would not this style of game make club players more capable, individually, rather than the tendency of one half a club side being carried to victory by the more expert other half?

If this system of deciding club games at singles, or pairs, or both combined, has been proved to be the backbone of the crown green game in the industrial counties, and in other areas where the pairs game is still looked upon as a necessary part of match play, surely it is good enough for the E.B.A. game!

Revolutionary, you may exclaim. It is; but we should discover our most dependable "big occasion" players sooner than we are doing to-day.

END-BUILDING STRATEGY

By this name I would decide the annual international games by aggregates of singles and pairs play, ordered to count and 1 foot sure that with new areas from which we should be able to select our players, England would not weep on losing.

I would continue the four-bowl game at singles and pairs, because, after all, it is infinitely more skillful than the two-wood game of the crown green game.

I am fully aware that skill in crown green style comes from navigating the switchbacks and the falling marks of these northern woods, but end-building with four greens becomes sheer strategy, something which is missing in the sister game.

But a bowler who loves the man-to-man game and who is brave

Did you fall in love at first sight?

WHAT is love at first? Neither science nor chemistry can account for it. People who believe in horoscopes say that the answer can be found in the magnetism of the planets which were in the ascendant when each of the two people was born. That their ruling planets generate an irresistible force which draws them together. That they are affinities, made for one another.

Recently we published an article giving a guide to affinities and antipathies. The exact minute of birth is necessary to determine accurately our individual natures, but the sun's position at birth will reveal our general characteristics.

Even if you are a bit sceptical about the stars and the effect they have on you, it is fun to try to work out your affinities. And this article will tell you something about their characters.

April 19

ARIES: This sign marks the beginning of the Zodiacal year, and people born under it are pioneers and explorers. Their sign ruler is Mars, belonging to the fiery group. Their natures are possessive and inclined to be dominating; they can be led by tact and affection, but can never be ruled. Opposition only drives them further in the opposite direction; praise and sympathy will bring out the best in them. Arians will get on best with Sagittarians or Leo people, and the near degrees of Gemini or Aquarius will be congenial.

April 20 to

TAURUS is an earthy sign, and the ruler is Venus, who bestows a magnetic personality and usually great physical beauty. These people are hard workers, and most of them acquire comparative riches, but they will be obstinate and unadaptable. Slow to anger, they will be unappeasable once they are aroused; the best way to get round them will be to appeal to their sense of humour. Virgo and Capricorn people will be most sympathetic to them, and Cancer and Pisces are also congenial signs.

June 20

GEMINI: This element here is air, giving intellectual attainments, but their ruler, Mercury, that brilliant but unstable person, makes them too facile for depth. Their partners for life will need to be adaptable and long-suffering, for Gemini people will always be restless and changeable in their moods. They can be brilliant, charming, and very companionable. Probably they will never save money, but, however exasperating they may be, it will be hard not to fall under their spell. Partners in marriage should come from Libra or Aquarius for compatibility, but Aries and Leo would also be sympathetic.

July 22

CANCER: The sign ruler is the moon, and the element is water. These people are difficult to understand. Apparently easily influenced, disliking discord or publicity, they will nevertheless hold firmly to an opinion or an idea. They may possess artistic ability, and are sensitive and easy hurt. They need very sympathetic treatment, and would get on best with Scorpio or Pisces people, though Virgo and Taurus are also congenial signs.

July 23 to

August 22

LEO: This is a fiery sign, and the ruler is the sun. Leo people are rarely mean or small-minded. Loyal, generous, proud, possessing a natural dignity, they make wonderful friends or marriage partners, but implacable enemies once they have been deceived.

They are rarely gregarious, and it is hard to break down their natural reserve. Utterly fearless, they are hard to intimidate. For complete harmony marriage partners should be chosen from the signs of Aries or Sagittarius, Gemini and Libra people would also get on well with them.

September 22

VIRGO: Here the element is earth, and the sign ruler Mercury. Virgo people are extremely critical, and possess the analytical faculty to a high degree. They have excellent memories, shine at detail work, and often have a flair for scientific research. They lack accuracy or interference in their affairs; at heart are extremely affectionate, even sentimental, when drawn out.

Marriage partners should be chosen from Capricorn or Taurus, but Scorpio or Cancer should be harmonious.

October 22

LIBRA: This sign is in the Airy Group, and the ruler is Venus. Librans are fastidious, sensitive to beauty, critical, just, and though unassertive as a rule they usually get their own way. They will have natural good taste and discrimination, and will probably excel in one of the arts.

Aquarius, Gemini, Leo and Sagittarius will be sympathetic.

October 23 to

November 21

SCORPIO: The sign ruler here is Mars, and the element is water. These are masterful, possessive, and self-controlled people.

They possess considerable personal magnetism and tremendous will-power and will gain their objectives despite every obstacle. Demonstrative to love, Scorpio men will sweep the object of their affections off their feet.

Too much of their own way will make them domineering, sarcastic, and complacent; they need to be handled tactfully. Pisces or Cancer people would make ideal companions, and Virgo and Capricorn should also be congenial.

November 22 to

December 21

SAGITTARIUS: This is a fiery sign, and the ruler is Jupiter. Optimistic, unconventional, ambitious, but careless about possessions, Sagittarians are cultured and independent.

They are usually fond of games and the open air, and seldom refuse a sporting chance. Gambling is often a weakness, but a sense of humour and a ready wit will more than make up for deficiencies. Leo, Aries, Aquarius and Libra are compatible signs.

December 22 to

January 19

CAPRICORN: Here the ruler is Saturn, who bestows reliability, perseverance, and a sense of duty. It is an earthy sign, and the natives will be thrifty and inclined to be serious.

Usually sincere and faithful in their affections, they are subject to moods, and will need bright and cheerful people around them. Taurus or Virgo people being most congenial, but Aries and Scorpio are both sympathetic.

January 20 to

February 19

AQUARIUS is an airy sign, and has two rulers. Saturn brings acceptance of existing condition; Uranus is enterprising and progressive.

Aquarians are therefore changeable in their moods, but are fundamentally just, kindly, and loyal while their affections are usually deep and sincere.

Affinities of Aquarians will be found in the signs of Libra or Gemini. Aries and Sagittarius are also congenial.

February 20 to

March 20

PISCES: This is a watery sign, and the natives are usually great travellers. The sign rulers are Jupiter and Neptune. Adaptable, pliable, easily led, these people have nevertheless considerable strength of character.

They are extremely sympathetic, and possess an affectionate nature, but are not renowned for their constancy.

Cancer and Scorpio are congenial, and Taurus and Capricorn also produce compatible types.

People who are born when the sun is passing from one sign to another, that is, about the 21st of each month, inherit the characteristics of both signs, the predominating qualities depending upon the time of birth.

DOCTOR IN LIONS' DEN

STRANGE THEORY TESTED

One thousand doctors in Belfast last month saw probably the strangest entertainment ever staged at a British Medical Association conference.

They saw Dr. R. H. Hunter, Curator of Belfast Zoo, make good a promise to delegates to the Association meeting.

He told them that lion-taming was better than golf for slimming and that he would give a demonstration of lion-taming as a concluding thrill.

He entered the cage of two untamed lionesses, watched by a crowd of delegates, their wives, and daughters. He was in evening dress, with a buttonhole of carnations.

Armed only with an iron prong and a whip, he subdued the snarling beasts.

He stayed in the cage for four minutes, but that was too long for some of the crowd, and there were shouts of "Come out of it. That's enough."

Several times during the demonstration Trixi, the more savage of the pair, snarled, but a prong was sufficient to make her retreat.

When Dr. Hunter came out of the cage he was bathed in perspiration.

"It's a tough job," he said, "especially as these lions are by no means trained. But, as I said before, it is a better exercise than golf for slimming."

"I have given up golf altogether for lion taming. Golf is far too slow in comparison."

"I get as much exercise in half an hour in a lion's den as a week's golf would give me, and you need to be in it for it."

"Every minute in the cage you have to be intensely alert. If you slacken off, you may easily be all up."

The doctors were impressed, but not all converted. "When there are as many lion cages as golf clubs in the country I may think of it, but bankers will do for me for the present," one delegate commented.

MOTORISTS TALK IT OVER

They Are Out to Trick Us!

BY T. H. WISDOM

BRITISH folk hate being "tricked"—it's un-English. Which is why motorists get so wrathful, for motoring, nowadays, is a business in which minor and major officials, police, motor trade of all are out to catch us.

Motoring, a pleasant enough affair if you are lucky all the time, is reaching the stage where it will be safest to have a lawyer with you if you propose going for a Sunday afternoon run.

None of us mind a "fair cop"—not much anyway—but it's the "slinky" business that gets us down and makes us wish vehemently that the A.A. and the R.A.C. were as pushful and Protestant as the cyclists' organisations—good luck to 'em.

As soon as we set hand to start button there are some 2,000 involved, and, sometimes, quite ridiculous laws, we can break. The professional house-breaker, with whom we are regarded as equals by authority, is troubled only by one.

Look how they have tricked us over the £100,000,000 Five-Year-Road-Plan, which, officially, is to be quietly forgotten. At the moment I am not much impressed by other Ministry of Transport "stunts."

Take the 30 m.p.h. speed-limit. I am told of the sober-looking car that edges up behind you, worries you and, eventually, having urged you to go a little faster sheds its disguise and "goes" you. Three complaints about that sort of thing this week.

Police Methods

LANCASHIRE police have 60 or so neat and dignified "family" cars—Austin "Fourteens" that have super-chargers under their bonnets. I had a ride in one last week—gosh, it could go!

Look how they "pick and choose"—in The Mall the other day they "picked" a fellow doing 31 m.p.h. just as he was passed by two other cars that went scot-free.

There is a "Halt" sign down in Devon by which the local "cop" stands for an hour a day. When you don't stop—no question of danger, mind you—he asks to see your licence and makes quite certain, first of all, that you're not a "local" with influence. Visitors are fair game.

Mr. A. E. Knight, tells me of police constables in his district who hide in hedges to catch motorists at "Halt" signs. Most motorists in the district know when it is happening and are duly warned, but the visitor, of course, gets caught. Perfectly legal, but "tricky."

Petrol Ring

A READER says I have never referred before to the petrol-ring "ramp." He says that the petrol companies exploit the motor industry. I don't agree.

And he wants to know what the motoring associations are doing in motorists' interests. He says he resigned from one in disgust.

He has one final complaint—"the timid and half-hearted efforts at criticism by motoring editors generally."

Well, I've been called many things by my readers, but never mind. Not so long ago the printer sent me back my weekly article about the roads scandal—said he couldn't print it; the words were burning holes in the paper.

Colour Counts

A SPEED-OP friend of mine—oh, yes, I have some friends even among the police—tells me that the light-coloured sporty-looking type of car is more likely to get you into trouble than a dark, squarish "family" machine.

There are the driving-testers. Every day I get letters of complaint about them. There is that "trick" order some of them issue while the would-be driver is going through the test—he says "straight on" when the lights are against you.

If, foolishly, you think him the biggest noise on earth for the moment, and start to obey him, he'll "plough" you. Any laugh about it, that night, fellow-testers in the "local" that night.

One of my readers has an artificial leg. He drives quite well—disabled drivers are often safer than those with their full physical capabilities. When he went for his test the tester falled him immediately—he didn't like the fact that the driver's foot might slip off the clutch. So my correspondent said, "Well, if I arrange the clutch pedal so that my foot can't slip off it, will it be all right?"

Some testers would pass it—others would not, rolled the tester, evidently one of those detestable folk who cannot say, "Yes" or "No."

Only advice I could give was to get in touch with the Disabled Drivers' Club.

Another "scandal"—the surveyor who told his foreman, who had an idea for safer road surfaces: "No fear, if we make motoring roads we shall only have more motorists coming here and wearing 'em out. The Council is not keen on encouraging motoring—it likes peace and quiet."

Fixed Up Duds

THEN there is the "racket" worked by some motor-traders, who "turn-back" speedometers to trick the unsuspecting buyers of a second-hand car.

Mr. B. O. Ayling, of Arundel, says that he does not know of any dealer in his district who would do that sort of thing. He says that sometimes motorists "fix up" temporarily "dud" cars to sell them.

So he thinks the only fair way is to give a "fixed price" in part exchange deals. He sees good (and to an extent he is right) in the Motor Trade Association price protection scheme.

A salesman—for obvious reasons I cannot give you his name—writes me a long letter, giving me the "low-down" on the M.T.A. scheme. He says, although prices of new cars have risen, there is no chance of second-hand values being increased.

And a garage mechanic—he lives in the Orpington district—tells me that a speedometer "setting back" goes on in the garage at which he works.

He says that many motorists are "had," and tells of a woman motorist who bought a "baby" that showed 11,000 miles, and had actually done 32,000. "She still wonders why it uses so much oil," and blames the manufacturer," he says.

Don't be put off buying a second-hand car if you cannot afford a new one. But use the utmost care, and take the best advice.

They're all out to trick us—so we motorists must hang together.

RECORDS SMASHED BY STORM

Wind Velocity
Too Great For Recording

Never had he known such a destructive typhoon in the history of the Colony as that which attacked Hongkong early this morning, said Mr. C. W. Jeffries of the Royal Observatory, when issuing his official report on the gale.

The wind force was of such an intensity that the register of the Observatory's anemograph was incapable of recording the gusts. The register will only accurately record up to 125 miles per hour, but for a long time the needle was bumping the maximum point.

There is little doubt that new records were established in wind velocity.

One record, at least, was proved. When the barometer read 28.208 it was 202 lower than the existing low record established on August 18, 1923.

The typhoon has now entered the coast north west of Macao, and is probably filling up.

OFFICIAL REPORT
Here is the Royal Observatory's official report on the movement of the typhoon.

"The typhoon formed to the east of Luzon during August 28 and 30. Its position was indefinite until the afternoon of the latter date when it was situated about 300 miles N.E. of Manila, moving N.W. By the morning of August 31 it had reached the eastern extremity of the Balintang Channel, from then on moving in a westerly direction until 6 a.m. yesterday when it was situated about 100 miles east by south of Pratas Shoal. From this period it moved west north west passing to the north of Pratas Shoal about 5 p.m. and to the north of Wai-tung to the south of the Royal Observatory between 3 and 4 a.m. to-day. The stand-by signal No. 1 was hoisted at 12.35 a.m. yesterday and signal No. 5 denoting that a gale from the north-west at 3.20 p.m. The No. 10 denoting a wind of typhoon force was expected was hoisted at 1.50 a.m. and bombs were fired at 2.10 a.m.

The wind increased rapidly in force until 2 a.m. blowing from the north and veering towards the east after 3.30 a.m. By this time the squalls were of a phenomenal intensity, many of which were beyond the capacity of the register of the anemograph, that is, greater than 125 m.p.h.

The lowest reading of the barometer was 28.208 between 3.45 a.m. and 3.50 a.m.

HEAVY RAINFALL
The rainfall amounted to 5.055 inches between 10.30 a.m. yesterday and 7.30 a.m. to-day.

The typhoon has entered the coast and is probably filling up to the north west of Macao. After passing Pratas yesterday the storm gave no indication of the intensity which characterised its passage across the Colony. It is doubtful if a storm of greater severity and destructive power has ever visited the Colony. The barometer minimum of 28.208 compares with the previous lowest reading of 28.590 on August 18, 1923.

PALESTINE RIOTING

Jerusalem, Sept. 1.
Four more persons were killed to-day as a result of clashes between Arabs and Jews.

Jewish leaders have issued a proclamation in similar terms used by the Arab Higher Committee yesterday, urging their people to keep calm. Police and aircraft are standing by for emergencies.—Reuter.

BIG BATTLE EXPECTED IN S'HAH AREA

British Troops Hold Position Although Bombs Fall Near - By

Shanghai, Sept. 2 (4.11 a.m.).

The setting for Japan's prospective big push on all fronts in the Shanghai and Woosung areas is being completed.

Yesterday's fighting was severe, although it was regarded only as a curtain raiser.

The positions appear to be unchanged, although the Japanese bombings were exceptionally severe. Seven bombs fell within 100 yards of an outpost held by a party of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers on the western outskirts of Shanghai near the Shanghai-Hangchow railway line but despite the danger the men did not withdraw. Two Chinese, however, were killed.

WILL RELY ON PRESENT FLEET

Evacuating Americans
From Danger Zones

New York, Sept. 1.

After a conference between President Roosevelt and Admiral Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, officials declared that the United States were relying on existing naval vessels in the Far East to evacuate Americans who are still in the danger zones, and that there was no need for additional vessels.

According to officials, the President and Admiral Leahy went over the whole problem of the Sino-Japanese situation.—Reuter.

BIGGER FLEET

New York, Sept. 1.
Following the bombing of the United States naval flotilla in Shanghai and its vicinity in order to aid evacuation.

The conference was preceded by a long luncheon parley between President Roosevelt and Mr. Robert W. Bingham, British Ambassador to London, who is on holiday in the United States at present.

Following his conference, Mr. Bingham said that he and the President had discussed world conditions in general and the Far Eastern crisis "to some extent."

Asked whether the United States and Britain contemplated further joint action in the Sino-Japanese crisis, Mr. Bingham replied that any statement would have to come from the Department of State.

"I don't believe war is imminent in Europe, apart from the Spanish conflict," added Mr. Bingham.—Reuter.

TENSION RELIEVED

Washington, Sept. 1.
"American ships will be given access to Chinese waters," stated Mr. Roper, Secretary of the Commerce and Press Conference, who said that the tension in the Far East had been relieved.

It is expected that American cargo and passenger ships will be permitted to enter freely into Chinese waters soon but Mr. Roper added that the American Government had to proceed upon a daily, and well-nigh and hourly basis, dependant on

Gen. Feng Yu-shiang, the "Christian General," told interviewers that the Chinese would fight to the bitter end for the sake of world peace and China's own existence. He paid a tribute to the Chinese commanders, who he said were mindful only of their "divine duties."

Chinese quarters regard the disembarkation of Japanese troops in the eastern district of the Settlement as a confession of little success attending the landing operations on the Lihoo-Woosung coastline and assert that the presence of the Japanese troops is final confirmation that the Japanese are using the Settlement as a base of operations.

Besides munitions and other war material the Japanese also landed in this section of the Settlement four and six-inch guns mounted on caterpillars.

Eight Japanese transports laden with reinforcements, tanks and artillery have arrived at Woosung. Under an escort a Japanese warship went to Lihoo where the troops aboard were landed.

Woosung in Ruins

Warfare has laid Woosung in ruins. Among the buildings demolished are the Tungshui University, run by Germans for Chinese students, and the American mortgaged Wing On Cotton mill, owned by British and Australian-born Chinese. The bombing of the Tungshui University was so intensive that even bomb-proof dug-outs had to be evacuated.—Reuter.

Major Operations Expected

Shanghai, Sept. 1.
(9 p.m.).

Major operations along the Woosung are expected within the next 48 hours, it was predicted by military observers here to-night.

Crack Chinese troops are now pouring into Yuehpu, a small town about a mile and half northwest of Paoshan and a mile south of Lion Forest Fort. All necessary preparations have been completed by the Chinese to meet what is expected to be the first serious land operations around the Shanghai vicinity.

It is also disclosed to-night that 2,000 Japanese landed last night around Woosung Village and the Woosung Fort area.

The Japanese are expected to launch their initial drive at Yuehpu where they hope to establish a direct link with the Japanese flanks at Lintchen and Woosung.

If the Japanese succeed in coordinating their forces, they are expected to launch a general offensive on the Chinese positions in the Kiangwan sectors and from there on to the rear of the Chinese lines in Chappel.

Meanwhile, the Chinese have reinforced their defences at Patschiao, or Eight Character Bridge, on Liuying Road in Chappel.—Central News.

More Reinforcements

Shanghai, Sept. 1.
Eight Japanese merchantmen, all fully loaded with troop reinforcements from Japan, arrived off the mouth of the Whangpoo River shortly before midnight last night, it was disclosed to-day. One of the vessels, accompanied by a warship, proceeded to the vicinity of Lihoo.—Central News.

Reinforcements From Tientsin

Paoing, Sept. 1.

According to military intelligence received here to-day, 1,000 Japanese attached to artillery units left Tientsin to-day for Yangliuching, about 20 miles west of Tientsin.

Another detachment of the Kwangtung Army arrived in Tientsin to-day and are being billeted in the Pailan barracks.—Central News.

developments as they occurred.—Reuter.

"Britain is so much more formidable and dangerous than I hoped she would be creating an influence for peace," declared Mr. Bingham.

Reports that British and American naval commanders at Shanghai were discussing the possibility of convoys to escort evacuation vessels are treated with circumspection by the Department of State, which takes the view that such a step would require Mr. Roosevelt's approval.—Reuter.

J. C. J. L. LINER BADLY HOLED AND AGROUND

Passengers Calm In Time Of Crises

A nightmare trip down the harbour in the unmerciful gale and lashing rain which made hideous the early hours of this morning was the terrifying experience of passengers and crew on the J.C.J.L. steamship, Van Heutz.

Several times in the course of its mad and helpless journey, the Van Heutz hit other ships which were in a similar plight, among them being the Gertrude Maersk which now lies at anchor near the Van Heutz wreck.

The complement of the Van Heutz is officially stated to be 60 cabin passengers and 1,200 deck passengers, all of whom are Chinese. Despite the terrific buffeting which the ship received the eventual fate which overtook her, only one casualty is reported. Chew Leong-tuen sustained a broken leg, and he has since been taken to the Queen Mary Hospital.

The Company announces that so far as is known all of the passengers on the Van Heutz are safe. All were brought ashore after midday in Hongkong and Yau-matli ferries which had gone to the rescue as soon as weather conditions permitted.

Only the Captain, Chief Engineer and several of the crew are now aboard the ill-fated vessel, which lies badly holed off Green Island.

According to one passenger the blinding rain and pitch darkness made it impossible to see anything clearly or to say precisely what happened. The ship broke away from her moorings at Enay Ah during the height of the storm, and straight-

ASAMA MARU STILL AGROUND

The only word received by the N.Y.K. regarding the liner Asama Maru up to 2.30 p.m. was that the vessel was aground in Junk Bay. How serious her position is cannot be ascertained but although she has requested immediate assistance it is not thought that the vessel is in any worse position than the Conte Verde which is expected to be refloated as soon as help arrives. There are no passengers aboard the Asama Maru which has been in Talkoo Dock during the past few days and left for Junk Bay yesterday evening.

way the vessel started to drift helplessly down the harbour. Adding to the confusion and distress was the terrifying experience of seeing the bound nose with other craft, among them being the Gertrude Maersk.

No Panic
There was considerable alarm, but no panic among the passengers and the officers and crew were praised for the manner in which they tried their utmost to learn the inevitable catastrophe.

The ship finally settled on Green Island. She had been badly holed and was water-logged. As the wind dropped it was found possible to disembark passengers and this was done with the aid of ferries and other craft.

Eyewitnesses say that the ship is very badly damaged, and was being bumped as she lay on the rocks. In the opinion of one passenger, salvage of the boat would be difficult. At present she is lying on her starboard side with a list of about 45 degrees.

MUTINY ON SHIP?

London, Sept. 1.
H.M.S. Broke left Plymouth at midnight to investigate a radio report that the South African steamer, Sherard, two hundred miles away, had trouble aboard, described as "almost a mutiny and sabotage." The Broke expects to reach the steamer at 7 a.m. (British Standard Time).—Reuter.

CONTE VERDE AGROUND 90 PASSENGERS ON BOARD

Latest reports state that the Conte Verde the big M.M. liner is aground in Junk Bay, with between 80 and 90 passengers on board, the majority of whom are Chinese.

Although details as to the ship's predicament have not yet been received, it is stated that the Conte Verde has asked for the assistance of tugs to tow her off, thus indicating that the vessel is not so very seriously damaged.

Kausing Is Not In Danger

The Kau Sing is ashore off Ching Hui Island and is in no danger, it was learned from the Boarding Office at 1 p.m. to-day.

Boarding Officer Morrison is in command of the tug, and although her exact complement is not known, it was stated that six members of the crew have already arrived back in Hongkong by Police launch No. 4.

Three others have been taken on board Police launch No. 3, which is standing by.

Inspector Rogers Injured

Police Launches In Trouble

No. 6 Police launch is a wreck on the breakwater off Yau-matli typhoon shelter.

No. 7 Police launch is lying on her starboard side on the breakwater, severely damaged.

No. 8 Police launch had its cabin and searchlight wrecked. Two European police sergeants had to spend the night on the breakwater.

STOP PRESS European Rescue Party Does Great Work

MACAO STRUCK SHIPS' CREWS & CHILDREN SAVED DURING HEIGHT OF GALE

Magnificent work was accomplished by a party of Revenue Officers and Police sergeants along the Praya. Seven of them—C. P. O. Buller, Mr. W. Ward, Sub-Inspector Goddard, Sergt. Davis, Sergt. Scott, Sergt. Hayward and Mr. Ellis—linked together by ropes, ventured out in the treacherous weather to rescue crews from scuppered ships, and to save little children who were stranded in huts along the Praya.

Darkness added to the terror of the night and the tremendous difficulties confronting the rescue party. Nevertheless they succeeded in saving some 70 lives, all of whom received treatment for various injuries; none of them very serious, in the Imports and Exports Department.

Unhappily it was found impossible to obtain enough dry clothes and several of the unfortunate men had to spend the early hours up to dawn in blankets.

One of the most dramatic episodes occurred about half past five when one of the Taidook tugs was sunk as she approached the An Lee which had foundered on the Praya. The rescue party rushed to the assistance of the crew and after a terrific battle with the elements managed to bring the entire crew ashore. Only by tying themselves fast with stout ropes could the rescuers successfully carry out their hazardous work. Here again, they were gravely hindered by the darkness and the enormous waves which every second poured over the men and flooded the Praya waist high.

Making a further investigation of the rescue party discovered several children in huts. Frightened and crying piteously, the kiddies were removed from their dangerous positions and placed in safety.

Meanwhile, as the night lengthened into dawn scenes of utter desolation and confusion became visible. Shops along the front were flooded to the depth of several feet, sign boards, broken glass, and debris thrown up in the air.

TYPHOON ENTERS THE COAST

The Royal Observatory reports that the typhoon passed to the south of the Observatory at about 4 a.m. to-day, and has entered the coast and is filling up to the north-west of Macao.

The local forecast is: South and S.E. winds, strong; moderating; cloudy, squally with rain; improving later.

Dr. H. H. Kung, China's Finance Minister, suffered a broken nose and slight concussion to-day when his automobile collided with a street car.

British Navy Hunts Pirate Battle Craft

SUSPECTS SUBMARINE ATTACKING WARSHIP BELONGS TO ITALY

London, Sept. 1.

Ten British warships drew a naval net around a wide area in the Mediterranean to-day in an effort to trap "the submarine pirate," suspected to be an Italian, following its attempt to sink the British destroyer Havock.

Great Britain is very angry as a result of this direct attack, which came on the heels of repeated interference with British steamers along the Spanish coast.

Italian officials declare it a piece of "gratuitous presumption even to insinuate that an Italian submarine might be in the region where the Havock was attacked." They hinted that a Spanish Loyalist submarine might be deliberately attempting to incite Britain against the Italians.

OVER 20 SHIPS IN DISTRESS Typhoon Toll Made Known

It is now ascertained that at least twenty-one ships ranging in size from the huge N.Y.K. luxury liner Asama Maru to the Government tug Kausing are either aground, drifting helplessly about harbour waters, or in danger of sinking.

In addition, dozens of smaller craft have been lost completely, others merely temporarily beached.

Below, in alphabetical order are the bigger vessels known to be in distress.

- An Lee (aground on Praya)
- Asama Maru (aground at Junk Bay)
- Booneville (aground at Stonecutters)
- Eng Lee (aground at Kowloon Football Club ground)
- H.M.S. Cornflower (aground at Tsimshui Pier, Wanchai)
- Feng Lee (aground at Kowloon Dock)
- Hai Lee (ashore at Pellett Bank)
- Hong Kong (ashore at Talkoo)
- Sugary Refinery (aground at Kowloon Island Lighthouse)
- Hinking (aground at Kaping Island Lighthouse)
- Human (ashore somewhere in the harbour)
- India (in distress, position unknown)
- Kwang Chow (ashore on South Lamma Island, needing assistance)
- Lukking (aground off Lantau Island)
- Moo Lee (slowly sinking, stern under water off Pellett Bank)
- Seventy Leish (adrift in the harbour)
- Sunlien (adrift in harbour near Tsimshui Island)
- Shenandoah (aground at Stonecutters)
- Taiwan (aground at Devil's Peak)
- Tsimshui (ashore at North Point)
- Tehsing (aground at Stanley Bay)
- Van Heutz (ashore at Green Island)

LOYALISTS CAPTURE BELCHITE

Hendaye, Sept. 1.
It is reported that an army of 33,000 Loyalists, with a fleet of new Russian tanks, has entered Belchite. Although the Loyalists are missing modern weapons on this front, the Asturian miners, with their deadly dynamite bombs, are credited with breaking the insurgent lines.

For three days, however, the Loyalists have been shelling the insurgent garrison.—United Press.

But the British and French Admiralties with one voice have warned: "Our patience has its limits." They have consulted upon stern measures to protect their shipping and warships convoys may be ordered for merchantmen in danger areas. Sixteen merchant vessels have been stopped and three torpedoed in the past few days.

It is expected that the British and French, in conjunction with the League of Nations Council, will call a conference of Mediterranean powers, including Greece and Turkey, regarding the delicate situation.

The destroyers Hyperion and Hardy, loaded with depth charges, first reached the scene of the attack on the Havock.

The Admiralty, meanwhile, revealed that six other destroyers and two cruisers were at present off the Spanish coast available for the search.

Another destroyer has gone to hunt the raider in the vicinity of the Balearic Islands.—United Press.

Other Ships Sent

Gibraltar, Sept. 2.
The destroyers Hereward and Hasty will join Hyperion and Hardy and other ships sent to search between Alicante and Valencia for a submarine which has attacked the British destroyer Havock.

An Admiralty statement says: "After the Havock was attacked by a submarine she counter-attacked with depth charges in accordance with instructions already issued to the Fleet. The result of the counter-attack is unknown."

Admiralty officials are at present dealing with all questions associated with the attack and are keeping the Foreign Office informed. The authorities are particularly anxious to obtain word of the identity of the submarine which fired on the Havock.—Reuter.

SEIYUKAI PROBING POLICIES

Asks Government's Aims In China

London, Sept. 1.

A message from Tokyo states that a full inquiry into the objectives of Japan's action in China, and clarification of the Government's purpose was recommended at a meeting of the Seiyukai (Conservative) Party by three of its leaders.

The leaders urged that the party should press the Government to make its aims in China more precisely known and establish a fundamental national policy in accordance with a firmly-defined objective.

Otherwise, the leaders declared that it would be impossible to have a perfect policy in regard to the handling of troops, military operations, finance and national economy, and the Japanese people's minds would not be at rest.

The recommendation sounds critical, but it is believed to imply a demand for a more positive policy towards China.—Reuter.

HOLLYWOOD'S Glamour King

Specially for Women

tells you how to
STAR your BEAUTY

Right Make-up TYPE No. 1 Wrong Make-up

FORTUNATE indeed is the woman who possesses the perfect oval face. It is the "ideal" type which most women try to achieve by hair style and make-up. The illustration above shows the correct hair style and make-up for this type, the left half of the picture indicating the way to apply the make-up, and the right the finished effect.

THE guiding rule should be to preserve as many oval lines as possible. Keep the hair style simple. A centre parting suits this type, and the widow's peak, so often seen on an oval-shaped face, should not be concealed.

KEEP the natural line of the eyebrows, but continue the arch at the outer corners. If necessary, to taper off just above the level of the corner of the eye. At the inner corner the brows should end in a straight line above the tear duct. Strengthen slightly with pencil.

PLUCKING the eyebrows very rigorously can cause severe strain for the brows shield the eyes from strong overhead light. It may be necessary, however, to trim with fine pincers any hairs that spoil the smooth curve of the brows, taking these, as far as possible, from below the arch.

IN rouging, follow the oval outline of the cheek, as indicated in the chart above. Carry the rouge lightly up under the eye and blend away the lids or apply mascara to the towards the temple. See that the lips lower lashes.

The Oval Face

Example: Kay Francis

EVERY face falls within one of seven categories—oval, round, oblong, square, diamond, triangle, or inverted triangle. To which do you belong?

In this article, Hollywood's famous make-up expert describes the correct way to make up, and the most becoming hairdressing for women of the oval-face type. A shining example of to-day's type is Kay Francis. Other perfect ovals are Barbara Stanwyck and Claire Trevor.

There is a wide choice of hair styles for the oval-faced woman, but there are certain things which you must not do. The girl on the right, at the top of the page, has done just the wrong things with make-up. On the left, you see the correct make-up for the type.

LARGE eyes, a splendid feature, often grace this oval type. If too prominent, however, they may throw the face out of balance. Mascara in order to bring a too small chin into correct proportion, powder it FIRST, using a lighter shade of powder than for the rest of the face.

If you are the oval type—Don't part your hair too low, a centre parting is, in fact, best. Take care not to draw the hair back too tightly from the forehead.

Don't wear a fringe or a low wave. These make the face rounder.

Don't arch your eyebrows too high, as this makes the eyes appear smaller.

Don't pluck the eyebrows too thin nor give them a heavy, square appearance.

Don't apply rouge in a circle like the girl above has.

Don't rouge the chin. Rouge should not come too near the nose.

Don't make up your lips into either a Cupid's bow or a rosebud shape. Neither suits the oval type.

Don't use too heavy a lipstick. Don't use rouge at all if your hair and eyes are dark. The perfect oval needs no contour correction.

Special Problem. One problem of contour which may occur in any of the seven types of face is the receding chin. In order to bring a too small chin into correct proportion, powder it FIRST, using a lighter shade of powder than for the rest of the face.

FURNITURE IS MORE FANCIFUL

Prettiness Replacing Severely Plain Designs

By Madge Ames

AFTER the elaborate ugliness of the Victorian and Edwardian periods, the resultant revolution in furnishing and indeed in almost every other type of design was almost inevitable.

We made a bonfire of every one of these over-elaborate monstrosities of design and conception and left our rooms bare for all the world to see. The twists of chromium plated metal and the queer blocks of wood which we dubbed tables and chairs, were as naked and unashamed as the cold walls which surrounded them.

After the pretences and the smugness with which we endowed, and not without some reason—the previous era, we felt suspicious of anything but the most brutal truth. And, of course, the loveliness of our homes suffered in consequence.

Homes Really Beautiful

BUT having gone from one extreme to another, the trend of thought in this respect is now taking a middle and more normal course, and once again real beauty is beginning to make itself apparent in our homes. Simplicity is, as always, the keynote of design in modern furnishing, but beauty has its place, not only in line, but in various forms of decoration.

The walls may be plain, colour washed in a pleasing shade, but the fabrics—the curtains, bed spreads, the drapery around the beds—may be of the softest and thickest of satin or rayon, decorated with a charming design in soft colourings.

Without Fussiness

"Prettiness" is, no longer despised—though "fussiness" may not be tolerated. Filled organdie, dotted swiss muslin, the cool, shadowy folds of nylon (crease-resisting for practicality) are all accepted and admired by the modern decorator. Dressing-tables once again have dainty frilled petticoats and stools have frills to match.

Futuristic designs—forecasts indeed of a future which happily never materialised—in strange colours upon linen have given way to flowered linens in all the lovely clear or soft colours which the modern dyer has prepared for our delight.

Old-fashioned glazed chintz takes on a new and charming air when it has been treated in the latest manner, and shows bright little patterns upon the quaintly stiff, satiny fabric.

So, we no longer despise these old ideas as being unworthy of our consideration. We are no longer afraid to make use of them. Having recovered from our fierce hatred of everything pertaining to that particular era, we regard it with new, and perhaps more understanding eyes, and we find strange bits of beauty among its over-crowded clutter.

Borrowed Glass

The charm of Edwardian naperery and also the exquisite glass of that period decorate our tables in place of its "modernistic" accessories of a few years ago. Many new cloths are reproduced from the older designs, and all the beauty of hand-embroidery enhances the loveliness of some of the latest table linen.

Much favour at the moment is frankly of Victorian design, and happy is she who possesses a set of genuine Victorian China decorated with the dainty little posies of that period.

Prettier Shoes Without Toes

THE newest line in evening frocks shows the shorter skirt, which reveals more of our feet and ankles than we have been used to seeing, when dressed for the evening.

It is natural, then, that we should like to wear the loveliest stockings and shoes which are to be had.

Sandals, with high or low heels, are much worn in the evening, and most of them are toe-less. With this type of sandal, the new, very fine thoughts, and dominating their feelings—those feelings and thoughts which are a mystery to all (for how much do you and I know of each other, of our children, of our fathers, of our neighbour, and how far more beautiful and sacred are the thoughts of the poor lad or girl whom you govern likely to be, than those of the dull and world-corrupted person who rules him?)—if, I say, parents and masters would leave their children alone a little more, small harm would accrue, although a less quantity of us in present might be acquired.—W. M. THACKERAY.

Some of the new sandals have high front composed of a series of straps reaching almost to the ankle and leaving the toes bare. Gilt fabric is used in a similar manner, and there are many cocktail sandals made of coloured suede.

MITTS & BOOTEES to match the coat we gave

YOU NEED: 10s. white 2-ply Sirdar wool. 1 pair No. 12 needles. A fairly fine crochet hook. 1 skein blue embroidery silk.

The Mitts

3rd row: K. 5, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * until 4 remain, m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 2.

8th row: P. 9th row: K. 10th row: P. 11th row: K. 1, * m. 1, k. 2 tog., k. 6, repeat from * to end. Repeat 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th rows.
20th row: P. 4 and p. 2 tog., all across, finishing p. 1 (41 sts.) Work in rib of k. 1 p. 1 for 4 rows, then a row of holes thus:—K. 2 tog. and m. 1 all across, ending k. 1. Work back in rib of p. 1, k. 1. Knit in rib of k. 1, p. 1 for 19 rows. Keeping in rib shape for top of hand as follows:—1st row: K. tog. every 6th and 7th st. to last 6, k. 6. 2nd row and alternate rows: Rib.

3rd row: K. tog. every 5th and 6th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 5th row: K. tog. every 4th and 5th st., finishing k. 2 tog. 7th row: K. 2 tog. every 3rd and 4th row, finishing k. 2 tog.

9th row: K. 2 tog. every 2nd and 3rd st., finishing k. 2 tog. Break off wool and run through the remaining sts., draw up and fasten off securely.

The Bootees

Work as for mitts until the row of holes has been completed, but in 20th row purl without decreasing. After the holes work 3 rows in rib. Now work a tiny piece for instep as follows:—K. 16 and slip on to piece of wool (these sts. are for side), then

Cast off 23, then cast off next 8 by knitting 2 tog. Cast off last 23.

Making Up

Sew up seams. Work a tightening row of double crochet round top of bootees and mitts, then an edging of tiny scallops formed of 4 chain and a slip stitch at regular intervals all along.

Press edging, and thread ribbon in ankles and wrists.

Work a flower (each one made by five lazy-daisy stitches) in each half and each full diamond at edge of bootees and mitts.

Buttons On Belts

BUTTONS are a smart trimming for all kinds of purposes. One way of using them is for the decoration of belts.

A length of Petersham ribbon of a suitable colour should be chosen, and tiny buttons with two or four holes should be sewn at intervals along the belt in two or three slanting rows side by side.

Navy blue Petersham with alternate rows of red and white buttons, or white ribbon with red and green buttons are two suggestions.

Leave Kiddies To Themselves

If people would but leave children to themselves; if teachers would not insist upon directing their thoughts, and dominating their feelings—those feelings and thoughts which are a mystery to all (for how much do you and I know of each other, of our children, of our fathers, of our neighbour, and how far more beautiful and sacred are the thoughts of the poor lad or girl whom you govern likely to be, than those of the dull and world-corrupted person who rules him?)—if, I say, parents and masters would leave their children alone a little more, small harm would accrue, although a less quantity of us in present might be acquired.—W. Search For Snow At North Pole

SCIENTISTS SAY: "WE LONG FOR COLD WEATHER"

London, Aug. 7.

A MESSAGE that floated over the ether to Moscow yesterday has shattered one of mankind's oldest and dearest illusions.

For the past two weeks the radio messages sent out every day by the four Russian scientists who are spending a year on a drifting ice-floe near the North Pole have been confined to the briefest weather bulletins.

Last night, however, Radio North Pole followed up the Weather Forecast with the First News, just like the B.B.C. And the first news from the North Pole was this:

"The North Pole is facing a severe shortage of snow. . . . All the snow has melted from our camp. We have had to go out and search for fresh supplies."

Now, can you beat that? What a topsy-turvy world we live in; to be sure! In England, snugly planted in the warm Temperate Zone, holiday crowds setting off for the seaside this week-end are longing for warm weather. And away up at the very edge of beyond of the Arctic Zone, they are longing for cold weather.

Something must have happened to the Pole since the Russians hoisted the Red Flag and Stalin's portrait there.

Where are snows of yesterday? Have Trotskyist wreckers and saboteurs penetrated even into this farthest outpost of Stalin's dominion?

Or, maybe, the North Pole is just showing its warm resentment at man's invasion of its age-old solitude.

A ROARING STREAM
Whatever the reason, the fact is that it has been thawing at the Pole, and the scientists have watched the snow layer on their ice-floe melt away until there was none left and they were compelled to organise a sledge expedition and go out exploring for a supply of snow with which to cover their camp.

Moreover, a roaring stream of water, six feet wide, now flows directly in front of the scientists' domicile.

The thaw began two weeks ago. It created a net work of criss-crossing streams, leaving the camp and supply depots perched precariously on pedestals of ice.

The scientists have not been daunted by these strange happenings. They report that they are taking advantage of the "flood" to test their "fleet," consisting of canoes and an inflated rubber sail-boat which can carry a ton of cargo.

With the thaw the wind fell and the westward drift of the ice-floe stopped. The wind-driven generator of Radio North Pole also stopped.

We Are Now Spending More

People are spending more, according to the retail trade returns for June, published in the Board of Trade Journal.

They show that the money value of daily sales was 4.8 per cent. above that in June, 1936, which, in turn, was 4.7 per cent. above the level of June, 1935.

This increase is much smaller than that of 13.2 per cent. recorded for May, owing in part to the incidence of the Whit-muntide holiday in June, 1936, and in May, 1937, and to the Coronation celebrations this year.

Total sales for the first five months of the trading year were 8.2 per cent. above those for the corresponding period of 1936.

BASQUE BOYS ATTACK POLICE

Carmarthen, Aug. 7.

BASQUE children at the Ministry of Labour camp at Brechfa, Carmarthenshire, came into conflict with the police this evening.

Barrels of tar placed on the roadside by county council workmen between the village and the camp were removed by the children and placed across the road to act as a barricade.

When Police-Constable David Evans, of Pencader, was travelling along in a car, unaware of the obstruction, one of the Basques threw a steel table-knife, which missed the officer's head only by inches.

Police reinforcements, now stationed in the village, rushed up, and the Basques, many of whom were armed with knives and heavy sticks, scattered.

Some of them ran across fields with police and civilians in pursuit. The police eventually got all the children back to the camp.

GUARDED ROADS
When I visited the scene this evening I found about a dozen police on duty in the village and on the roads leading to the camp, writes a special correspondent.

They had in their possession a large number of knives taken from the boys.

It appears obvious that only a number of the refugees are violent, and while the skirmish with the police was proceeding this evening many of the children were in tears.

The people in the district declare that they are in bodily fear, and one of them said to me: "For heaven's sake take them from here, because we are afraid to go to bed at night."

To-night's trouble followed incidents late last night, when 70 of the children marched into the village and stoned the Forest Arms Hotel and another house, breaking the windows.

9-Year-Old Gives Life For Brother

Nine-year-old George Tidd, of Bute Road, West Croydon, sacrificed his life last month to save that of his two-year-old brother, Tony.

Carrying Tony in his arms he was on his way to buy a birthday present for another brother when he apparently saw a motor-lorry bearing down on him in Mitham Road.

Quickly he thrust Tony to safety and was himself crushed under the wheels of the lorry.

His birthday present pennies still clutched in his hand, George died on the way to hospital. Tony escaped with minor injuries.

FOR THIRD MARRIAGE—Virginia Cherrill, former screen actress, who will marry the Earl of Jersey soon, according to intentions filed in London. Miss Cherrill, who played the lead in Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," was formerly married to Irving Adler, a Chicago business man, and to Cary Grant, screen star, in 1932. They were divorced a year later.

101 Murder Victims In a Year

DURING 1935 the police of England and Wales dealt with 87 cases of murder, involving 101 victims aged one year or over;

In 41 cases involving 50 murdered persons the murderer or suspect committed suicide;

Eight persons were executed, and seven death sentences were commuted to penal servitude.

These figures are given in the Home Office Criminal Statistics for 1936, issued last month.

The number of persons found guilty of offences of all kinds was 759,423, an increase of 101,660 offences compared with 1934.

Other points in the report are: Suicide: The number of persons committing suicide was 5,156, or 330 fewer than in 1934. The greatest number of men committed suicide after the age of 60, while for women the age was between 50 and 60.

Suicides by children under 16 numbered 8, two being girls. In all, 3,498 men committed suicide and 1,658 women. Twenty-eight girls under 16 tried to end their lives, compared with six boys.

218 BREACHINGS
Breaking and Entering: Sixty-four per cent. of the 8,339 persons found guilty of breaking and entering were under 17, and 38 per cent. were under 14.

Drunkness: Persons found guilty of drunkenness numbered 47,224, or 3,577 more than in the previous year.

Crime: The incidence of crime was nearly eight times greater among males than among females.

Corporal Punishment: In view of the appointment by the Home Secretary of the Committee on Corporal Punishment, figures are given showing that the number of such sentences imposed in the last 10 years by courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions was 253, of which 235 were for robbery with violence.

The number of birchings in 1935 was 218.

The report stresses the value of the probation system, and expresses the hope that its use will be extended.

Cornflower
Tossed On To PrayaMiraculous Escape
From Serious Damage

H.M.S. Cornflower, officered by men of the H.K. Naval Volunteer Force, escaped serious damage and possibly total loss almost miraculously early to-day. When she dragged her 25-ton typhoon mooring block along the harbour bed, at 3.45 a.m., both bow anchors were let go by the crew in the hopes of checking the ship's drift upon the praya. But the force of the wind was too great and the vessel struck.

When it was discovered that the moorings were not holding her, Lieut. J. C. F. Greenham, in command, ordered all hands on deck and the crew was mustered and issued with life belts.

The ship's log tells the story. The after pendant was buoyed and cast off at about 1 a.m. when a Force 8 wind was blowing and she swung head to, everything holding in spite of the fact that she was even then rolling heavily and seas were breaking over her quarter-deck because of the pyramid-backwash from the praya.

She rode well until 3.45 a.m. when her mooring block commenced to drag. She drifted almost broadside on towards the Bund, with the typhoon tossing her wildly. Both anchors were let go but they failed to hold her. A sudden veering of the wind saved her, swinging her stern out and driving the ship towards Tonochoy Pier. By a matter of a few feet only she cleared the pier, while all hands watched breathlessly.

"It was a miraculous escape," said one of the officers. "Had she struck the pier she would have pounded to pieces."

As it is, she is lying comfortably.

BRITISH SEAMEN
DE-LUXE

Bathrooms, Waiters

AFTER long consultation with the Shipping Federation and the National Seamen's Union, the Board of Trade is about to issue completely new rules concerning the accommodation for seamen in British ships.

This will be in many ways an historic document—a new Bill of Rights of the sea, for it is many years since the matter has formed the subject of official rules.

In conversation with an official of the Seamen's Union, I was shown the plan of a British ship in the bad old days where the owner had discovered that by sleeping his crew with legs bent he could accommodate an additional number in the limited space of the forecastle, and had so arranged the quarters, writes a special correspondent.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

The plan showed the men lying like so many letters "J" on the deck.

Times have changed to-day out of all recognition. There are the happiest relations between shipowners and men, and the new regulations of the Board of Trade are merely regulating a practice common to all progressive owners.

Mr. Basil Sanderson, the chairman of the executive of the Shipping Federation, says that they have the complete approval of that body, and Mr. Spence, the general secretary of the Seamen's Union, told me that many owners are so anxious to improve the conditions of their men that they submit the plans of new ships to the union for their comments.

Some of the most recent have provided individual sleeping bunks, bathrooms, spacious messrooms, and recreation rooms for the watches below, and even the services of a mess-room boy to wait on them, which to the old-time seaman must seem the height of luxury.

BETTER THAN LAND JOBS

With these improvements the sea to-day will offer a livelihood to young men of our race better than many land jobs.

I was told by many of the officials of the National Seamen's Union, which has recently been celebrating near the Spanish Procurator a small part of a retaining wall of an old house collapsed but narrow enough the road was at that part no hold-up of traffic was occasioned as the continuous rain soon spread the debris away.

Robinson Road was hardly damaged though in some cases fallen trees again caused some inconvenience. The houses here are old substantial ones in the main having though some of the residents felt the blow pretty severely there was not much fear of real danger in this locality.

The trees on the western side of Garden Road suffered extensively. A small part of the wall at Government House in little above the entrance to the Botanical Gardens was broken through by a tree crashing on it.

Wall Blown Down

Further damage in Kowloon included the carrying away of the tow-wall supporting the tennis lawn at the residence of Mr. J. P. Braga, at 11-12 Knutsford Terrace. For the whole length the lower half of the wall was blown down, and creepers, plants and trees completely destroyed. Apartment buildings near by also suffered damage, wireless aerials everywhere being blown down. The Kowloon Football Club stands are blown down and the clubhouse is badly damaged. The recently-opened Filipino Club at King's Park has been practically demolished.

Stanley Residents

Isolated

Bathing matches on the Stanley beach suffered severely and it is estimated that at least one third of the total number are completely wrecked. Many of the more substantially built structures are damaged but still standing. The Stanley Peninsula was completely isolated during the typhoon, the electric current and telephone communication being interrupted.

At 11 a.m. two more bodies were recovered. Both of them were women, and one has been identified as Li Sing, 36, married. The unidentified one is about 30 years of age. It is believed that they met their death either by suffocation or drowning as there were no marks of injury on them.

At Lycemun Pass on top of the hill, the barracks suffered heavily. Two roofs were lifted off. Two people were injured in the flying debris. Windows were shattered in one.

Damage to Shipping

The Police Training School again suffered and the entire fence was levelled while on the same corner hoardings were down and a 10-ft brick wall collapsed. Furniture towards Taiipo the entire scaffolding from a building in the course of construction completely blocked the road.

Traffic Held Up

Motor traffic along Queen's Road East, from Wellington Barracks to Garden Road, was held up for some considerable time owing to the floods. Several cars attempted to cross, but were left stranded after going half-way. By 8.30 a.m., however, the water had subsided enough for traffic to be resumed.

Trees in the military area, and around the Hongkong Cricket Club were uprooted, while Scandal point, higher up, presented a scene of desolation. Similar scenes were witnessed along the waterfront in Wan-chai, where the charge-room of No. 2 Police Station was flooded.

Repulse Bay Struck

Repulse Bay felt the full fury of the storm. Most of the matches have been either demolished or badly damaged. Several of the more substantial sheds were also badly suffered.

The Lido Lady, which rode out the typhoon last year, was on this occasion driven ashore near the Lido, broadside on. Beach Road is a tangled mass of uprooted trees, whilst there has been a fairly big landslide at the western end of the new wing of Repulse Bay Hotel. Two junks, both dismantled, are anchored in the bay, having apparently managed to ride out the storm. There are said to be ten people on board. Near shore the masts of what appear to be a small yacht are showing above the water line.

During the early morning, the electric light and telephone services were suddenly cut off throughout the Repulse Bay district. The normal road via Wongmichong Gap is passable for small cars, although strewn at intervals with uprooted trees and boulders which have fallen down the hillside.

Telephones Damaged

Hongkong Telephone Company cables were badly damaged and many telephones on Hongkong and Kowloon were out of order.

The Peak tram-lines were covered with tree trunks and branches, causing a delay in the service. By 10 a.m., however, the debris was cleared, and the service was resumed shortly afterwards.

Kowloon Damage

Practically every shop in the lower end of Nathan Road had its plate glass windows blown in five o'clock this morning, and the footpaths were a mass of debris, damaged window displays and broken foliage.

Lane, Crawford's store was wide open with the contents of the shop quickly ruined by the floods of water washed in by the gale.

Marcel Cafe and Kowloon Confectionery were in a similar plight.

GREAT WORK

by the angry harbour littered the roadway.

Dawn revealed Hongkong's most disastrous typhoon since 1906.

Foundered

An account of how the An Lee had struck the wharf and the difficulties encountered by the rescue party that took the crew to safety was told to a Hongkong Telegraph reporter by Revenue Officer W. Ward. He said "I saw from the veranda of my quarters the boat coming down from the direction of Kowloon Bay. The mast lights were on but seemed uncontrollable. It narrowly missed hitting the Yumati Ferry Wharf before striking the Luen Cheong Wharf pier side on."

Going on to describe the difficulties encountered by the rescue party he said "Myself and eight other companions left the Revenue Officer's building and made straight for the wharf. The wind was so strong that we could not walk, and ropes had to be tied around our waists connecting us together. Even so, several of us were lifted off our feet. The crew of the An Lee were leaping from the boat to the wharf and with debris bamboo poles flying over our heads managed to bring them to safety."

tionery were in a similar plight. The low-lying areas around the Peninsula Hotel were flooded, the waters being two feet deep in the immediate vicinity of the hotel, and a foot deep further up Nathan Road. A part of Police linked together by ropes was sent out following a report that an elderly man was in distress.

A motor car was turned completely over and lay in two feet of water in Middle Road.

Police Station Proof

Blown Away

The water police lost wireless contact with police launches during the night owing to breakdown. The roof of the Indian Police quarter at the Water Police Station was blown off and the men had to be accommodated in the main building.

A number of daring lady residents of the Peninsula Hotel were to be seen in their kimonos having coffee in the lounge at an early hour. The Teh Sing is aground at Stanley Bay.

Wall Flattened

Fifty yards of wall outside Carnarvon Bulwark was completely flattened and other walls in Kimberley Road were also razed to the ground. A tree three feet thick in

P.C. MUST GET DRUNK

(But Not Very)

Wakefield, Yorkshire. A POLICE CONSTABLE here is to be placed officially under the influence of drink—for the sake of science.

Dr. P. L. Sutherland, the county bacteriologist and pathologist, is anxious to introduce blood tests for the examination of accused motorists. He has recommended the tests to the police after two visits to the Medico-Legal Institute of the University of Berlin.

Mr. G. Campbell Vaughan, Chief Constable of the West Riding, said: "One of my constables at headquarters has offered himself for the experiment."

"There is no need for him to get really drunk, but... well, we shall give him just a drop—enough to affect his blood stream."

Dr. Sutherland is almost ready to make the policeman merry. "I am not asking for this test to supersede the others," he said, "but it should prove of great value in confirming them."

"SIMPLE OPERATION"
The police surgeon will give his patient a needle prick and take a drop or two of blood from his ear, and send it to me in a tiny tube.

"I want to see every police station equipped for this essential addition to the list of 'drink' tests, and I am hoping we shall have the service early in the winter."

In Germany the blood is collected in specially designed glass tubes and can be safely kept for several days before the test is made, writes our medical correspondent. Two parts of alcohol in a thousand of blood indicates that a person is unfit to drive.

Nathan Road was uprooted entirely and thrown across the road. Overhead cables fell at Sheung Sha Po village and electrocuted one woman, injured two others, and also injured a man.

Kowloon City Police Station was three feet deep in water this morning. The new Hongkong and Yumati ferry wharf at Kowloon City was badly damaged by the storm.

Watchman Killed

An Indian watchman was killed when part of the China Imports and Exports Lumber Company building at Kowloon City collapsed. The No. 8 signal was lowered at 10.40 a.m., indicating that all danger had passed.

SHANGHAI FIRING RESUMED

STIRRING TALES OF HEROISM

Shanghai, Sept. 2.
A Sino-Japanese duel, the Chinese firing from Pootung and the Japanese replying from warships in harbour, initiated a fresh day's hostilities this morning.

The exchange of fire followed a quiet night in which the Japanese were busily preparing for their big push which is expected to be launched very shortly.

Meanwhile, the Chinese admit the loss of Woosung village, but officially deny that the Japanese have captured Paoshan.

Both sides recount stirring tales of heroism in yesterday's fighting in the Shanghai area. The Chinese say many Japanese were slaughtered by parties of troops who make sorties in the night with their famous big swords.

A novel experience befell a British Volunteer who was among a party helping Chinese in the eastern district to evacuate. He entered a straw-thatched hut, but encountered a deserted Chinese woman who was about to give birth to a child. He rushed out, obtained necessities and returned to find that she had meanwhile given birth to twins. The Volunteer escorted the mother and children to hospital and safety.—Reuter.

Scattered Fighting

Shanghai, Sept. 2.
Fighting in the Woosung-Wiangpoo area north of Shanghai yesterday was characterized by scattered operations over a wide front, according to a detailed report released this morning.

Japanese troops were landed at the Jukong Wharf early yesterday morning, deploying out in a wide area. Fighting broke out immediately in the vicinity of the wharf, but scattered in a short time.

At 6 o'clock in the morning, a detachment of Japanese attacked Chinese entrenched at the Far Eastern Race Course, a mile west of the Jukong Wharf. The attack was repulsed, but the Japanese were engaged in covering operations by a Japanese engineering corps to bridge the creek at Kuanyinchai and Wang-chi-chai nearby, but when the Chinese discovered the ruse, they promptly shifted their positions and commenced a brisk fire in the night, forcing all attempts to build the bridges.

A party of Japanese advanced on Luchinchai, about half a mile north of the International Settlement boundary near the riverfront late in the morning. The Chinese troops stationed there withdrew unexpectedly into a semicircle of Chinese troops, at which time the Chinese opened fire from all sides, killing a large number and forcing the remnants of the Japanese party to disperse.

At about the same time, another party of Japanese attacked the Chinese lines at Kuanyinchai, about 1,000 yards southwest of the Jukong Wharf, but the Chinese held firm and forced the attackers to retire after a short skirmish.

Beaten Off

Fighting broke out near the Naval Hospital, about a mile south of Woosung Creek on the Whangpoo, at 10 o'clock. The Japanese attack consisted of several hundred men who had underestimated the Chinese numbers in the region. The attackers were forced to withdraw after several hours of fighting.

Heavy fighting went on all day yesterday in the area around Woosung town, with Chinese throwing several detachments of reinforcements into the area during the day.

Following the landing of Japanese regulars who have taken over the Yangtze area yesterday, the Japanese who have been holding Japanese positions in the area have been shifted to the Hongkew sector.—Central News.

NO MORE TROOPS FOR NORTH

JAPANESE THINK NUMBER ENOUGH

Tientsin, Sept. 2.
Japanese troop movements to North China have been virtually completed, the leaders believing them strong enough for any exigency.

The number of Japanese forces in North China is estimated at 120,000, and is possibly more.

The territory from Kalgan to the sea is now actually occupied with military forces, deployed defensively, and also retaining mobile offensive troops where needed.

Peiping is daily becoming more impregnable with gun emplacements on permanent foundations replacing the earlier hasty defences.

The suspension of reinforcements has eased the tension in the concessions where Japanese conduct has caused frequent protests. The British concession is strengthening the outer barriers, despite Japanese assurances that troops will avoid the British concession.

It has been revealed that some Tokyo taxi-drivers have been assigned to trucks and have been responsible for much of the reckless driving in Tientsin.—United Press.

TWO WASHOUTS ON RAILWAY

TRAIN SERVICE IS SUSPENDED

The Kowloon-Canton Railway suffered damage from the gale, although at 8.30 this morning Railway officials could not accurately estimate its extent.

Two washouts on the line were reported between Shatin and Taiipo, but these are awaiting fuller reports as to the extent of the damage.

However the entire train service has been suspended, and the head office is awaiting fuller reports as to the extent of the damage.

SUBMARINE ATTACKED

London, Sept. 1.
Three Spanish merchant vessels, escorted by an armed trawler, attacked an unidentified submarine off the Catalan coast to-day.

The trawler opened fire upon the submarine, which immediately submerged. The merchantmen escaped without any damage.—Reuter.

NO MORE SICK HEADACHES

Keep Your Stomach Clean

If you are a martyr to sick headaches, biliousness, liver upsets and similar disorders, here is news that will cheer you. In the majority of cases the source of the trouble is the stomach, where noxious gases accumulate and interfere with your digestion, poisoning the whole system and making you feel no good for anything.

Thousands of sufferers have put an end to all that misery by taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the carton and bottle. This proved remedy is gently laxative and helps to expel poisonous, clogging waste matter. Two or three doses are usually sufficient to put your stomach in a clean, healthy condition.

At the first sign of discomfort seek refuge in Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. You can always rely on speedy relief. Do not experiment with cheap substitutes; leave that to others. You can safely put your faith in Maclean Brand—powder or tablets—in bottles in cartons. Never sold loose.

If you have any difficulty in obtaining it from your local chemist or store, write to Banker & Co., P.O. Box 536, Hong Kong.

PROFITEERING

Government's attitude on the question of profiteering in the necessities of life, disclosed at length by the Chairman of the Urban Council, cannot be regarded as wholly satisfactory.

It is conceded that stocks are abundant and wholesale prices reasonably low; therefore, the Government hopes for a lowering of retail prices from plentiful competition between retailers.

Should retailers combine to raise prices artificially, the Government, it is stated, will not fail to take appropriate action. The Government spokesman goes so far as to say that this method of creating a ring to maintain prices above normal rates is the only sort of activity to which term "profiteering" can properly be applied.

The definition will not be generally accepted. If, as is the fact, retail prices are higher than circumstances justify, then there is profiteering, whether it be the result of a combined movement by retailers or not.

There may be, in the absence of any "ring," a willingness on the part of some retailers to sell slightly below the rates of others, but, even so, prices in general may rise above the normal level, the increases varying only in degree.

If one or two retailers jump up their prices, others will not be slow to follow suit. In course of time, the general rise becomes just as effective as if it resulted from agreed concerted action.

There is a further point in the Government attitude which invites dispute, namely, the plea that the only practical alternative to the normal laws of supply and demand is purchase by the Government, and re-sale—a policy which the authorities are averse from adopting.

There are, in fact, other methods of food control than that mentioned. In the Great War, Britain adopted a comprehensive scheme which aimed, amongst other things, at keeping food prices within reasonable limits. This was done, through the medium of various boards working under the Food Ministry, by enforcing a system of maximum prices for various commodities. Such a plan could well be applied to the present situation in Hongkong; it would stop profiteering once and for all during the unusual conditions prevailing. The dominant fact is that, despite reasonably low wholesale prices, consumers are being mulct in higher prices for the necessities of life. If that is not profiteering, we know of no other appropriate term to be applied to the process.

Then get rid of that feminine illusion that a man is only a little boy grown up. He is not. Nor does the way to his heart lie through his stomach. He knows—and you ought to know, too—that a brain dulled by heavy food puts him out of the running in these highly competitive days.

So one February morning Roosevelt started all America by telling his plan to the White House correspondents, gathered for the usual weekly talk in the President's study. Not a word of the real issues. The Supreme Court, he said, was getting inefficient. Its members were too old. Fresh blood was needed. But under the Constitution the Judges were there for life and could not be forced to retire. So he would ask power to add a new Judge for every old Judge who did not retire at the age of 70—up to a maximum of 15 Judges.

Everyone knew that there were six Judges over 70. The President would be able at once to appoint six extras—giving him nine votes out of 15.

The plan was ingenious—too ingenious. It aroused no enthusiasm because it dodged the real issues. It aroused intense and immediate opposition among the politicians of his own party.

It was a little too crudely like packing the court. It gave the President too much personal power (and he is under suspicion of a liking for personal power). It opened prospects of counter-packing later on by a Republican administration.

In spite of its recent die-hard activities, the Court is enormously respected. To turn it into a sort of third chamber, in which rival parties would try, by hook or crook, to gain majorities for themselves, was a hazardous thing. The lawyers especially were shocked. And out of the 531 members of the Senate and House, 350 are lawyers.

Storm broke. Loyal Democratic Senators and Congressmen threatened opposition. Prominent Democrats like Governor Lehman, of New York, came out against the plan. Democratic State Legislatures passed resolutions condemning it.

The President for once made a first-class error. He was over-confident and over-obstinate. He reckoned that the storm would pass, that Senators and Congressmen who owed their seats to him would not, when it came to the point, vote against his expressed wishes.

At his car was Postmaster-General Farley, organizer of the November victory; now reputed an infallible prophet because ten days before the poll he had tipped "every State but Vermont and Maine."

It would be all right, said Farley. The machine would see to that. He would let it be known quietly that no "rebel" Senator or Congressman need ever trouble him to ask for a job for a supporter or a favour for a friend.

Only when it became surprisingly clear that despite the crackling of Farley's whip the original

Will Roosevelt Accept Defeat?

A PRESIDENT PLAYS PATIENCE and perhaps wonders whether he will get out of the little tangle in which he has found himself.

Bill had not a chance of passing did the President consent to compromise. A new Bill was produced. Only for each Judge over 75 would he appoint an "extra," and then only one a year.

It was insufficient, too late—and unnecessary. Because the country had come to see that after all, for the need of the moment, no change was needed at all. The Supreme Court—or one of it—had decided to give up the struggle.

Sixty-one-year-old Owen Josephus Roberts, one-time Professor of Law in Pennsylvania University, appointed to the Court by Mr. Hoover, had "switched."

ALL through the first term Mr. Roberts had voted anti-New Deal. Now Mr. Roberts began to vote pro-New Deal. Van Devanter and McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland stood out. But judgments, instead of five to four against, became five to four for.

Of ten "New Deal" judgments in 1937, ten have been favourable. The President, had he realised it, had got all he wanted.

Of course, it all depended on Owen Josephus Roberts. And he might at any moment switch back. But when Mr. Van Devanter (77) announced his intention of retiring, the situation was clinched.

The fight in the Court was won. But Roosevelt was not content. A new issue had arisen: the revolt in the Senate. The President's prestige and authority (whispered his advisers) were at stake. Party discipline must be restored. The Senate must be made to pass the Compromise Bill.

Roosevelt publicly demanded that it be voted. Farley cracked the party whip more menacingly than ever. Senator Pittman (Vice-President Garner sulking in Texas) startlingly amended procedure by high-handed rulings from the chair. The Administration went all out to coerce the Senate.

And the Senate dug its toes in: fighting now, not so much against the Bill as for its own independence—"freedom of the legislature from control by the Executive." On the decisive vote only 20 Senators out of 60 backed the President.

THE Bill is dead: which, in the circumstances, matters little. The Senate has asserted its independence of the President. Which matters a great deal. Roosevelt has been taught that, despite his personal triumph of November, he is only head of the Administration, not master of the legislature.

Unless he accepts defeat, if he decides to renew the challenge, a conflict is opening which may change the whole aspect of American politics for years to come.

F. E. BAILY tells YOU how to Keep a MAN happy . . .

THE first essential is to love him. If you love him better than anyone else it is impossible for him to do better for himself elsewhere.

Then get rid of that feminine illusion that a man is only a little boy grown up. He is not. Nor does the way to his heart lie through his stomach. He knows—and you ought to know, too—that a brain dulled by heavy food puts him out of the running in these highly competitive days.

The dominant fact is that, despite reasonably low wholesale prices, consumers are being mulct in higher prices for the necessities of life. If that is not profiteering, we know of no other appropriate term to be applied to the process.

WHAT a man desires most in a woman are romance and fragrance and a charming picture; therefore see that he gets them and suppress firmly your intense desire to unburden your soul about the shortcomings of the kitchen boiler, the tradespeople and the children when he comes home at night.

FROM the beginning of your married life learn how to listen. Men love a woman to listen while they outline their ambitions and ideals.

EVERY husband longs to be considered a tough he-man; and unless it's absolutely unavoidable, never pretend that he is anything else.

Should your husband be ill, do what is necessary for his health and then leave him alone. Only the most hopeless kind of man likes being fussed over.

DON'T be too proud to indicate what things you like to be given, so that if he brings you a present, as all nice husbands do periodically, he won't feel disappointed because you pretend to like something you long to throw in the dustbin.

ON the other hand, there are several things which will turn the most amiable husband into an irritable man with a grievance.

The first is trying to "reform" him—as the sort of wife who does that kind of thing calls it. You married the man for what he was. Accept the fact.

THE second is to compare him unfavourably with Mr. Blank up the road, who drives a much larger car, sends his children to more expensive schools, and buys his wife much better frocks.

If your husband cares two hoots about you, and if not it's your fault he does his best to provide you with a luxury car, buy you model frocks, and send all your sons to Eton and all your daughters to Roedean. If he hasn't succeeded, this hurts him a great deal more than it hurts you, so don't rub it in.

THE story has already been told how "Margaret," the Newhaven fishwife doll, came to be presented to Princess Margaret Rose, and how the creel was made the receptacle for the donations which came pouring in from the good Newhaven folks for the benefit of the Cripple Children's Hospital.

The story of the creel itself, which completed the outfit, is an interesting one. The creel is correct in the minutest detail, with the spaces for the handgrip and the strap, and so neatly is it made that one could hardly imagine a creelmaker in these strenuous times sitting down to weave by hand the baskets in miniature which compose the outfit.

Twenty-one years ago, during the anxious days of the Great War, a travelling creelmaker knocked at the door of a fisherman's house in Newhaven and offered his wares. Struck by the man's wretched look she said, "You're lookin' awful tired, man. Would ye like a cup o' tea?" He accepted the hospitality gladly, and before going, exhibited the little creel, saying that he took great pleasure in making these toys in his spare time, and usually received good payment for them. He asked her if she would buy one, but there were no children in the home, and she told him she would have no use for it. But out of pity for the man's state, she bought it, and the little creel has been hanging on the wall of her living-room these 21 years.

Gifted to make the dollie complete, for there was no time to have one made, the donor and her friends saw to it that the clothes also were correct in detail, and "Margaret" has taken up residence in Buckingham Palace, a splendid little replica of our worthy fisher folk. Little did that creelmaker think his toy creel would make such a romantic journey 21 years later.

To those who are interested, it may be mentioned that there is one distinctive difference between the outfit of the Newhaven and Fisherrow women. The strap of the creel which fits over the head is white for Newhaven and black for Fisherrow.

FIRE IN WEST PT.
KILLS 15Nine Big Blocks
Burned OutFireman Wade
Through Flood

Nine four-storey buildings in West Point were destroyed by a disastrous fire which broke out at the height of the storm this morning. Though the exact number of casualties is not known, it is believed the loss of lives is heavy. From 15 to 20 bodies were picked up by members of the Fire Brigade, but as they were being piled up on the roadway ready to be removed to the Public Mortuary, huge waves came along and washed them all into the sea.

The premises involved were 131-139 Connaught Road West. The Central Fire Station received the first call shortly before 4 a.m. and fire appliances were immediately rushed to the scene under the supervision of Mr. J. C. FitzGerald, Acting Superintendent.

The outbreak started, it is believed, at No. 131, the ground floor of which was occupied by the Tak Sang rice dealer. On the arrival of the fire engines, the blaze had already spread to the adjoining two houses. The fire-fighters were rendered helpless by the strong winds, but eventually succeeded in bringing two hoses into action. Unfortunately, by this time, the other houses had also been ignited, while those where the outbreak started were burning through. The street was flooded and the hand-pump under which the members of the Fire Brigade had to work could be gauged by the fact that the water was at one time up to the waists of the men.

BODIES WASHED AWAY

Nevertheless, they succeeded in recovering a number of dead bodies, which, however, were washed to the sea. By 8 a.m. the fire was under control, but firemen were seen among the smouldering embers.

As the fire engines arrived, a woman with baby on her back was seen to jump from the top-storey of one of the buildings. Both she and the child were killed instantaneously.

'SCANDAL' OF CHURCH

—DR. TEMPLE

DIVISIONS in the Church were deplored by the Archbishop of York (Dr. Temple) recently at the opening of the World Conference on Faith and Order, at St. Giles, Edinburgh.

It was true that in its deepest nature the Church was always one, he said, it was also true that to-day it was the so-called "churches," rather than any forces of the secular world, which prevented that unity from being manifest and effective.

Here was matter for deep penitence. He spoke as a member of one of those churches which still maintained barriers against inter-Communion and he knew that their division at that point was the greatest of all scandals in the face of the world.

UNITY—THEN UNION

Unless the churches were ready to learn one from another as well as to teach one another, the divisions would remain.

Therefore their loyalty to their own churches would not best be expressed in a rigid insistence by each upon his own tradition. They could not seek union if they did not already possess unity.

Dr. Temple said they deeply regretted the absence of a delegation from the German Evangelical Church. They regretted still more the occasion of the absence.

They prayed that their German friends might have wisdom and courage for the difficult days before them.

'CHRISTIAN'S DUTY NEVER TO FIGHT'

Dr. Alfred Hall, of Sheffield, in his presidential address to the Congress of the International Association for Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, at Oxford, declared that it was the duty of religious people never to take military weapons to secure right.

Those at the congress were gathered from many countries, and he hoped they would realize that no question could be settled permanently by war, which brought all the illa which it was supposed to cure and carried with it graver injustices than those it set out to abolish.

AN LEE COLLIDES
WITH WARSHIPSTWELVE MEN LEAP FOR LIFE; ONE FEARED DEAD: OTHERS SAVED
BY BRAVE SHORE PARTY

THE full drama of the An Lee's grounding on the Praya was revealed late this morning by the Naval Authorities, which showed that the ship experienced an amazing trip down the harbour, buffeted and shuttlecocked by the huge waves, until she came to rest close to the Luen Cheong wharf.

About 4 a.m. the An Lee broke from her chain and started to drift helplessly down the harbour. First she struck the bows of H.M.S. Suffolk, and so close were the vessels that twelve of the An Lee's crew jumped on board the warship.

It is feared that one, however, failed to judge the distance and landed in the angry waters, in which he was quickly lost to sight.

The An Lee continued to drift towards the bows of H.M.S. Duchess, damaging the stern piece, and afterwards all but collided with H.M.S. Diamond.

MINISTER
PRISONS

THE Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, is expected to begin a series of visits to prisons within the next few weeks.

It is understood he will visit Dartmoor, Portland, Maidstone, Parkhurst and smaller prisons. It is at a medium-sized local prison that Sir Samuel has stated the scheme of payment for work in prison will be introduced. It will be extended as experience is gained.

Matters which he will consider on his tour include smoking communal meals and association during exercise.

The Home Secretary is a great-nephew of Elizabeth Fry, the famous prison reformer, and in opening an Elizabeth Fry Exhibition at Norwich recently he compared the conditions in prison now with those in Miss Fry's time.

'ROOMS' INSTEAD OF 'CELLS'

"In the women's prisons," he said, "we are attempting to concentrate on the reforming side of prison life."

"The women no longer talk about cells. Each woman prisoner has her own room, and those rooms are very different from what the ignorant would imagine a prison cell to be."

"We have got away from the old idea of distinctive prison clothes, and the women in these prisons dress very much like women outside."

The administrators, he said, were trying very hard to keep the women prisoners on work which would really help them to find jobs when they left prison.

"They were assisted to find work when they were released and while in prison there were educational classes, libraries and up-to-date hospitals, with pre-natal and post-natal treatment."

BABIES BORN IN GAOL.

Sir Samuel added: "A feeling has often been expressed to me in the House of Commons that it is an outrageous thing that a child should be born in prison."

"As a matter of fact, children, if they are born in prison, are always given an address that is not a prison address, and I have found that quite a number of the women whose babies have been born in prison have so much appreciated the very high standard of treatment they have received that, to judge from their own views, they would prefer to go on with the present arrangement."

Scene of Chaos

The waterfront along Connaught Road was a scene of chaos. Most of the wharves were either smashed or under water, while an unusual sight was witnessed at the Luen Cheong Wharf, where the stern of the river steamer An Lee was blown right up to the praya wall. The bow was under water. It was learned that the incident occurred about 3 a.m., and no-one was injured.

At 3.40 a.m. H.M.S. Diamond, which was lying in mid-stream, signalled that her foremast had been carried away, and that she could not be communicated with by wireless.

The luxury Japanese liner Asama Maru, which was sheltering in Junk Bay, was helpless in the fierce gale and ran ashore in the vicinity of where the Sunning was wrecked in the typhoon last year. Rescue parties by sea and land immediately set out in an attempt to save the large number of lives at stake.

According to a radio received from the Asama Maru the liner is aground in Salping Bay, a small cove in Junk Bay. No details have been received of her damage.

There are no passengers aboard as the ship was undergoing overhaul in Talkoo Dock and was removed last night to ride the typhoon in Kowloon Bay with only a skeleton crew aboard.

India Sends Out S.O.S.

The steamer India sent out an S.O.S. for assistance saying she was out of control.

Along the foreshore at Lai-chikok, where a large number of junks and several small launches washed up on the shore beside a Chinese Maritime Customs cruiser and a river steamer.

The marks of another small steamer were all that was left of her. The numerous ships moored between Lai-chikok and Stonecutters appeared, however, to have done fairly well and although two river steamers had blown together and other ships, including one of the new Siamese warships were safe.

The Jardine Wharf, the Ping On Wharf, the Macao Steamboat Wharf, and the Douglas Wharf were all badly damaged, particularly the first-named, which was blown to bits. The terrific force of the gale could be gauged from the fact that the iron sign-boards at the Tin Yeh wharf were blown right across the street to the Western Market.

The side-wall of No. 7 Godown of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company at Western Street was blown down, the roof and verandahs of the houses on top also collapsed. No one was injured.

The whole of the waterfront was flooded, at one time up to the waist, and debris such as signboards and broken glass was thick everywhere.

Sampan Fleet Wrecked

From Shaikwan to the Central district, Hongkong presented scenes of savage destruction. Inestimable damage has been done in the typhoon shelter at Causeway Bay. Shattered hulks of sunken sampans and junks litter the bay. Torn tram lines disrupted the service. The Navy Football enclosure is no more.

The force of the wind was such that the steel lamp-posts along the roadside at Causeway Bay were bent at angles of thirty degrees to the roadway. Huge branches from the trees in Causeway Bay were found as far down as the Wan-chai district.

The greatest damage was sustained by the floating population at Shaikwan and Causeway Bay. Huge mooring ropes across the road from junks in Causeway Bay were of little use. At Shaikwan the full force of the wind was felt, blowing right into the shelter there. The death toll at Shaikwan is not known yet. There were two houses collapsed, while almost every Chinese house in the Shaikwan village was levelled to the ground.

Blocked with leaves and other debris, the gutters along Queen's Road East and part of Queen's Road Central have turned the roadway into a miniature pond with the water about two feet deep. The Wan-chai district is denuded of its numerous signboards.

Telephonic communication with Stanley has been disrupted. Exposed to the south and east the full force of the gale must have been felt there but no particulars of damage can be obtained.

Tilawa Ashore

Prominent among them is the Tilawa, which reported at 7.55 that she was ashore at Devil's Peak. The Hunan is adrift in Hongkong harbour, but her actual position has not yet been determined.

The steamer Severn Leigh has reported that at 6.20 a.m. she was drifting about the harbour helplessly. The steamer Hsinting was reported at 7.30 to be aground on the south side of Cupping Lighthouse.

The Sunken, another steamer, reported at 6.33 a.m. that she was drifting in the harbour near the south-east corner of Tsing Island.

Tymarie Is Aground

Down at Talkoo and North Point, numbers of vessels are grounded or left high and dry in the shallow waters. The Tymarie is ashore stern first near the Banks building shed.

The Hong Peng is aground with a list near the Talkoo Sugar Refinery. Some 20 odd sampans have been out in the Causeway Bay refuge, and the damage to these small craft has been wholesale in the Shaikwan, Causeway Bay, North Point areas.

There were six small Chinese steamers moored in Kowloon Bay last night but this morning four had disappeared and two are aground.

The Eng Lee is hard aground at the Kowloon Football Club. The Feng Lee is aground just outside the northern end of Kowloon Dock. She is well out of the water.

No. 9 police launch is reported to be missing, but it is not known whether there was any crew on board.

In Tokwa Road, Hunghom, opposite Bailey's shipyard, a Chinese hut has collapsed, resulting in the death of three people.

Kalgar's Nasty Experience

The Butterfield and Swire steamer Kalgar (Capt. Richards) had a frightening experience which ended most happily with her accidental berthing alongside No. 1 Wharf. The Kalgar was anchored near Cust Rock and had no steam up as she has only just come out of dock. She dragged her anchor across the bay, colliding with it. It is believed, a Blue Funnel steamer which inflicted a deep and jagged tear in the Kalgar's starboard side. The Kalgar lost her anchor and chain in the vicinity of the Police and Star Ferry Piers finally grazing alongside the No. 1 wharf where help was ready to tie her up.

AVERTED CRISIS

Brussels, Sept. 1.

The anticipated cabinet crisis has been averted.

Trouble arose yesterday owing to differences between the Finance Minister and the Prime Minister, owing to the latter's connection with the state bank. The case will be judged by Parliament next week, which is being specially summoned.

with 'BISURATED' MAGNESIA

It is excess acid in the stomach that causes indigestion, stomach upset and pain, sour food and creates wind and heartburn. It attacks the delicate stomach lining and may eventually cause dangerous ulcers. (What are you going to do to check it?) Medical research and X-ray test prove "Bisurated" Magnesia the quickest acting stomach remedy—that is why doctors use it. Not merely a palliative for pain, but a complete stomach treatment which neutralises acidity and soothes and heals the acid-seared stomach lining. Noted English doctor says: "Bisurated" Magnesia is the only thing that keeps me free from pain after meals. You must use it too! "Bisurated" Magnesia cuts little from any good chemist or drug store. Always see the real BISURATED sign on the package.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE FOOTBALL VICTORY

Belfast, Sept. 1.

Meeting in the season's first Inter-Football League matches here to-day, the Scottish league beat the Irish league by three goals to two.

Twelve thousand attended the match, and saw the Scottish attack open in thrustful manner. The defence was also steady, but later it was troubled by the nippy Irish forwards.

In the 30th minute, Doherty, the clever Irish half back, lobbed the ball into the Scottish goalmouth and Turnbull headed in, to open Ireland's account.

Buchan was going through to score when he was brought down, and from the resultant free kick he levelled the scores for Scotland. At half time the teams shared two goals.

Kernaghan netted for the Irish League in the 48th minute, but Black quickly equalised from a scramble in the Irish goalmouth, the point coming in the 59th minute.

Seven minutes from the end Buchan scored again for Scotland from a penalty.—Reuter.

JACOBS' LATEST

Boxing Promoter Holds Elimination Tourney

New York, Aug. 31.

Mike Jacobs, of the Twentieth Century Club, and promoter of the last heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, announced to-day that he will hold an elimination tournament to find a "logical" opponent for Louis in June.

Explaining that the negro's injured hand would not allow him to fight this winter, Jacobs said the eligible include Max Schmeling, Tommy Farr (whom Louis beat last Monday), Max Baer, Bob Pastor, Jimmy Braddock and Jimmy Adams.

Wide search will also be made for other eligible boxers over 175 pounds. Julian Black, Joe Louis' manager, announced that the negro's European trip has been cancelled.

Max Schmeling, who has been wanting a chance to get at the title since he defeated Louis last year, has emphatically refused to enter this tournament saying it is a mere trick to prevent him taking the title from Louis.—United Press.

ARMSTRONG WINS

Detroit, Aug. 31.

Henry Armstrong, 131½ lb., gained a technical knock-out decision over Orville Drouillard, 134 lb. of Windsor, Ontario, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout to-day.

In the fourth round, Armstrong floored Drouillard for nine, only the bell saving him. In the next round, Drouillard was so battered that he was hanging to the ropes for support.—United Press.

BOWLS TOURNAMENT Quarter-Final Singles

Two quarter-finals in the bowls singles championship were played at the Hongkong F.C. yesterday, U. M. Omar beating G. H. Sheriff and S. Randle defeating A. S. Gomes 21-20.

While the game between Randle and Gomes was the more exciting in view of the close scores, the Omar-Sheriff match provided the higher standard. Omar won 21-13 after trailing for several heads when he was overwhelmed by the more consistent drawing of Sheriff, who led 9-3 on the eighth. Omar then pulled up well to pass him on the 12th with a three by trailing the Jack after the umpire had announced it was a measure for the shot.

Then with two, three, two, two and one Omar went to 17-10 and from then onward was seldom in danger of being overtaken. He was playing much more consistently at this stage than at the start, and his last wood, when he had the Jack, was seldom more than a foot away.

Sheriff failed to maintain the same high standard he set at the start but even towards the end he sent up some good woods.

RANDLE'S LUCK

Randle must consider himself lucky to be in the semi-final. It was a ding-dong struggle right through, and on the 22nd Gomes was leading 20-19. Randle had two woods a couple of feet away, but with his last Gomes drew the shot. Randle attempted to push it through with his last but was hopelessly narrow. The wood, however, hit up one of his own front ones to give him the shot by a fraction of an inch!

On the 23rd Randle put his first a few inches behind the Jack and this remained the shot until the end to give Randle the match.

At the K.C.C., H. A. Alves defeated L. F. Xavier, 21-13. He was the more consistent but at the start Xavier was more impressive. He went into a lead of 11-5 but scored only two shots afterwards as he his opponent registered 16. The game finished on the 23rd head.

On Tuesday, A. S. Russell eliminated J. S. Landolt 21-20 at the K.C.C.

TWO NEW RECORDS

Danish Girl Breaks Old Swimming Marks

Aarhus, Sept. 1.

Hild Hveger, broke two women's free style swimming records to-day.

In the 400 yards race, she timed at 5.14, compared with Miss T. Wagner's (Holland) previous mark of 5.22 and in the 500 yards she was timed at 5.37.9, which easily beats the old record, also held by Miss Wagner, of 5.49.8.—Reuter.

SOUTH CHINA'S GALA

MAK WAI-MING WINS THE INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The versatility of Mak Wai-ming, swimmer and long distance swimmer, style, gained for him the individual championship of the South China Athletic Association this year in its annual swimming championships which concluded last night. Norman Lee was ousted from the coveted position by the point.

The approaching typhoon made the water choppy and difficult for swimming, but despite this Norman Lee lowered the Kwangtung record for the 100 metres back-stroke when he checked 43.4/5 sec. He scored his second win in the 50 metres which in 29.4/5 sec, a remarkable time considering the conditions. Mak Wai-ming swam extremely well to return 3 min. 13.1/5 sec. for the 200 metres breast stroke. The Ladies Individual Championship was won by Miss Sun Wai-yeung.

At the conclusion the prizes were distributed by the Vice President, Mr. Chan Man-chi.

Did you fall in love at first sight?

WHAT is love at first? Neither science nor chemistry can account for it. People who believe in horoscopes say that the answer can be found in the magnetism of the planets which were in the ascendant when each of the two people was born. That their ruling planets generate an irresistible force which draws them together. That they are affinities, made for one another.

Recently we published an article giving a guide to affinities and antipathies. The exact minute of birth is necessary to determine accurately our individual natures, but the sun's position at birth will reveal our general characteristics.

Even if you are a bit sceptical about the stars and the effect they have on you, it is fun to try to work out your affinities. And this article will tell you something about their characters.

April 19

ARIES: This sign marks the beginning of the Zodiac year, and people born under it are pioneers and explorers. Their sign ruler is Mars, belonging to the fiery group. Their natures are possessive and inclined to be domineering; they can be led by tact and affection, but can never be ruled. Opposition only drives them further in the opposite direction; praise and sympathy will bring out the best in them. Arians will get on best with Sagittarians or Leo people, and the near degrees of Gemini or Aquarius will be congenial.

April 20 to

TAURUS is an earthy sign, and the ruler is Venus, who bestows a magnetic personality and usually great physical beauty. These people are hard workers, and most of them acquire comparative riches, but they will be obstinate and unadaptable. Slow to anger, they will be unappeasable once they are aroused; the best way to get round them will be to appeal to their sense of humour. Virgo and Capricorn people will be most sympathetic to them, and Cancer and Pisces are also congenial signs.

June 20

GEMINI: This element here is air, giving intellectual attainments, but their ruler, Mercury, that brilliant but unstable person, makes them too facile for depth. Their partners for life will need to be adaptable and long-suffering, for Gemini people will always be restless and changeable in their moods. They can be brilliant, charming, and very companionable. Probably they will never save money, but, however exasperating they may be, it will be hard not to fall under their spell. Partners in marriage should come from Libra or Aquarius for compatibility, but Aries and Leo would also be sympathetic.

July 22

CANCER: The sign ruler is the moon, and the element is water. These people are difficult to understand. Apparently easily influenced, disliking discord or publicity, they will nevertheless hold firmly to an opinion or an idea. They may possess artistic ability, and are sensitive and easy hurt. They need very sympathetic treatment, and would get on best with Scorpio or Pisces people, though Virgo and Taurus are also congenial signs.

July 23 to

August 22

LEO: This is a fiery sign, and the ruler is the sun. Leo people are and the open air, and seldom re-rarely mean or small-minded. Loyal, generous, proud, possessing a natural dignity, they make wonderful friends or marriage partners, but implacable enemies once they have been deceived.

They are rarely quarrelsome, and it is hard to break down their natural reserve. Utterly fearless, they are hard to intimidate. For complete harmony marriage partners should be chosen from the signs of Aries or Sagittarius, Gemini and Libra people would also get on well with them.

August 23 to

September 22

VIRGO: Here the element is earth, and the sign ruler Mercury. Virgo people are extremely critical, and possess the analytical faculty to a high degree. They have excellent memories, and are a fair for scientific research. They hate inaccuracy or interference in their affairs; at heart are extremely affectionate, even sentimental, when drawn out. Marriage partners should be chosen from Capricorn or Taurus, but Scorpio or Cancer should be harmonious.

October 22

LIBRA: This sign is in the Airy Group, and the ruler is Venus. Librans are fastidious, sensitive to beauty, critical, just, and though unassertive as a rule they usually get their own way. They will have natural good taste and discrimination, and will probably excel in one of the arts. Aquarius, Gemini, Leo and Sagittarius will be sympathetic.

October 23 to

November 21

SCORPIO: The sign ruler here is Mars, and the element is water. These are masterful, possessive, and self-controlled people. They possess considerable personal magnetism and tremendous will-power and will gain their objectives despite every obstacle. Demonstrative in love, Scorpio men will sweep the object of their affections off their feet. Too much of their own way will make them domineering, sarcastic, and complacent; they need to be handled tactfully. Pisces or Cancer people would make ideal companions, and Virgo and Capricorn should also be congenial.

November 22 to

SAGITTARIUS: This is a fiery sign and the ruler is Jupiter. Optimistic, unconventional, ambitious, but careless about possessions, Sagittarians are cultured and independent. They are usually fond of games and the open air, and seldom reuse a sporting chance. Gambling is often a weakness, but a sense of humour and a ready wit will more than make up for deficiencies. Leo, Aries, Aquarius and Libra are compatible signs. Affinities of Aquarians will be found in the signs of Libra or Gemini. Aries and Sagittarians are also congenial.

December 22 to

January 19

CAPRICORN: Here the ruler is Saturn, who bestows reliability, perseverance, and a sense of duty. It is an earthy sign, and the natives will be thrifty and inclined to be serious.

Usually sincere and faithful in their affections, they are subject to moods, and will need bright and cheerful people around them. Taurus or Virgo people being most congenial, but Aries and Scorpio are both sympathetic.

January 20 to

February 19

AQUARIUS is an airy sign, and has two rulers. Saturn brings acceptance of existing conditions; Uranus is enterprising and progressive.

February 20 to

March 20

PISCES: This is a watery sign, and the natives are usually great travellers. The sign rulers are Jupiter and Neptune. Adaptable, pliable, easily led, these people have nevertheless considerable strength of character.

They are extremely sympathetic, and possess an affectionate nature, but are not renowned for their constancy. Cancer and Scorpio are congenial, and Taurus and Capricorn also produce compatible types. People who are born when the sun is passing from one sign to another, that is, about the 21st of each month, inherit the characteristics of both signs, the predominating qualities depending upon the time of birth.

MOTORISTS TALK IT OVER

They Are Out to Trick Us!

BY
T. H. WISDOM

BRITISH folk hate being "tricked"—it's an un-Englishish. Which is why motorists get so wrathful, for motoring, nowadays, is a business in which minor and major officials, police, motor trade etc. are out to catch us. Motoring, a pleasant enough affair if you are lucky all the time, is reaching the stage where it will be safest to have a lawyer with you if you propose going for a Sunday afternoon run.

None of us mind a "fair cop"—not much anyway—but it's the "silly" business that gets us and makes us wish vehemently that the A.A. and the R.A.C. were as pushful and protestant as the cyclists' organisations—good luck to 'em. As soon as we get behind the wheel, but there are some 2,000 involved, and sometimes, quite ridiculous laws, we can break. The professional house-breaker, with whom we are regarded as equals by authority, is troubled only by one.

Look how they have tricked us over the £100,000,000 Five-Year-Road-Plan, which, officially, is to be quickly forgotten. At the moment I am not much impressed by other Ministry of Transport "stunts."

Police Methods

LANCASHIRE police have 50 or so neat and dignified "family" cars—Austin "Fourtens" that have superchargers under their bonnets. I had a ride in one last week—gosh, it could go! Look how they "pick and choose"—in the Mall the other day they "picked" a fellow doing 31 m.p.h. just as he was passed by two other cars that went scot-free. There is a "fink" sign down in Devon by which the local "cop" stands for an hour a day when you don't stop—no question of danger, mind you—no asks to see your licence and makes quite certain, first of all, that you're not a "local" with influence. Visitors are fair game. Mr. A. Rudge, of Knighton, tells me of police constables in his district who hide in hedges to catch motorists at "fink" signs. Most motorists in the district know when it is happening and are duly warned, but the visitor, of course, gets caught. Perfectly legal, but "tricky."

Petrol Ring

A READER writes, "I have never referred before to the petrol-ring 'ramp.' He says that the petrol companies exploit the motor industry. I don't agree. And he wants to know what the motoring associations are doing in motorists' interests. He says he resigned from one in disgust. He has one final complaint—the timid and half-hearted efforts at criticism by motoring editors generally."

Well, I've been called many things by my readers, but never mind. Not so long ago the printer sent me back my weekly article about the roads scandal—said he couldn't print it: the words were burning holes in the paper.

Colour Counts

A SPEED-OP friend of mine—oh, yes, I have some friends even among the police—tells me that the light-coloured sporty-looking type of car is more likely to get you into trouble than a dark, squarish "family" machine. Then there are the driving-testers. Every day I get letters of complaint about them. There is that "trick" order some of them issue while the would-be driver is going through the test—he says "straight on" when the lights are against you. If, foolishly, you think him the biggest niao on earth for the moment, and start to obey him, he'll "plough" you. And laugh about it with his fellow-testers in the "local" that night. One of my readers has an artificial leg. He drives quite well—disabled drivers are often safer than those with their full physical capabilities. When he went for his test the tester

DOCTOR IN LIONS' DEN

STRANGE THEORY TESTED

One thousand doctors in Belfast last month saw probably the strangest entertainment ever staged at a British Medical Association conference.

They saw Dr. R. H. Hunter, Curator of Belfast Zoo, make good a promise to delegates to the Association meeting.

He told them that lion-taming was better than golf for slimming, and that he would give a demonstration of lion-taming as a concluding thrill.

He entered the cage of two untamed lionesses, watched by a crowd of delegates, their wives, and daughters. He was in evening dress, with a buttonhole of carnations.

Armed only with an iron prong and a whip, he subdued the snarling beasts.

He stayed in the cage for four minutes, but that was too long for some of the crowd, and there were shouts of "Come out of it. That's enough."

Several times during the demonstration Tixi, the more savage of the pair, snarled, but a prod with the prong was sufficient to make her retreat.

When Dr. Hunter came out of the cage he was bathed in perspiration.

"It's a tough job," he said, "especially as these lions are by no means trained. But, as I said before, it is a better exercise than golf for slimming."

"I have given up golf altogether for lion-taming. Golf is far too slow in comparison."

"I get as much exercise in half an hour in a lion's den as a week's golf would give me, and you need to be ace fit for it."

"Every minute in the cage you have to be intensely alert. If you slacken off, you may easily be all up." The doctors were impressed, but not all converted. "When there are as many lion cages as golf clubs in the country I may think of it, but bunters will do, for me for the present," one delegate commented.

Progress in Science Threatens Employment

MENACE TO LABOUR—Following the report of the National Resources Committee and other research organizations, President Roosevelt predicted that by 1960 American labour might pay a heavy price in unemployment for the country's scientific progress through inventions. The report advised that the government keep an eye on many of the devices. Above are some of them. Upper left, a television scene wherein Hildegarde, radio singer, was telecast during a test from Radio City, New York. Upper right, a fabricated house, displayed on Park Avenue, New York. Centre, the Rust mechanical cotton picker. Lower left, Dr. W. F. Gerlicke of Berkeley, Calif., examines a potato crop grown without soil in chemical-fed tray agriculture. Yield, 2,456 pounds to the acre. Lower right, conveyor pipe in a British hydrogenation plant, where Britain is speeding a process of making gasoline from coal.

TO PLOW SIX FEET DEEP—This mighty plow has been designed to drive a furrow six feet deep. Pulled by two huge tractors, it will be hauled across the Santa Ana river plains in California, to turn rich loam buried by the 1916 flood under six feet of sand. The moldboard, seven feet high, was fashioned from one piece of sheet metal. A hydraulic hoist raises the nose.

GERMANS LEFT THIS TANK—This German tank, half buried in the earth as a result of a direct hit by Loyalist artillery, was found by the Loyalists in an area they captured in the Casa del Campo sector near Madrid. It was over this territory that some of the fiercest battling of the already bloody Spanish civil war has been fought, with many killed and wounded.

RECORDS SMASHED BY STORM

Wind Velocity
Too Great For Recording

Never had he known such a destructive typhoon in the history of the Colony as that which attacked Hongkong early this morning, said Mr. C. W. Jeffries of the Royal Observatory, when issuing his official report on the gale.

The wind force was of such an intensity that the register of the Observatory's anemograph was incapable of recording the gusts. The register will only accurately record up to 125 miles per hour, but for a long time the needle was bumping the maximum point.

There is little doubt that new records were established in wind velocity.

One record, at least, was proved. When the barometer read 29.298 it was .202 lower than the existing low record established on August 18, 1933.

The typhoon has now entered the coast north west of Macao, and is probably filling up.

OFFICIAL REPORT
Here is the Royal Observatory's official report on the movement of the typhoon.

"The typhoon formed to the east of Luzon during August 28 and 30. Its position was indefinite until the afternoon of the latter date when it was situated about 300 miles N.E. of Manila, moving N.W. By the morning of August 31 it had reached the eastern extremity of the Bala-tang Channel, between Luzon and Mindanao, and was moving in a westerly direction until 6 a.m. yesterday when it was situated about 100 miles east by south of Pratas Shoal. From this period it moved west north west passing to the north of Pratas Shoal about 5 p.m. and to the north of Wogan and the south of the Royal Observatory between 7 and 4 a.m. to-day. The stand-by signal No. 1 was hoisted at 12.35 a.m. yesterday and signal No. 5 denoting that a gale from the north-west at 3.20 p.m. The No. 10 denoting a wind of typhoon force was expected was hoisted at 1.50 a.m. and bombs were fired at 2.10 a.m.

The wind increased rapidly in force until 2 a.m. blowing from the north and veering towards the east after 3.30 a.m. By this time the squalls were of a phenomenal intensity, many occurring which exceeded the capacity of the register of the anemograph, that is, greater than 125 m.p.h.

The lowest reading of the barometer was 29.298 between 3.45 a.m. and 3.50 a.m.

HEAVY RAINFALL
The rainfall amounted to 5.055 inches between 10.30 a.m. yesterday and 7.30 a.m. to-day.

The typhoon has entered the coast and is probably filling up to the north west of Macao. After passing Pratas yesterday the storm gave no indication of the intensity which characterised its passage across the Colony. It is doubtful if a storm of greater severity and destructive power has ever visited the Colony.

The barometer minimum of 29.298 compares with the previous lowest reading of 29.500 on August 18, 1933.

PALESTINE RIOTING

Jerusalem, Sept. 1.
Four more persons were killed to-day as a result of clashes between Arabs and Jews.

Jewish leaders have issued a proclamation in similar terms used by the Arab Higher Committee yesterday, urging their people to keep calm. Police and aircraft are standing by for emergencies.—Reuter.

BIG BATTLE EXPECTED IN S'HAH AREA

British Troops Hold Position Although Bombs Fall Near-By

Shanghai, Sept. 2 (4.11 a.m.).

The setting for Japan's prospective big push on all fronts in the Shanghai and Woosung areas is being completed.

Yesterday's fighting was severe, although it was regarded only as a curtain raiser.

The positions appear to be unchanged, although the Japanese bombings were exceptionally severe. Seven bombs fell within 100 yards of an outpost held by a party of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers on the western outskirts of Shanghai near the Shanghai-Hangchow railway line but despite the danger the men did not withdraw. Two Chinese, however, were killed.

WILL RELY ON PRESENT FLEET

New York, Sept. 1.

After a conference between President Roosevelt and Admiral Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, officials declared that the United States were relying on existing naval vessels in the Far East to evacuate Americans who are still in the danger zones, and that there was no need for additional vessels.

According to officials, the President and Admiral Leahy went over the whole problem of the Sino-Japanese situation.—Reuter.

BIGGER FLEET

New York, Sept. 1.

Following the bombing of the President Hoover, consideration has been given to the question of augmenting the United States naval fleet in Shanghai and its vicinity in order to aid evacuation.

The conference was preceded by a long luncheon party between President Roosevelt and Mr. Robert W. Bingham, British Ambassador in London, who is on holiday in the United States at present.

Following his conference, Mr. Bingham said that he and the President had discussed world conditions in general and the Far Eastern crisis "to some extent."

Asked whether the United States and Britain contemplated further joint action in the Sino-Japanese crisis, Mr. Bingham replied that any statement would have to come from the Department of State.

"I don't believe war is imminent in Europe, apart from the Spanish conflict," added Mr. Bingham.—Reuter.

TENSION RELIEVED

Washington, Sept. 1.

"American ships will be given access to Chinese waters," stated Mr. Roper, Secretary of the Commerce Department, who said that the tension in the Far East had been relieved.

It is expected that American cargo and passenger ships will be permitted to enter freely into Chinese waters soon but Mr. Roper added that the American Government had to proceed upon a daily, and well-nigh and hourly basis, dependant on

Gen. Feng Yu-shiang, the "Christian General," told interviewers that the Chinese would fight to the bitter end for the sake of world peace and China's own existence. He paid a tribute to the Chinese commanders, who he said were mindful only of their "divine duties."

Chinese quarters regard the disembarkation of Japanese troops in the eastern district of the Settlement as a confession of little success attending the landing operations on the Liao-Woosung coastline and assert that the presence of the Japanese troops is final confirmation that the Japanese are using the Settlement as a base of operations.

Besides munitions and other war material the Japanese also landed in this section of the Settlement four or six-inch guns mounted on caterpillars.

Eight Japanese transports laden with reinforcements, tanks and artillery have arrived at Woosung. Under an escort a Japanese warship went to Lihue where the troops aboard were landed.

Woosung in Ruins

Warfare has laid Woosung in ruins. Among the buildings demolished are the Tungshui University, run by Germans for Chinese students, and the American mortgaged Wing On Cotton mills, owned by British and Australian-born Chinese. The bombing of the Tungshui University was so intensive that even bomb proof dug-outs had to be evacuated.—Reuter.

Major Operations Expected

Shanghai, Sept. 1.

Major operations along the Woosung are expected within the next 48 hours, it was predicted by military observers here to-night.

Crack Chinese troops are now pouring into Yuehpu, a small town about a mile and half northwest of Paoshan and a mile south of Lion Forest Fort. All necessary preparations have been completed by the Chinese to meet what is expected to be the first serious land operations around the Shanghai vicinity.

It is also disclosed to-night that 2,000 Japanese landed last night around Woosung Village and the Woosung Fort area.

The Japanese are expected to launch their initial drive at Yuehpu where they hope to establish a direct link with the Japanese flanks at Lotienchen and Woosung.

If the Japanese succeed in coordinating their forces, they are expected to launch a general offensive on the Chinese positions in the Kiangwan sectors and from there on to the rear of the Chinese lines in Chapei.

Meanwhile, the Chinese have reinforced their defences at Patschiao, or Eight Character Bridge, on Liuying Road in Chapei.—Central News.

More Reinforcements

Shanghai, Sept. 1.

Eight Japanese merchantmen, all fully loaded with troop reinforcements from Japan, arrived off the mouth of the Whangpoo River shortly before midnight last night, it was disclosed to-day. One of the vessels, accompanied by a warship, proceeded to the vicinity of Lihue.—Central News.

Reinforcements From Tientsin

Paoing, Sept. 1.

According to military intelligence received here to-day, 1,000 Japanese attached to artillery units left Tientsin to-day for Yangluoching, about 20 miles west of Tientsin.

Another detachment of the Kwangtung Army arrived in Tientsin to-day and are being billeted in the Pailien barracks.—Central News.

developments as they occurred.—Reuter.

"Britain is so much more formidable and dangerous than I hoped she would be creating an influence for peace," declared Mr. Bingham.

Reports that British and American naval commanders at Shanghai were discussing the possibility of convoys to escort evacuation vessels are treated with circumspection by the Department of State, which takes the view that such a step would require Mr. Roosevelt's approval.—Reuter.
